Riverton School

"Cats for You"

The senior class in old R. H. S. has always been clever, but this week, they are downright "catty." To be more specific, "black catty." You've guessed it. Halloween is coming and in commemoration of all things spooky the senior class is preparing for a big basket social Friday (tomorrow) night. The seniors this week have been working on the decorations, cutting black cats and other Halloween figures from pasteboard for the event. Small, medium, and large black cats, jack-o-lanterns, corn, devils, witches, owls, ghosts, and over 3,000 feet of crepe paper streamers will go into the decorations. Advance interest seems keen, and the seniors expect a good crowd to dance, enjoy their floor show, and drink their free coffee. Babe's Melody Kings will furnish the music. Admission will be ladies free, and men 35c. However, one 35c ticket can be turned in as part-payment on the purchase of a basket. Boys, you can't lose!

The English III class last Friday elected Caroline Fetch as editor of this year's annual, "The Trojan." Assistant-editor was Doris Morgan. Miss Nye will supervise the yearbook as annual staff adviser. The editors expect to announce the remainder of the staff immediately.

Boys' the Lambeth Walk

Did you ever do the Lambeth Walk? Don't know how? Well, then come on over to the senior basket social Friday night. The seniors, with the aid of some of the underclassmen, have been practicing the new dance rage, off and on, for two weeks. They hope to do some real fancy Lambeth Walking as a demonstration dance for the assembled guests at their basket social.

Nov. 4, "A Ready-Made Family" You'll giggle, you'll laugh, you'll scream with delight at the antics of five resourceful step-children in "A Ready-Made Family" when they set out to get rid of their step-parents. The mother's three children nearly drive their step-father to distraction. The step-father's two children are equally undesirable to his wife. No wonder they nearly throw each other out through the French windows. Neither knew of the other's children before they were married. If you were one of the parents, how would you straighten out a mess like that? See "A Ready-Made Family" on Friday night, November 4, at the Riverton gym. It's funny, it's clean, and it has a real moral, and what's more, you'll find out just how to handle the situation if you don't die laughing.

Class Advisers

The class advisers for this year in the high school are: Freshmen, Miss Nye; sophomores, Miss Gilman; juniors, Mr. Rycraft, and seniors, Mr. Robison.

GRADE SCHOOL

Sixth Grade

Miss Robison's sixth grade has been studying the publication of a newspaper. In connection with this unit of work, she has arranged for them to visit the printing shop of one of the leading Coos county papers.

Bridge News

A very enjoyable social event of the past week was a delightful shower at the Grange Hall on Thursday afternoon for Miss Myrtle Beckett, whose marriage to Clarence Fiser is to take place on Oct. 30. The program opened with a vocal solo by Miss Zella May Moon, of Myrtle Point, and this was followed by a couple of games, "Introductions" and "A Bird of a Romance," under the direction of Miss Lou Hooton. The guest of honor was then escorted to the table which was laden with attractive packages. After the many lovely gifts had been opened and admired, refreshments of cake, jello and coffee, were served in the dining room at a long, prettily decorated table. Those present were: Mesdames Frank Culver, Robert Farmer, Roy Luttrell, H. A. Hatfield, Lena Miller, Amanda Ehrig, Orvin Finch, Dwight Culver, Frances Cribbins, Ray Beckett, Vern Magill, I. B. England, Edwin Farmer, John Huff, James Porter, Ovid Bryant, Elmer Magill, Herman Koch, Labart, Joseph Leclerc, J. T. Evernden, Ernest Labart, Logan Walton, Chas. Mack, Henry Huff, and Misses Zella May Moon, Lou and Maude Hooton, Helen Bassett, Nell Watson, Nadine Ellis, Virginia Beckett, Eleanor Menegat, Cherie Mae Hartwell and the guest of honor, Myrtle Beckett.
