ANOTHER year. Another Christmas. Once more children look up, the very Star of Bethlehem reflected in their eyes as they hear the story of the infant Jesus. Once more the parents of little children everywhere pray that there should be peace on earth—for never before in all history, has His lesson been more worthy of repetition. Good will toward men—let every man say it over and over. Let it be instilled in the hearts of those just learning the ways of life. Nor is there any man who can observe Christmas reverently—without doing sacrifice to His name—if that man fails to practice the lesson of "Good will toward men!"

Turn Big Top Upside-Down In Comedy at Roxy

Having wrecked the opera, the races, the animal crackers, hors feathers and duck soup in their previous comedy riots, the madcap Marx Bros. now turn their guns of mirth upon the circus in their newest comedy riot, Marx Bros. at the Circus, opening Wednesday at the Roxy Theatre.

To enable the Marxes to tear a circus to pieces with their picturesque antics, a complete three-ring streamlined circus was constructed, with modernistic menagerie, side-shows and all other appurtenances for their pleasure. Incorporated were scores of headline circus acts, aerialists, acrobats, clowns, equestrienne troupes, and a full-sized, modernized menagerie with several hundred beasts of the jungle.

"Marx Bros. at the Circus" is the hilarious story of two circus roustabouts, Harpo and Chico, who engage a crackpot lawyer, Groucho, to prevent Kenny Baker, part-owner, from losing his share of the circus—and they succeed in the most riotous fashion.

In the cast are Florence Rice, furnishing the romantic interest with Kenny Baker, Nat Pendleton as the World's Strongest Man; Eve Arden, the Upside-Down-Girl, who walks on the ceiling; Jerry Marengi as Professor Atom, a villainous midget; Margaret Dumont as Mrs. Dukesbury, society dowager and the light in Groucho's eyes; Fritz Feld, James Burke and Barnett Parker.

The new picture, reported to be the most ambitious of any Marx Bros. extravaganza, is replete with musical acts, dancing and new song numbers written by E. Y. Harburg and Harold Arlen who wrote the successful song hits of "The Wizard of Oz." Groucho Marx is heard in an inimitable rendition of "Lydia the Tattooed Lady." Kenny Baker sings

"Two Blind Loves" and "Step Up and Take a Bow," and Harpo Marx and a chorus do the "Svengali Routine." The elaborate dance numbers were directed by Bobby Connolly, one of the foremost dance directors of stage and screen.

Two Women Sought U. S. Presidential Nomination
Belva A. Lockwood, who headed the ticket of the Equal Rights party in 1884 and again in 1888, was not the first woman nominated for the presidency of the United States. That honor belongs to Mrs. Victor Claflin Woodhull, who in 1875 was nominated for the presidency at Vineland, N. J., by a convention styling itself the Equal Rights party. Frederick Douglass, the negro reformer, was the candidate for vice president. The campaigns of these two women amounted chiefly to suffrage propaganda, since neither could have held the office had they been elected, asserts a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mrs. Lockwood, lawyer and reformer, was born in 1830, at Royalton, N. Y. She was educated at Genesee college, Lima, N. Y., and taught school for eleven years. Then she studied law and was admitted to practice before the Supreme court, under a law which she had been instrumental in getting passed.

Born Belva Ann Bennett, she was married in 1848 to Uriah H. McNall, who died five years later, and in 1868 to Dr. Ezekiel Lockwood. She died in 1917.
