Home Interest Conference to Be Held at O. S. C.

The eighth annual conference for the Study of Home Interests will be held at Oregon State College the week of February 8th to 11th inclusive. The theme of the Conference this year, according to Jessie Ingram, home demonstration agent, will be, "The Home and the Community." Talks and demonstrations touching upon almost every phase of home and family life are included in the program. The conference opens with a banquet luncheon in the Memorial Union. Chancellor Hunter, Dean Schoenfeld, Mrs. Sackett and Dean Milam will extend greetings to the conference guests. Outstanding speakers, both state and national, will be on the four-day assembly program. Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde, Parent Education specialist from the extension service of Washington, D. C., will discuss "Living with Our Children." Dr. Baxter, president of Willamette University, will speak on "Religion in the Home." Dr. Paul Williams of the Bureau of Economics, Washington, D. C., will tell what the government is doing in the labeling of goods as an aid to consumer buyers. Professor Paul Petri, head of the music department at the college, will discuss "How to Listen to a Symphony Orchestra." Miss Bertha Stuart, interior decorator of Portland, will give an illustrated demonstration on "Restoring Old Homes in Oregon." "The Nutrition of the Younger Woman" will be discussed by Dr. Brodie of Portland. T. W. Fitch, illumination engineer from Portland, will discuss "The Fundamentals of Home Lighting." Besides the general assembly talks and in order to make it possible for each woman to concentrate on the subjects in which she is particularly interested, sectional groups considering different problems will be conducted simultaneously. Among the subjects for these discussion groups are, "Food Buying," "Types of Baking Powders," "The Frozen Pack," "Financial Security for the Home," "The Farm Family and Short Term Credit," "The What and the Why of the Young Child's Play," "Activities and Interests of the Teen Age," "What every young person has a right to expect from his parents," "Insect Pests of the Home Garden," "Arrangement of Plantings around the Home Grounds," and many others touching upon the ever-widening sphere of family interests. Some outstanding features of the conference will be a concert by the Portland Symphony Orchestra; a hobby show by Oregon homemakers; a special art exhibit; a concert by the students; and the famous arctic explorer, Vilhjalmar Stefansson, will give an address at a Wednesday convocation. The conference will close with a Fabric Fashion Show. Approximately seven hundred women are expected to attend.

Three Links Club Formed

Mamie Rebekah Lodge, No. 20, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening with the new officers in the chairs. Mrs. Ena Harless was appointed captain of the degree team. After lodge, a Three Links club was formed, with the following officers being chosen: president, Ena Harless; vice president, Lois Stevens; secretary-treasurer, Bertha Holbrook. Meetings of the club will be held directly after lodge, the second and fourth Wednesday evenings. Next Wednesday, February 2, the degree team will have a practice. The Three Links club is planning to have a dance in the near future. Doughnuts and coffee were served after lodge.

The Past Noble Grands club will meet Friday evening, February 4, at the home of Mrs. Skeels.

Red Devils Lose to Bobcats -- Win from Indians

In a game at Myrtle Point, marked by countless fouls, Coquille Hi's Red Devils were defeated, 23 to 19. While marking up their fourth defeat of the current season, Coquille displayed a distinct weakness in foul shooting, which undoubtedly cost them the game. At the sound of the opening whistle, Coquille grabbed the lead with Goodman sinking a couple of free throws, followed with two more by Walker. Before Myrtle Point had notched the score board the Red Devils had added a basket by Bailey and two free tosses by Fuhrman. Bowker wished a gift shot to give the Bobcats their only score for the first quarter.

Opening the second period, with Coquille leading 8 to 1, Dement found his shooting eye and potted a field goal from the side. Cook made a foul shot for Myrtle Point and Smith followed for Coquille as the half ended, with the Red Devils leading 9 to 5. At the opening of the second half Myrtle Point settled down to smooth basketball as Coquille grew careless and the fouls became more numerous.

Sprague fouled Goodman and left the game on too many personal fouls, followed at the end of the third period by Walker of Coquille, who also had too many personals. The loss of Sprague did not seem to injure the Bobcat offense any, as Myrtle Point took over the lead at the beginning of the fourth period, leading 14 to 12.

Coquille led 23 to 19, the Red Devils muffed six free throws which should have spelled victory had they been completed.

Coquille	Myrtle Point
Bailey 6	Bowker 8
B. Smith 6	Freeman 6
Fuhrman 6	Dement 6
Goodman 8	Cook 2
Walker 3	Henman 2
Shambow 2	Roy Cook 2
E. Smith 2	Sprague 1

Friday, January 21, Coquille journeyed to Roseburg, where they posted an upset victory over a favored Roseburg five. Playing the best brand of ball they have played all season, the Red Devils fought their way to a 29-23 victory over the "dark horse" team of the conference. Coquille led at half time, 12 to 11, but the stellar Roseburg outfit came right back to take over the lead at the beginning of the fourth period. The score changed hands seven times in the last quarter, but Coquille fought hard and ended up winners by a six-point margin.

