

"Dutch Oven" Cooking School To Be Held At J. A. Lamb Co. Store This Week

Will Convene At 1:30 And Continue Until 3:30 P. M.

Housewives throughout the county are making plans today to attend the famous "Dutch Oven" cooking school which will be held at J. A. Lamb Co. store Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week and hundreds of women are expected to attend the affair.

"Teacher" for the novel "school" will be Miss Ann Hunt, home economist of national fame, who brings a knowledge of cookery gained by research and lecturing in two-thirds of the states of the United States.

Miss Hunt has made a special study of early-day "open fireplace" cooking, to discover the best ways of broiling meats. She will reveal the results of her studies to Coquille housewives who attend the school, showing shortcuts to cooking success on the new "Dutch Oven" wood range.

The new Dutch Oven range bakes with retained or stored heat on a receding temperature, faithfully duplicating the principle of cooking of the famous "Dutch Oven" of Colonial days.

During the cooking school sessions, will hold consultations each morning from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and each afternoon after 3:30 p. m. Her wide experience in the home economics field makes her very capable of giving advice on the many household problems which face housewives.

Audiences of from 50 to 5000 have attended cooking schools conducted by Miss Hunt. Her talks are informal but the interest never wavers for a moment during the two-hour period. Miss Hunt has a real knowledge of her subject and with grace, winsomeness and charm establishes a bond of sympathy between herself and her audience that holds her hearers throughout the school.

Free cook books and daily prizes will add to interest of the sessions and Miss Hunt and Mr. Estes invite all to come and learn how to take the humdrum drudgery out of kitchen work, and "play while you work."

All groceries used in this school will be furnished by the Busy Corner Grocery and all meat will be from the cold, clean refrigerating boxes of Peoples Market.

F.S.A. Office Asks For Farm Leases

Land owners with improved family-sized farms available for long-time lease in Coos and Curry counties are invited to list them with Dale E. Winn, county farm security administration supervisor, court house, Coquille, for placement of FSA co-operators whose present tenure agreements expire this fall. Acceptable farms must be capable of supporting and housing a family, be adapted to a diversified crop and livestock program, be available on the basis of a written five-year lease, or a renewable tenure agreement for a shorter period.

FSA co-operators in need of farms are all bona fide farmers selected on the basis of character, ability and experience, whose tenure arrangements on farms occupied at present expire due to sale, transfer or similar reasons. Each FSA co-operator has been extended farm security credit for needed capital goods and has sufficient livestock and equipment to carry on farming operations.

Wherever a good farm is available for lease, the landowner has the choice of several farm families. After completion of a satisfactory lease agreement, a complete farm and home plan is worked out for the unit to provide for fullest development of the farm and at the same time provide for rotations and practices that will conserve soil resources.

Assurance that the farm will be run on a businesslike basis is provided through keeping of farm and home records and accounts, an annual inventory, and co-operation of the county FSA supervisor with the farmer in maintaining the highest standards of operation and management.

Two Divorces

Two actions for divorce were started in the Circuit court here this week. Mary Gartin filed suit for divorce from Almond Gartin on grounds of failure to provide and infidelity. They were married in Coquille in 1909. The plaintiff asked for restoration of maiden name and court costs.

Betty Robinson seeks separation from Val Robinson on grounds of infidelity. They were married at Las Vegas, Nevada, in 1930. She seeks restoration of maiden name.

Coquille Eagles

The attendance at Coquille Aerie, No. 2196 F. O. E., last Thursday evening would have done credit to a district convention. Not only was the Coos Bay aerie drill team out in full force but many members of the Bay aerie also attended. In addition to this, there were a couple of dozen ladies from the Coos Bay Ladies' Auxiliary attending the meeting of the local auxiliary.

The Coos Bay team seated the officers of the local aerie in an impressive manner, besides taking part in the ritual work when three candidates were put through the paces. Worthy President Dick Chapman, of Coos Bay aerie, presided during the ritual work.

The local aerie is to sponsor a bowling team which will put on, and participate in tournaments throughout Coos county. Among the visitors present was Brother Harden, of Portland aerie, who made himself extremely popular with our aerie by making a special and personal contribution to our social fund to help out on expenses of the bowling team.

Brother Harden and other visitors from Coos Bay also swelled the social fund in the way of fines levied against them for— Well, that's an aerie secret; anyway, we got the money. They all went home swearing revenge upon all visitors from our aerie. So here is a timely warning, brother, watch your step when you visit Coos Bay aerie in the future.

Yum! Yum! Big turkey feed Thursday evening, Nov. 17. It is for Eagles in good standing and their immediate families. No one else will be admitted. Paid up receipt must be presented at the door.

