

Fred Fuhrman Is Home From Germany

many, visiting most of the large cities, but seeing only what the Hitler government wanted them to see.

Of the election held in April when 98 per cent of the population approved the conquest of Austria, Fred says that as far as he could observe the balloting was secret. The ballot was headed with the query whether the voter approved the consolidation of Germany and Austria. The circle in which to mark a cross for "yes" was about four times the size of the "no" circle.

Fred went through a shoe factory in one of the cities, finding that the average wage for unskilled labor was 120 marks which is worth 50 or 30 dollars of U. S. money, depending on whether the rate of exchange is figured in Germany or outside.

Workmen in Germany, all of whom belong to the government-controlled socialist union, receive only about half their wages. The other half is used to pay their taxes, their social security dues, and their vacation fund. The latter is deducted from their pay envelope every pay day, but it means that their summer vacation costs them very little additional. The part of that, however, that would not appeal in this country is that usually it is only the man who gets the vacation. The women stay at home.

One thing Fred could not get used to was living with the horses, cattle, hogs and chickens. Sometimes the family lives above the room of the house where the stock is kept and sometimes it is in an adjoining room on the same floor. Heating stoves as used in this country are almost unknown over there. In one corner of the room is a cylindrical column, similar to our soil tile, stretching from floor to ceiling. The fire is inside and the column gets hot, throwing out lots of heat.

Another thing which astounds Americans is that the Germans wash their clothes only about once a month. Fred could not get used to waiting three or four weeks for his laundry. And in a city the size of Freiburg—100,000 population—there was not an establishment where he could have his suit cleaned and pressed. He had to wait for three weeks while it was sent out of town to receive the treatment Jim Fitzpatrick or Drue Cunningham would give it here in 24 hours.

Rules and regulations cover every phase of life in that dictator-governed country and a police officer there is a god whom no one disputes.

Bicycles are much more common than automobiles and people have been arrested on one-way streets for walking and pushing their bicycle in the wrong direction.

In southwestern Germany those of the Catholic faith are very numerous and Hitler has not made much effort to persecute them there, but the Jews, they are in trouble from government Nazi agents all over the country.

A professor in the Freiburg university was opposing the Hitler program in his talks to his classes. One day a sign was posted in the class hall that he was sick for three weeks. He did not return! And that frequently happens to those not loyal to der feuhrer.

Germany has not placed the large number of fortifications on that side of the Rhine that France has on her side, but woe to the innocent on either side who tries to take pictures. It cannot be done.

Revival Meetings Continue At Coquille Tabernacle

Revival meetings are being held every night in the Gospel Tabernacle (Assembly of God) at Second and Heath Streets with Evangelist N. W. Jennings and his party. Mr. Jennings, one of the two principal speakers this year at the Oregon statewide revival meeting, is a speaker with an unusually interesting message and personality. Good congregations have heard him each evening this week and attendance is constantly growing. Miss Dorothy Haberman, of the Southern California Bible School in Pasadena, is song leader for the meeting and the evangelist's wife, Mrs. Jennings, is singing each evening. Choir and orchestra increase interest in the song services. There will be a special Saturday night service for the benefit of the men on evening shift at the mill.

The district fellowship meeting will be held at the Tabernacle all day Monday. Ministers and delegations from the nine churches of this district will gather for three meetings on that day. Ten-thirty in the morning, two-thirty in the afternoon, and seven-thirty in the evening is the opening time of the services. Mr. Jennings will be the evening speaker while other ministers will speak morning and evening. The fellowship meetings are not devoted to business but are strictly meetings for spiritual fellowship and are always open to the public. The revival meetings will then continue each evening throughout next week. Rev. R. D. E. Smith is pastor of the Tabernacle.

New High School Gym Accepted by Board Yesterday

word from the PWA headquarters could be expected at any time.

This new gymnasium, of re-inforced steel concrete, with basement made completely fireproof, is one of which the district may be proud, and it will serve in the physical education of children yet unborn.

