Mudding, Not Footballing

Athletes of the United States prepared for the 1940 aquatic events of the Olympic games on Golden Field at Coquille Lake at Marshfield, Ore., under the able direction of Coach Fred Osborn, who directs football as a passing fancy and plows fields for the flood season as a leading pursuit of enjoyment.

Football garb was worn by the swimmers of the Marshfield and Coquille High Schools, and in order to make things look just right the chief water treader had decided that the aquatic contestants should line up in gridiron fashion on run-through plays.
