Unemployment Payments Less

Another 13 per cent reduction in disbursement of benefits under the state unemployment compensation law was noted in the commission's report for July, officials reported.

Total for the state during the month of July was $1,313,376, a decrease of 13 per cent from the $1,511,000 total since January to $4,313,376 distributed over 53,341 checks. The July payments of jobless insurance was 35 per cent less than in May.

Marshfield, claim center for Coos and Curry counties, accounted for $33,132, or seven per cent of the state total.

One-third of the 65,608 determined eligible claims have been paid out to zero balance, the report disclosed. Gradual clean-up of accounts of claimants whose rights have been exhausted for the current year and better employment conditions are credited by officials for the reduced disbursements.

The Portland metropolitan area again accounted for 46 per cent of the total.

New Books At Library Reviewed

Among the new books on the library shelves are fifteen children's books purchased with funds given for that purpose by the Coquille Woman's Club. This group consists of "Hank, the Moose," by Phil Strong; "Mrs. Wiggins of the Cabage Patch," Alice Hegan Rice; "Little Braves," E. W. Deming and T. O. Deming; "The Fire Engine Book," by Wm. Pryor; "This Is Our World," Paul B. Sears; "The Story of Little Black Sambo," Helen Bannerman; "The Gold-Laced Coat," Helen F. Orton; "Safety First for Little Folks," Lillian M. Waldo; "Life in the Greenwood," Lansing; "Round the World, with Esther Brann," "Our Electric World," Muriel Haynes; "Indian Tales for Little Folks," El Comanche; "The Little House on Wheels," Marjorie Hayes; "A Little Princess," Frances Hodgson Burnett; "Annetji and Her Family," Dorothy Lyman Leech, and "Robin on the Mountain," by Charlie May Simon.

These books were selected from lists made by the teachers of our local schools and are among those listed for required reading in Oregon.

Another group of fifteen books was presented by the Rotary club. This assortment completes this organization's gift for the year.

The Rotary gift books are: "Lucifer on the Cross," "The Plowhead," "The Free Rangers," Joseph Altsheller; "Mashinka's Secret," Sonia Daugherty; "The Forest Runners" and "The Riflemen of Ohio," Joseph Altsheller; "Tommy Tucker on a Plantation," Dorothy Lyman Leech; "Little Princess Nina," L. A. Charkays; "Nanette of the Wooden Shoes," Esther Brann; "Saturday's Children," Helen Coale Crew; "The Chinese Twins," Lucy Fritch Perkins; "Dobry," by Monica Shannon, and three more by Joseph Altsheller—"Shadow of the North," "Lords of the Wild" and "Masters of the Roads."

The library is very grateful for these two gifts of fine books, which are sure to be appreciated by the youngsters of Coquille.

"Dobry," the book which received the 1934 medal as the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children, and "Indian Tales for Little Folks," will be reviewed in more detail next week.

Rosicrucians To Send Delegates To Tibetan Monastery

From out of Enigmatic India came an invitation for an American Delegation to study its ancient mystic arts and sciences, for the purpose of later admitting the delegation into the sanctuaries of Tibet.

Seven hundred members of the Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, a philosophical fraternity, assembled at their 1938 convention in San Jose, California, who received the invitation for the Andhra Research University in Madras district, voted to accept it and send a delegation in 1939.

William E. Buell, of this city, a member of the Rosicrucian Order, who has just received an official report of the International Conclave just concluded, states that the delegation will include the Grand Secretary of the Order, Ralph Lewis, and two others, including a motion picture cameraman who will take with him complete sound recording equipment. Representatives of the Order will study certain rare manuscripts available at the University, to ascertain the truth or falsity of the claims to phenomenal power and control of Natural Law made by the followers of the Mystic sects of India. While making this research, negotiations will be made by the University officials, who include the Maharajah of Jeypore, for the party to visit certain secluded Tibetan monasteries in the Himalayas, where it is hoped permission will be granted to film heretofore unrevealed customs and rites of the Llamas who are alleged to have miraculous powers.

Mr. Buell also states that the delegation will be sponsored by the Rosicrucian Oriental Egyptian Museum, an affiliate of the Philosophical Order. Nine foreign countries and every state of the Union and Province of Canada were represented at the recent conclave. An exceptional feature of the convention was the first showing of the sound motion picture, "Along Civilization's Trail," which was filmed by a Rosicrucian camera expedition in Egypt and Mesopotamia in 1937.

