Redhead Round-up at Taft Starts Sunday

Madelyn Thompson, of Oceanlake, will reign over the annual Redhead Roundup at Taft, June 19 and 20, by reason of her victory, in a spirited contest among 38 aspirants for the titan throne, which closed Tuesday evening.

Queen Madelyn, a beautiful and talented coppery-tressed miss, will be the seventh ruler of the famed Redhead festival. As an added reward for winning the Roundup tiara, the new queen will be given an expense-free trip to Alaska.

An elaborate program of entertainment has been arranged for the two-day show by Sam Slocum, director of the Roundup. The major events include a Portland to Taft bicycle marathon; a Redhead bathing beauty contest, in which 100 comely and shapely Redheads will parade before a court of judges composed of dignitaries from many sections of the northwest in competition for valuable trophies and screen tests, which will reward the three winners. The "Redskin Revels," a dancing, singing and dramatic aboriginal offering by 50 Braves and squaws of the Siletz, Coast and Umqua tribes.
