Nine measures will appear on the November ballot—one as a result of a referendum invoked against the old age pension act of the 1935 special session and eight initiatives.

The legislative act on which the voters will be asked to pass judgment would have reduced the age minimum for old age pension recipients to 65 years. In addition it sought to divert $1,000,000 of old age pension money to other relief needs. The referendum on this act has already accomplished its purpose—saving the legislative appropriation for old age pensions and enabling the state to co-operate with the federal government and receive the benefit of federal funds for the assistance of the needy aged.

Three of the initiated measures are sponsored by the State Grange with the State Federation of Labor joining in the sponsorship of two. One of these seeks to create a state-owned bank to act as depository for all funds of the state and its numerous political subdivisions and to do a general banking business. Another seeks to put the state in the power business with an elective non-partisan commission of three members authorized to buy electric energy from the federal government at Bonneville and transmit it to the point of consumption either over federally financed lines or lines to be financed by the state. The third of this group of measures is a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the board of control to administer the power act until the three-member commission can be elected.

The other five measures can be briefly summarized as follows: Proposed constitutional amendment to forbid interference with truthful advertising by any business, vocation or profession. Sponsored by S. T. Donohue of Eugene.

Bill forbidding use of seines or other fixed appliances in fishing on Columbia river. Sponsored by E. A. Storvik and George H. A. Roden, of Astoria.

Noncompulsory military training bill aimed at military drill at state university and college. Sponsored by Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom.

Constitutional amendment authorizing Portland school district to exceed six percent increase for 1937 levy. Sponsored by Portland school directors and affiliated Council of Portland teachers.

Constitutional amendment limiting tax levies against property for 1937 to levy for 1935 with compulsory reduction of four percent a year for next five years. Sponsored by group of Marion county taxpayers.

Fifteen proposed measures failed to qualify for a place on the ballot. The list includes three old age pension measures; three fishing measures, two measures striking at the Knox liquor control act, four measures dealing with the subject of taxation and licenses and three others.

With the resignation of Judd Greenman, chairman of the state relief committee, and the appointment of three new members to the committee the controversy over relief expenditures generated by Governor Martin's "crack down" on relief affairs seems to be at an end. Elmer Goudy, relief administrator, who was believed to be slated for the skids, appears to have successfully weathered another political upheaval and will probably retain his position. Hugh G. Ball, Hood River newspaper man, has succeeded Greenman as a member of the state committee. David B. Simpson, Portland real estate man, and Mark Wetherford, Albany attorney, were named to fill the vacancies caused by the earlier resignations of E. R. Bryson, of Eugene, and Miss Celia Gavin of The Dalles.

Present indications are that Oregon will collect more than $10,000,000 in gasoline taxes during the current year. Collections for the first five months of 1936 total $3,727,389 with the biggest motoring months still to come.

Two minor political parties have served notice on Secretary of State Snell of their intention to enter the Oregon political arena.

The "Union" party of which William Lemke, of Minneapolis, is the national standard bearer, expects to put a full state ticket into the field. Peter Zimmerman, of Yamhill county, former state senator and independent candidate for governor in 1934, heads the new party's state control committee. Other members of the committee are practically unknown to Oregon politics. They include G. W. Thiessen, of Milwaukie, J. Henry Jacobsen, of Hillsboro; Frank C. Fluke, of Beaverton, and Frank Saalfeld, of Gervais. To qualify as a political party in this state the sponsors must file petitions containing at least 14,670 names of registered voters with the state department by September 18.

Oregon Socialists have also announced their intention of getting behind Norman Thomas, their presidential candidate, in a big way this fall. A state convention will be held in Salem next Sunday to nominate candidates for state and federal officers on the Socialist ticket.

A committee from the state capital commission, accompanied by competent engineers, will soon make a tour of the state for the purpose of inspecting deposits of marble, granite and stone to determine the availability of this material for use in the new state house. Among deposits to be visited will be a huge marble deposit in Walla Walla county whose owners have offered to give the state, without cost except for quarrying and freight, all the marble needed for the capitol. Deposits in the vicinity of Baker and Ashland and in central Oregon will also be inspected on the tour.

The state land board distributed $324,563.75 among the counties this week, representing the interest accumulations for the past year on loans from the irreducible school fund. Allocated on the basis of 258,244 children on the school census rolls the amount represents $1.25 per capita. Multnomah county with 78,031 children between the ages of four and 20 years received the lion's share of the fund, $97,538.75. Marion county received the next largest amount, $22,346.25; Coos, $10,076.25; Curry, $1,481.25.

Ninety-five per cent of the veterans who were delinquent on their bonus loans are "showing a splendid spirit of co-operation," according to Jerrold Owen, secretary to the World War Veterans State Aid commission. Only five per cent of the delinquent borrowers are not showing any disposition to pay up. In this latter category are "a few individuals of prominence in veteran and civic affairs who feel they are persons of influence and that the commission dares not take action against them." These individuals, Owen warns, have a surprise in store for them in the form of foreclosure suits to be filed the latter part of this month.

A more adequate parole staff and a more liberal parole policy rather than more institutions is the answer to Oregon's penal problem in the opinion of W. L. Gosselin, private secretary to Governor Martin and member of the state parole board. Gosselin advocates the employment of at least four field men to assist the present parole officers. With this added supervision, he declares, a more liberal parole policy would be justified, thus reducing the penitentiary population and, incidentally, the cost of maintaining that institution.

Deadmond, Fairview; Mrs. Everett Messerle, Catching Inlet; and Mrs. Hilda Reiher, Glasgow.

The camp will be directed by Miss Jessie Palmeter, who has been assigned to devote part of her time to Home Economics extension work in Coos county during the remainder of the year, according to Mrs. Azalia Sager, state leader of Home Economics Extension, who attended the committee meeting Wednesday.

Many interesting features will be provided for the home makers who attend camp, Miss Palmeter stated, including swimming, nature study, crafts, camp fire program, a choice of literary and other activities. Every camper will be free to spend her time as she wishes. These various features of instruction will be provided only for those who wish to participate. It is planned to make the camp a real vacation for every one who attends.

The last day of camp on Sunday, August 9, will be family day when all families of the campers will be invited to be guests of the camp. There will be no dish washing, meal planning, nor cooking required of the campers as an excellent cook and assistants are employed for this purpose, it was stated.

The cost to each camper for the five-day period will be $4.00. While cash is preferred, arrangements may be made to pay part of this amount with supplies, according to the committee chairman.

The facilities of Eel Creek camp are being made available for this affair through the co-operation of the Forest Service and its local representative, A. T. Osborne, of Lakeside. Exclusive use of parts of the camp including the community kitchen and the camp fire site will be reserved for the use of the group.

Those attending will be asked to provide tents and cots this year but an effort will be made to secure this equipment for those who do not have or cannot make arrangements to secure it.

Enrollment cards may be secured from the county agent's office or from members of the committee mentioned and those planning to attend are requested to register as early as possible. This is one of fifteen similar camps in Oregon, which will be directed by the Extension Service this summer.