Don't forget there is entertainment every night we meet and something doing every minute. Also a jack-pot every night. Come out, brother, and fly and squawk with the rest of the birds. A good time is assured you. —Press Cor.

Chevrolet's Phenomenal 5-Year Record

A phenomenal record of 11,938,153 sales has been set by the Chevrolet dealers of America during the last five years, according to W. E. Holler, general sales manager.

Mr. Holler has just completed his fifth year as Chevrolet general sales manager and it was brought out in an interview in New York at the Automobile Show started that 4,187,718 new cars and trucks were sold by company dealers during his administration, while at the same time they were selling 7,649,435 used cars.

"The volume achieved by Chevrolet dealers during the last five years exceeded the largest company records for any previous five-year period, including the boom years of 1929 and 1932 by 750,417 new passenger car and truck sales, and 1,949,012 used car sales," said Mr. Holler. "During this same five-year period Chevrolet dealers sold 342,519 trucks, and this exceeds by 250,916 trucks sales any previous five-year truck sales in the 27 years' history of the company."

"This outstanding selling record actually obtained for the company six years results in five years of selling, and is a testimony to the co-operative selling ability of 8900 Chevrolet dealers in the United States."

Asked how this all-time peak selling record was achieved, Mr. Holler replied—"When fundamental policies are established that are fair and equitable to a dealer organization—and then they are carefully and conscientiously administered year by year—accumulated confidence and selling strength bears results not obtained by any other temporary activities or plans. We attribute this six-year record of results, obtained in only five years, to the Quality Dealer Program, with its elimination of over-packing of dealers and its scientific appointment of dealer locations, with consequent strengthening of the entire Chevrolet merchandising structure as it deals with the buying public."

Oregon Coast Shows Increased Prosperity

The following extract from Ed Miller's report to the annual meeting of the Coast Highway association, at North Bend last month, is a little late in being published, but the points therein contained are of interest to the Oregon coast country:

"Travel business along the Oregon Coast was admittedly behind previous years by a small margin, due, your Manager explained, to general conditions prevailing throughout the nation. All other regions, without exception, reported decreases in 1933, as compared to other years, many to a much greater degree than the U. S. 101 route, which received the benefits of north and south travel to such recreational centers as California and British Columbia. Estimated decreases in other regions ranged from 10 to 40 per cent under 1937. Oregon registrations, in spite of a $100,000 promotional campaign, were about eight per cent below those of last year. Compared to other regional groups, business along the Oregon Coast suffered less in comparison than did most.

"Increase in assessed valuations, however, were reported along the route of the Oregon Coast, with more than a 10 per cent increase in the valuations of a permanent character. General property values of the coastal counties has increased. In spite of more or less general economic adversities, the Oregon Coast has thrived from this important economic standpoint."

Probate Court

Julia Hunter and Lena Rogers were last week confirmed as executors of the will of Fred Larson, who died Oct. 26, leaving an estate of $8900. Anson O. Rogers, Willis H. Kennedy and Herman Larson were named as appraisers.

Anna Grant has been appointed administratrix of the $3,800 estate left by Wm. E. Hartley, who died Nov. 4. Fred True, E. L. Clausen and E. W. Buckner were appointed appraisers.

State Corn Show At Portland Dec. 1-3

A total of $500 in cash prizes is to be awarded corn growers at the Oregon State Corn Show to be held at the Multnomah Hotel, Portland, December 1, 2, and 3, it has been announced by the statewide corn show committee. The show, the second of its kind ever to be held in Oregon, is sponsored by The First National Bank of Portland with the co-operation of the agricultural committee of the Portland Chamber of Commerce and Oregon State College.

A special provision is made this year to include judging demonstrations as well as classes in which both 4-H members and Future Farmers of America may compete. These judging demonstrations are to be conducted by teams of 4-H members and Future Farmer students as outlined by their state leaders.

A special feature of the corn show this year, will be a class for the exhibition of corn grown from hybrid seed. There will be one class where hybrid corn is open to all parts of the state of Oregon. This new feature has been added to care for the increasing acreage of hybrid corn grown in Oregon each year.

Coos county growers are urged by the First National Bank of Portland and Geo. H. Jenkins, county agent, to send exhibits to the show. Blanks may be obtained from the bank or the office of the county agent.

Sheriff Elect Thanks Veters

The vote of confidence accorded me by Coos county voters last week is one of which I am very proud and I wish to thank every one of them for their support. I would like to express my appreciation verbally to everyone but as that is impossible I take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation to all friends and supporters. Wm. F. Howell.
