Miss Palmiter Addresses Club

Jessie Palmiter, home demonstration agent, was guest speaker at B. P. W. Monday evening. Miss Palmiter is a home economics demonstrator-at-large, loaned by the Oregon State College to Coos and Douglas counties for an indefinite time. Miss Palmiter told of interesting things done in the Portland club, of which she is a member but most entertaining of all was her explanation of the Eel Creek Homemakers' vacation camp for Coos and Douglas counties. The direction of this camp was her first project for this county.

She stated that the camp afforded an opportunity for women who were unused to recreation, to free themselves from home cares for a few days at a very minimum expense. Several interesting features were provided for the camp. A specialist in music held classes in music appreciation. Basketry, swimming, knitting, were other subjects taught.

The women in the camp were divided into three groups which took turns in providing each of the three: songs, program and newspaper.

Each evening an informal program was presented around the camp.

Miss Palmiter will carry on home economics projects at Gaylord, North Bayside, Bandon, Catching Inlet, Fairview and Arago. The groups will meet once a month in all day meetings from 10 to 3 p. m. and anyone is free to come. Thus the extension program in home economics is bringing the college to those interested who cannot go to college. Miss Palmiter will be serving Coos county the last two weeks of every month. She has been provided with an office in the basement of the court house.

The meeting was held in Margarita Brodie's new residence on Elliott street. At the close, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The writer would like to add her approval to the plan of recreation camp for women. One evening, in company with Mrs. J. L. Stacer, Mrs. O. C. Sanford and Mrs. Anna Rooney, she spent at the Eel Creek camp and experienced hours of laughter. She realized what a privilege it was for women of either town or country to enjoy this diversion at such low cost.

Martha E. Mulkey, publicity chairman.

Townsend Club Notes

The Coquille Townsend Club met Tuesday evening in regular session with the vice-president, Levi Bunch, presiding.

The orchestra played several good numbers, after which George Swinney gave his report on the Cleveland Townsend convention. It was enjoyed very much.

Steve Dey was called upon for a report on the convention held in Eugene August 9. There were nine delegates from Coquille who went to the convention.

Next Tuesday evening the club is planning a social time. A program is being prepared and refreshments will be served.

All Townsend members and friends are invited to attend all meetings.

Republicans to Convene at Bay

Republican workers of Coos county have been summoned to meet in Marshfield on August 24 and confer with state leaders on county organization plans, according to an official call by Arthur W. Prialux, state chairman.

General arrangements for the meeting are in charge of Harry A. Slack, chairman of the county central committee, Mary Randleman, secretary of the county committee, and Marvin Skipworth, state committee-man.

The meeting will be held at night, will be open to all party workers and will be participated in by precinct workers, members of the Oregon Republican club, the Young Republicans, the Landon-Knox Veterans' club, Pro America and all other interested republican groups.
