Mrs. Mary Corthell Here On Visit

Mrs. Maurice Corthell, formerly Mary Bennett, was a Coquille visitor this week, being a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fred Hicken. She and Mr. Corthell and their children spent last winter in New York, where he was attending school, but he returned to their Alaskan home several weeks ago, and she has been camping on Coos Bay.

Mrs. Corthell was a member of the Coquille Hiking club which was active as an organization several years ago, and on Monday evening Mrs. Mayme Geaney entertained the former members at her home north of Coquille.

A pleasant evening was spent and the ladies greatly enjoyed the moving pictures shown by Mrs. Corthell which included scenes from Alaska, New York and one reel of Coos Bay pictures.

Refreshments were served to the guest of honor, and to Mrs. S. L. DeLong, Mrs. Ruth Beyers, Mrs. Fred Hickok, Mrs. Anna Rooney, Mrs. Bertha J. Smith, Mrs. Fred Watson, Misses Myrtle DeLong, Edna Asplund and Bess Maury.

Mrs. Corthell, who is in Portland now, expects to sail from Seattle on Oct. 15 to rejoin Dr. Corthell at their new home in Unalaska.

Friday's Card Was A Wild Affair

The Mexican took it but only after a blood-curdling exhibition (or what started out as an exhibition). It ended when fans at the wrestling match last Friday in the Community Building demanded that Harry Elliott, promoter, award the last fall to Jose Rodriguez over his underhanded opponent, Sailor Moran.

After witnessing the unclean tactics of Moran for nearly an hour, during which time each had won a fall, the crowd rose up in arms and compelled Elliott to throw out Pat O'Dowdy, who was refereeing the main go. The sailor was substituting for one of the Arkansas hillbillies.

In the 45-minute special Elton Owen took "Doc" of the hillbillies, two falls out of three. In the curtain-raiser, Ernie Piluso, of Portland, defeated Calvin Rees, of Missouri, by taking the last two falls after Rees had secured the first.

Another card for next week, the hillbillies being pitted against two other wrestlers, was announced by Promoter Elliott.
