County C. of C. to Take in Curry County Chambers

(Western World)

Problems confronting the harbor at the mouth of the Coquille river were discussed at the meeting of the Coos County Chamber of Commerce, held at the Minute Cafe in Bandon Monday evening, and a resolution was adopted asking the U. S. Board of Engineers to immediately put a suitable dredge to work to increase the depth of water on the bar to the 13-foot project depth.

Victor Laivo, captain of the bar tug Kihyam, explained the difficulty encountered in carrying on local commerce because of lack of water due to shoals now existing. He pointed out the hindrance and expressed fears for timely passage of vessels during the coming summer unless something is done to remedy the situation.

J. E. Norton, president of the Port of Bandon, gave a review of efforts to secure federal co-operation in improving harbor conditions. He stated that he overheard the statements of high officials in the army engineering service to the effect that the north jetty must be built out to extend farther than the south jetty in order to make the local harbor a success. In addition to increased water on the bar, vessels must be protected from the cross currents that exist during the summer season, he declared. Often the channel that must be followed out to sea extends close to the south jetty, and unless the bar tug is able to keep vessels headed straight ahead the vessels are in danger of being thrown upon the sunken portion of the south jetty. If the north jetty were extended, even 500 feet, such protection would be afforded.

Co-operation of chambers of commerce of both Coos and Curry counties toward working for the development of this entire coastal area, was suggested by Gilbert E. Gable, who talked on Bandon's present problems. He voiced his opinion that chambers in Port Orford and Gold Beach should be included in the present organization. He also reviewed his visit on behalf of the Port of Bandon before the Washington engineers, setting forth their arguments for not approving a 16-foot project for the mouth of the Coquille river. The annual amortization cost of such a project, the engineers contend, would be far in excess of the community benefits based upon present commerce figures in their possession, however, he said, they did agree that the 13-foot project should be maintained and that action to that effect would be ordered immediately.

A resolution was adopted including Curry chambers of commerce in the present Coos county organization and amending the by-laws to change the name to Coos and Curry Chamber of Commerce. It was explained that before this can be done the change must be sanctioned by the individual chambers of commerce of Coos county, which it was believed would readily be done. Dr. Victor Baird, president of the Port Orford chamber, was present and made application to have Curry organizations included. C. W. Noyes, of Port Orford, secretary of the Port Orford chamber, also spoke in favor of Curry's entry.

So-called arbitrary rates charged by the Southern Pacific railroad on transcontinental shipments into this area via the Eugene-Coos Bay line, were explained by Mr. Brenne, who stated that the Coos Bay chambers have had committees working on this matter. A resolution presented by him, and which was supported by Lou Blanc, of Marshfield, who quoted specific instances of discrimination, was adopted, requesting the Southern Pacific to show why such discriminatory charges should prevail. J. E. Norton suggested that each chamber appoint a committee to study this matter in view of individual as well as united action to have such unjust charges removed.

The next meeting of the county chamber is to be held at Myrtle Point on the third Monday in July. J. E. Norton and R. L. Stewart were Coquille's delegates at the meeting.

Customers Wanted to Assault the Rough Scotchman

It was another gala day for the Scotch when McDougall-McDonald, late of the 91st Chygl Sutherland Highlanders, triumphed over Dory Detton in the headlines of the all-star wrestling card at the Community Building Wednesday night. The Scotchman kicked, punched and choked and he wasn't too particular who knew about it.

After 13 minutes of cautious wrestling in which Dory stuck to clean wrestling entirely, the McDougall man started a series of choke holds, which ended with his favorable back-breaker hold and which brought the signal of submission from Dory.

Detton sailed into his opponent with all departments of his offense clicking nicely in the second fall. The Mormon boy realized that he wouldn't get very far by sticking to clean wrestling and he made the most of his change of wind by slamming in with both fists. Dory won the second canto with an airplane spin, which he hooked on after slamming the Glasgow lad back up against the ropes.

In the last fall Dory again got his airplane spin, but in whirling his man around he let the Scotchman's feet hit the ropes. This threw the Utah boy off balance so as they came down the Scotchman was on top. While the referee held up McDougall's hand, the crowd hooted its disapproval and the Scotchman bowed with grand dignity.

In the most beautiful bout ever seen at the Community Building Marshall Carter, the brilliant University of Missouri man, took one fall in 45 minutes to win over Mickey McGuire. Not a blow was struck in the whole match. Carter won his fall after 25 minutes with his spectacular body flip. The crowd gave the boys an ovation at the final bell.

Tommy Tasso won two straight over Pug Busby in the prelim. Busby showed that he could really wrestle, by backing the Greek into corners several times. And when the Marshfield boy gets in better condition he will be a real threat.

The next wrestling at Community Building will be on Wednesday, June 2.

New Hospital to Be Built This Summer

investment what is contemplated here. The incorporation of the hospital organization, of which E. E. "Spike" Leslie is to be business manager, has not yet been effected.

Mr. Gould is planning on moving the building now on the 100x100 two-lot site to lots he owns on Fourth street, at the corner of Heath.

Present plans for construction of the modern stucco hospital building provide for its being ready for use between August 15 and September 1.

Reports heretofore published that the hospital was to be located on the old Sentinel corner were never warranted for that lot could not be secured by the sponsors of the new hospital.

Council Passes Up Dogs For the Time Being (Continued from Page One) the place of business or taxi headquarters. These were the first ordinances passed by the council which took charge of city affairs January 1. The objection of the Douglas Building & Loan Assn. to being assessed for the lighting system was overruled by the council. Decision as to a pound for dogs was postponed until the June 7 meeting of the council. The five dogs which had been confined at Jack Farris' pound were ordered killed and no more dogs will be confined there. A suitable place for building the dog pound is hard to find, causing Councilman Webb to remark to Councilman Wood, "If you weren't building a pent house above the new theatre we could have a pound built there!" The marshal was instructed to investigate the cutting of timber on the city's Patterson Grove property. It was reported that it was being cut up into firewood. The appointment of Clarence Barton as deputy city attorney was confirmed by the council. He is to receive the salary budgeted for the city attorney while serving as deputy. On recommendation of Fire Chief Schram it was ordered that a fire hydrant be established on the two-inch main on the highway, midway between the high school and the R. E. Nosler property on Seventh. At the present time there is not adequate protection for houses in the vicinity of the R. A. Wernich or F. L. Greenough homes.

CROSSING THE GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE A THRILL SOON AVAILABLE TO ALL

(above) Completed Bridge and View of Marvelous Marin. (insert) Bridge Approach with San Francisco and East Bay in Background.

FIESTA will mark the opening of the new Golden Gate Bridge in a celebration lasting from May 27th to June 2nd. But every day will be a "view fiesta" for travelers crossing the giant new span. The new, unusual, panoramic views obtained from vantage points on the bridge and its approaches are so thrillingly beautiful that they will long be remembered by every passenger. Sightseers will have three ways to cross the bridge: to walk; to go by private auto; and to ride by Greyhound bus. Effective May 28th, Greyhound schedules between San Francisco and Redwood Empire will be routed across the new structure. The new schedules which go into effect at that time will show substantial reductions in running time.

Golden Gate Bridge Almost Complete

The new mile-long span across the Golden Gate between San Francisco Presidio and Marin shores is practically completed, as this recently-photographed scene bears witness. Miss Marge Blaine, western style advisor, here poses her 1937 Chevrolet Master De Luxe sport sedan between the natural frame of trees in Lincoln Park golf course by the Golden Gate. The picture was taken with a telescopic lens and yellow filter.
