

ARAGO

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barnett have had as their guests this week Rev. and Mrs. Arthur L. Dodge and children, Mary and Lowell, of Spencer, Ohio. The Dodges left their home in northeastern Ohio near Cleveland on June 8 and have enjoyed their trip, which took them through northern Illinois and on to the Yellowstone Park. They camped for a week at Nampa, Idaho, where they attended the yearly conference of the Church of the Brethren. Mr. Dodge is a minister of that denomination. He met Jess Barnett there for the first time since they attended college together when they studied for the ministry. The Jess Barnett family formerly lived at Arago and are now in Newberg. The Dodges enjoyed their trip over the Columbia river highway and were guests in Portland of his uncle, Arthur Binkley, who is a brother of Mrs. J. W. Barnett. They were a little late for the rhododendrons on the coast highway but enjoyed their first glimpses of the Pacific ocean on Friday, arriving in Coos county that evening. On Saturday they accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Barnett and Esther to Bandon, where they caught fish from the ocean, built their fire in the shelter of the rocks and cooked and ate them. They will visit Crater lake and drive into California to see the Redwoods before they start east again. Mrs. Barnett is hoping their pleasant impressions of Oregon will give them a lasting magnet to draw them back again to be near her.

Mrs. S. C. McAllister was hostess at a birthday dinner at her home on Sunday, honoring Mr. McAllister and David Haverly, of Myrtle Point, whose birthdays occurred on June 22, and Mrs. Oluf Aasen, whose birthday was June 25. Arago is proud of the skill which made Mrs. George Gillespie winner of the first prize of $25 in merchandise in the statewide Better Homes contest, sponsored by the Oregon Farmer. The announcement appeared in the June 24 issue of the magazine. Her drawings and descriptions of the improvements in their farm home were of such excellent and inspirational character that all who read the magazine agreed with the judges in their decision and hoped to accomplish something equally excellent in their own homes.

Henry Fredenberg, who has been in ill health for some time, suffered a severe heart attack Saturday night and a second one early Sunday morning. His son, Alvin, is with him.

Mrs. Ward Evans was a charming hostess at her home on Saturday afternoon to a group of her friends, who were each given the materials to sew into a friendship block for a quilt. The afternoon passed rapidly with each vying with the other to finish the allotted task. The day was the sixth birthday of Maureen Evans and there were twenty-five children playing under the trees helping her celebrate. Late in the afternoon the children were made happy with favors and attractive plates containing individual birthday cakes, ice cream and lemonade with colored straws, to make it last longer. After refreshments, they gathered about the tiny hostess who opened many attractive gifts brought by her friends. A large birthday cake nicely decorated with candles and greetings was the centerpiece of this table. The ladies who enjoyed the afternoon were from Myrtle Point: Mrs. Elton Aasen and children, Arline and Jerry, Mrs. R. H. Lemon, Mrs. Marlin Evans and Marlene, Mrs. M. T.