The directors who served at the time the contract was let were Dr. J. R. Bunch, Mrs. Leona Bryant and R. T. Slater, and in addition to those three, W. E. Bosserman and C. W. Kline were serving on the board when the building was accepted. Keith Leslie is the district's clerk; V. L. Bailey acted as clerk of the works during the building period.

Subcontractors who had had a part in the construction of the gym were: Bick Plumbing & Heating Co., of Marshfield, plumbing and heating.

G. Gosney, of Portland, lathing, plastering and stucco.

Tice Bros., Portland, wiring and electrical appliances.

Pichot Co., Portland, application of the flex board, a patented fireproof material.

Acme Roofing Co., Marshfield, roofing and sheet metal work.

All the carpenter and cement work and the painting were done by local men who were employed by the general contractor.

C. N. Freeman, of Portland, was the architect.

B. P. W. Club Entertained At Bandon Cottage

Mrs. Leona Bryant was hostess to the B. & P. W. club members and a few guests at her beach home in Bandon Monday evening. The group met for a six-thirty o'clock potluck dinner. After the sumptuous repast, a short business meeting was held. It was noted to hold the regular business meeting once a month on the third Monday in the month and an executive meeting the first Monday evening.

Mrs. Bryant, state president, called a meeting of the first district conferences at Toledo, August 28th. Attention was called to the picture of Mrs. Bryant in the August issue of the "Independent Woman," the club magazine. Mrs. Belle Gould was elected to membership in the club.

After the business meeting, the members and guests were privileged to hear some cornet solos rendered by Wm. Stauff, Jr., of Yreka, Calif., a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stauff. William is a member of the Yreka high school band and competed in the national band concert at Alameda, Calif. Mrs. Vivalene Jackman accompanied William on the piano. Mrs. Jackman, a former member of the club, but now living in Los Angeles, Calif., displayed some splendid colored motion pictures of her auto

Hook, Line, 'n' Sinker

The fall fishing season is beginning in earnest. The salmon trout run has been very good the past two weeks and many fine catches were reported. George Brockmann, of Portland, who was visiting here, made consistent large catches at Bear Creek, both bluebacks and salmon trout, with an occasional jack. About half of the fish ran from 1½ to 4 pounds. Sucker bait was used. Others are using salmon eggs with success. The Sunday before last Harry and George Lorenz and Hank McCue caught their limit of large trout in the Sixes in about half an hour. Last Sunday the same trio made a splendid catch of big ones in the Elk river. These were all fresh from the ocean, which makes them even more desirable. (By the way, the president of France served salmon trout baked in wine to the King and Queen of England on their recent visit, so if you can catch the trout you can dine like a king, if you have the wine.)

A few salmon are being caught in the lower river. Ray Gilkey has had the best luck so far, of those reported. He and his wife have caught several at Rocky Point already. If you know where there is any hellebore, which is a weed of Indian fame, you might try some tribal charms to bring you luck. "If the rain failed," says Haskin in his book of Wild Flowers of the Pacific Coast, "so that no salmon came into the rivers, hellebore was with much ceremony thrown into the water, for this is the strong rain-caller of the Indians." Luckey Bonney reported catching two fine messes of trout in the Deschutes river on his recent vacation trip.

The striped bass are still running on the Bay, and many fine catches are being made. Gordon Smith and his party caught 23 Saturday in two hours fishing between the two bridges.

If your tackle isn't all in shape, drop in at your local dealer's and stock up on the items you need before the week-end. If your boat isn't shipshape, see Greene and Jensen or Lamb's Hardware for boat accessories. You can find anything from an oarlock to a motor. If the boat has a few annoying leaks get a can of Handeewood at Gregg's. A small one costs a quarter and a pound can is 50c. It is a powder, which when mixed with water can be used to fill cracks and make them waterproof. It has hundreds of uses which I could enumerate if space permitted, but this is only one. You should keep a can on hand. It is a greatly improved sort of plastic wood.

Watch Greene and Jensen's windows for the display of prizes to be given in the salmon contest this fall.