Coquille	Roseburg
Bailey 11	Morgan 13
Goodman 6	Hatfield 5
Fuhrman 12	Campbell 3
Walker 2	Sanders 2
Smith 2	Neal 2

State Dairymen Have Best Session Yet Last Week

Myrtle Point, served as toastmaster at the banquet and contributed to its success by many humorous stories. Several groups of songs were sung by the "Corn-Fed Canaries" group of Coquille, including J. L. Smith, Rev. Geo. R. Turney, Frank Leslie, Earl Leslie, Orvin Gant, Mrs. Ellis Dement, of Myrtle Point, sang two vocal numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Maud Woodyard, of Coquille. Don Gillespie and J. E. Norton each spoke briefly representing the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations and wishing the group success and a pleasant stay in Coquille. Others who spoke briefly at the banquet include Mr. Hagg, Mr. Peterson, Dr. Robert Prior, of the Consolidated Dairy Products of Seattle; W. F. Cyrus, county agent of Washington county; Chuck Smith, American Guernsey Cattle Club; Paul Adams, Oregon Milk Control Board; George Fullenwider, president, and Roger Morse, secretary of the Dairymen's Association.

Those attending the banquet were presented with a package of old cheddar cheese as a souvenir of the convention by Swift and Company, Coquille. One of the most interesting events on the two-day program was a trip through the Smith Wood-Products plant in Coquille, arranged by the Coquille Chamber of Commerce and through the courtesy of the officials of the mill. The methods of making plywood, including all steps from the log to the finished product ready for shipment was shown to the 50 dairymen on this tour, and was carefully explained by Ray Jeub and F. S. Emery, officials of the plant.

The program during the second day of the convention was given over to the study of experimental work on new use of grass and dairy cattle feeding, explained by R. E. Hodgson, of the Western Washington Experimental Station. Possibilities of artificial hay drying by F. E. Price, de-

Paul McElwain Congratulated at Veteran Chevrolet Dealers' Round-Up in Portland

Paul V. McElwain, center, is congratulated in the above picture for the success of his Chevrolet sales organization in Coos Bay and Coquille areas as he attended a meeting of 31 veteran Chevrolet dealers at Portland late last week. Guests of the motor company at Multnomah Hotel were dealers from Oregon, Washington and Idaho. A. A. Turner, left, and K. M. Chase, zone and regional managers, respectively, welcomed McElwain.

The "old days" were recalled and the future was given serious consideration, with every man present predicting that the coming years hold a far brighter outlook for business generally and for the automobile industry particularly than they have in the past.

McElwain, whose service with the company dates from the year 1926, was among honored guests and gave his home cities unlimited credit for the whole-hearted manner in which its people have supported his efforts toward a betterment of the civic and industrial life of the community.

All dealers present were warmly congratulated and thanked for the contribution they have made to Chevrolet's own spectacular success and likewise the development of the commercial and industrial life of the northwest. This message was given them by their hosts, A. A. Turner, zone manager, and K. M. Chase, Pacific regional manager. The banquet, while designed particularly to honor the "old timers," was, at the same time, a tribute to the entire Chevrolet retail organization, made up of more than 9,000 dealers throughout the nation.

"Our dealers are recognized as solid, permanent leaders in the business and civic life of their communities," said Mr. Turner. "Their huge investments in service equipment, maintenance machinery, genuine Chevrolet parts, new and used automobiles, buildings and grounds, automatically place them in leading positions in the industrial life of their communities."

Superintendents to Consider Matters of Importance

City school superintendents of Oregon will meet in their third annual conference in Salem February 11 and 12, according to announcement made by Supt. Burton W. Dunn, who is secretary of the Superintendents' Association.

This year's program includes some very important problems in school administration, according to Mr. Dunn, which have been made subjects of research and study by committee of the association during the past year. Problems which this year's conference is considering are:

- I. School Revenues.
- II. Finding, Training and Placing of Teachers.
- III. The Six Year High School in Oregon.
- IV. Child Guidance in Oregon.
- V. Custodial Administration (care and upkeep of buildings).

Members of the school revenues committee have been making extensive studies in school finance and particularly the phase which deals with state aid in support of education. Other groups and organizations in the state are also working on this problem and it is the intention of the superintendents' association to give its co-operation and support toward planning a more efficient and equitable system of providing school revenues.

Marshall N. Dana, associate editor of the Daily Oregon Journal, and Dr. Bruce Baxter, president of Willamette University, will give the two main addresses at this educators' conference.

Time will be provided during this two-day session for visiting superintendents to inspect the new school buildings in Salem which have recently been completed.

A TRIBUTE TO MRS. THOMAS KROLL

From one of her neighbors, Frances Holmstrom, which was read at the services held for Mrs. Kroll last Saturday at the Gano Funeral Home by the officiating minister, Rev. G. A. Gray:

"Our Grandma Kroll is dead" they said, But I knew well that could not be. Whatever else the heart may doubt, There is no death for such as she.

Her small, worn body held a light Of love that God's own hand had lit, And many, tired of sin and dark, Drew near to warm their souls at it.

The lines upon her sweet round face By selfless toil and care were graven, The troubled brought their woes to her And found the comfort that they craved.

For she loved all, and all loved her, And if her cheerful window-square Is dark this eve, yet all is well, She has a better mansion, where No lamp needs ever to be lit, God shines, and there is no night there.
