First Session of School of Religious Education Mon.

The local ministerial association met last week in the office of C. Adrian Sias, their president for the present year, and made preliminary arrangements for the school of religious education for this year. The school will hold its first session Monday night, January 15, at 7:30 p. m., in the Pioneer church auditorium. It is being arranged to show moving pictures of various phases of the church's different interests during the chapel hour each night of the school. The purchasing of text books is being eliminated this year, thus lessening the expense of the school to students and allowing the tuition fee, which will be slight, to be used for the procuring of the picture films. Four courses will be offered this year: "Personal Religious Living," R. D. E. Smith.

"The Christian Message for Our Present Day," Howard L. Graybeal. "Personal Evangelism," E. C. Swanson.

"The Purpose and Program of the Church," C. Adrian Sias. Further information concerning the courses and other attractions offered will be forthcoming next week. The public will be cordially welcomed to these classes and are asked to make plans now to attend.

Something over 30 years ago she became a teacher in the Bandon schools and later was married to Mr. Wade.
