Live News From Arago

The two high school Sunday school classes drove to Bandon Sunday and picnicked on the beach. The boys' class furnished the transportation, while the girls furnished the food. The arrangement proved so enjoyable that they voted to repeat the performance soon. Those present were Iris and Genevieve Barklow, Lodeana and Yvonne Cross, Mary and Jean Watkins, Annie Deardorff, Lois and Price Schroeder, Charles Webb, Clyde Lillie, Herbert and Melden Carl, Merle Randleman, Freddie Vetter, Ellis and Maxine Rackleff, Mrs. Lawrence Rackleff, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Watkins and daughter, Anne.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lillie, of Portland, visited on Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Oluf Aasen, proceeding from there to Bandon where they visited the ladies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Haberly.

Mrs. S. C. McAllister moved to the Zumwalt apartments in Myrtle Point Thursday. She has been staying with Mrs. Lily Dement since her husband's accident. Mary Jean who has been staying with her aunt, Mrs. Oluf Aasen, is staying in the apartment with her mother and driving back and forth to school with Mrs. Winifred Ray. They will remain in Myrtle Point as long as Mr. McAllister is in the hospital.

Mrs. Albert Lillie was out Sunday for the first time since she became ill with flu before Easter.

Mrs. Orvus Miller and baby daughter have returned to their home on Fishtrap.

Mrs. Alvin Billings was taken to her home in Arago Thursday, where she will recuperate from her recent goitre operation. Alvina Billings returned to school Monday after a week's absence with a bad sore throat.

Mrs. Edith Woodward and her daughter, Miss Edythe, returned to their home in Arago Saturday for the summer. They have spent the past winter in Fairview where Miss Edythe has been teaching school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hill, of La Grande, arrived Saturday evening for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Watkins and family, the occasion being the graduation of their grand daughter, Mary, from Arago high school. They made the entire trip from La Grande in one day, arriving in Myrtle Point about seven-thirty. The distance is almost six hundred miles.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Watkins returned to their home Friday after spending two weeks in Bandon. Their grand daughter, Mrs. John Damron, and her two children drove up with them. She returned to Bandon Sunday night after Baccalaureate services.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Watkins spent Wednesday visiting in Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hampton spent Sunday visiting her father, B. S. Wallen, who was dressed and able to walk outside for the first time in more than two months. He has been suffering from a muscular ailment.

Earl Downing conducted the morning service at Arago Sunday. Mrs. Ray Parker sang, "In the Wilderness."

Ray Parker is suffering from a torn rib and is well strapped up.

The high school boys hauled gravel Tuesday and repaired the driveway on the school grounds.

"The Flatterer" was presented to a capacity house in the Arago gymnasium Friday evening. The cast was very well selected and each did his or her part in a splendid manner. The staging was excellent and each speech was well articulated. Wallace Carl played the title role of the dignified banker as if the part had been written for him. His restrained love-making was almost perfection itself. Mary Watkins as the industrious mother who put her own wishes after those of her two sons, seemed almost too small for her responsibilities and finally yielded to the pleas of the "Flatterer" after her sons had worked out their own destinies. Bill Sinko, the hero, was the thoughtful son whose business ventures succeeded in spite of the crafty work of his stingy aunt, ably portrayed by Annie Deardorff, and her son, an invalid by choice, Ray Cornwell. The hero was ably assisted in his enterprises by his sweetheart, whose eavesdropping propensities made possible a solution to all the troubles in the play. This was enthusiastically portrayed by Iris Barklow. The parts with few lines were so well characterized that they seemed as important as the longer ones as each one stood out in a most praiseworthy manner. Woodrow Robison as the irate farmer, will make all the audience smile for some time to come as they remember his anger. Leatha Munford as the ne-gress in dazzling array, kept everyone laughing. Evelyn Doyle as the lovely siren, who disappointed the poet, was the most talked of girl in the play and this made her appearance more impressive. Hazel Miller whose beauty of face and name appeared the forlorn lover, and the poet himself, Lee Collier, who had so little sympathy with his practical mother and brother, had a difficult role but he showed that it is not impossible for a regular athlete to portray a sissy poet when it is necessary. Price Schroeder was very convincing as the accommodating uncle. All in all it was a smooth production with all roles equally well presented and the director, Ray Parker, is to be congratulated on his choice and training of such a fine cast.

Albert Gulstrom, who was so seriously injured April 26, seems to be holding his strength, although his condition is still very serious and painful.

Miss Opal Robison drove to Portland this week-end to take her state examinations as a beauty operator. She has been attending the beauty school in Marshfield.

The Baccalaureate services for the senior class were held Sunday evening in the gymnasium. Rev. W. Raymond Wilder, of Coquille, delivered the sermon with the invocation and benediction given by T. B. MacDonald. By special request of the class, Mr. Wilder also sang a solo, which was appreciated by all. Mrs. Oluf Aasen played the marches for the class and also played a beautiful piano solo.

The Pollyana club met at the home of Mrs. Gordon Fleming Wednesday for a potluck dinner at noon and sewing in the afternoon. Those present were Mesdames Glenn Robison, Wendell Robison, Marvin Shaw, Everett Lafferty, Adrian Halter, Frank Burbank and Mrs. Floyd Jackson, of Coquille, and the hostess.

John Henry Schroeder had his tonsils removed Saturday morning. He has had some bad attacks of tonsillitis this past winter.

A May day meeting of the missionary society was held at the Nile Miller home. May baskets were brought by each one attending. They were distributed and admired and then sent to the hospitals in Myrtle Point and Coquille. Mrs. Ray Parker had charge of the following program: a solo by Mrs. Fred Lafferty, who also read a beautiful poem by Annie Johnson Flint sent in by Mrs. T. B. MacDonald, and a very interesting discussion of two articles in a recent Christian Herald by Mr. Downing of Coquille.

Fairview

F. P. Phillips, former master of the Fairview Grange, resigned at the last meeting and left for Yoncalla, where he will join Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips in their new home. Several of the Fairview boys were in the F. F. A. delegation that went to Corvallis last week-end. They were Clynard Holverstok, Bud Berry and Harold Neal.

The commencement exercises of the 1935 eighth graduates of the Fairview school were well attended by folks in the community. Miss Edythe Woodward announced the program which contained several songs and recitations by the younger folks, short talks by each graduate, the class will and prophecy and a speech by Supt. P. W. Lane of Coquille. Mr. Lane was accompanied by Mrs. Lane, Miss Stanley and Mr. Bettys, who brought with him an old school record dating back to 1881. Many who attended the exercises remarked upon the way in which Mr. Lane presented the subject of education to the class and were highly pleased with his talk.

Harold Henagin suffered a severe injury to his right leg when a horse he was turning out, became panicky and plunged through a barb wire fence. The wire cut a gash several inches long in Mr. Henagin's leg.

Tuesday, May 7th, Viola Johnson reached her 18th birthday. Congratulations are extended to these young ladies and many happy returns!