SHE HAS PARIS IN HER EYES

Toast of Fifty million Frenchmen, Danielle Darrieux makes her American screen debut in Universal's comedy romance, "The Rage of Paris," to be shown at The Roxy Sunday, Monday and Tuesday

Danielle Darrieux Makes Screen Bow Here in 'The Rage Of Paris'

Doug. Fairbanks, Jr., is Co-Starrer With French Film Beauty At Roxy Theatre

"Danielle Darrieux!" The ivory-inlaid pen which inscribed that signature at the bottom of a motion picture contract 18 months ago in Paris, started in motion one of the most elaborate enterprises in the world of modern enterprise—the making of a feature film. It put 3,000 men and women to work at Universal studios, skilled technicians, carpenters, designers, painters, property men, fashion artists, seamstresses, film editors, cameramen, writers, and provided jobs for hundreds of extra players in her debut film, Universal's "The Rage of Paris," coming Sunday to the Roxy Theatre!

That signature (very round and bold for such a diminutive signer) placed on the dotted line of that lucrative long term contract, marked the pinnacle, to date, of one of the most amazing careers in the rather fabulous history of the cinema. A few years ago, Danielle Darrieux was a fourteen year old girl in a quiet Parisian neighborhood, reading her schoolbooks and practicing the violin. Then, just on the spur of the inspiration, she answered an adv. in a newspaper for a child actress in a film, "Le Bal," and got the job. From thence proceeded a parade of triumph. One hit film after the other. Star role on star role, culminating with the prize winning "Mayerling." A whirlwind courtship and marriage at seventeen to Henry Decion, one of France's leading scenarists and dramatists. A stage-creating debut on the Paris stage. And now, Hollywood stardom at twenty-one.

"What is this meteoric young person like?" it may be asked. "What is the secret of her astonishing success?"

The answer is that she is young, vibrantly alive and completely without affectation. She has put her career ahead of every personal interest, sidestepped all social affairs to concentrate upon her work. She has gray-green eyes, light, copper-bronze hair and a delicately formed figure which tips the scales at one hundred and ten pounds. She was born in Bordeaux, France, on May 1st, 1917.

In "The Rage of Paris," Danielle plays the part of a little French girl, who jobless and broke in New York takes a job posing in the nude for a famous artist, goes to the wrong address and starts disrobing in an advertising agency.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is co-starring with Mlle. Darrieux. Mischa Auer and Helen Broderick are featured in comedy roles, with Louis Hayward also featured as Fairbanks' rival for Danielle's favor. Henry Koster directed.

The Pioneer Schroeder Family Picnic Held

the family of which the present generation are the descendants, and first settlement of Henry and Dorothea Schroeder, and their four sons and one daughter, the foundation of the present generation. All of the first generation are now deceased.

Those four sons, J. Henry, August H., John Fred, and Charles E., and one daughter, Louisa, are today represented by fully two hundred persons, including daughters-in-law and sons-in-law, and their families, most of whom live within the confines of Coos county.

Those present at this, the last reunion, who reside out of the county, were: Kenneth Carl, his wife and baby, of McMinnville; Alice Hite, of San Diego; Clarence E. Schroeder, wife, one son and two daughters, of Corvallis; George T. Schroeder and wife, of Florence; and Helen (Sweet) Mayes, husband and baby, of California.

Henry Schroeder and wife, four sons and one daughter, were members of what is known as the Baltimore Party. This company of persons came from Baltimore, Maryland, leaving April 7 for New York, leaving there April 11, 1859, for Oregon by boat via Isthmus of Panama, and from the Pacific shore of that region by boat first landing on Oregon soil at Port Orford, Curry county; then up the beach with ox team and by walking to the Coquille river, and from there to their final destination by row boat to two and one-half miles south of Myrtle Point, where they settled on 124 acres of virgin land, May 22, 1859, where the father and mother reared the family of four sons and one daughter, at the place for the 1939 reunion.

The Baltimore party of forty persons were of the early pioneers of Coos county, and their descendants now number among many of the prominent and substantial citizens of the county. Of the original party there are only two now living, at the last report known to the writer.

Why shouldn't I take life easy? I have an Electric Range and I'm feeding my family better than ever before. They enjoy the fine meals my electric range prepares and we all have such a grand time together when they are home because I am no longer too tired or busy to enjoy their company. Of course the main reason for having an electric range is the wonderful foods that come from it. But there's also the saving of time and energy, the freedom from the sort of work that makes women so weary that they just can't help nagging. An electric range is the stove you've dreamed of. The stove that cooks without heating up the kitchen. The stove that watches the cooking process for you. Scientifically regulating the heat to the correct temperature. You can cook a whole meal without ever being in the house... and cook it more perfectly than would have been possible with old-fashioned cooking equipment even if you spent the whole day watching it.

No Charge for Wiring in Connection with Range Service.
