Christmas Parties

Members of the high school faculty enjoyed a jolly party Wednesday evening at the Jess Beyers home. Among the outstanding menu items served at the no-host buffet dinner were some of Mr. Beyers' famous hamburgers, which he grilled in the cabin. Mrs. Beyers arranged many attractive Christmas decorations for the party. Under a huge Christmas tree, she displayed a miniature farm. The buffet was decorated with a Santa Claus figure that grinned at its reflection in a series of mirrors. Silver balls, holly and white tapers made an effective table decoration. Bob Nelson, as Santa Claus, distributed presents. Everyone had a grand time playing games and participating in contests of various kinds. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Clarence Osika, B. W. Dunn, Thos. Cauthers, E. E. Leslie, Bob Nelson, Jess Beyers, Frank Schram, Stanley Ayers, Mrs. Cleona Hill, the Misses Alleen Dement, Marjorie Jones and Lunelle Chapin and Mr. Paul Snyder.

Marcia Mauney celebrated her fifth birthday Saturday afternoon at a charming party given by her mother, Mrs. Guy Mauney. After a series of games in the basement playroom, Marcia and her guests went to the dining room for refreshments. A pleasant little Christmas scene had been arranged for the table's centerpiece. Balloons, toy telephones and other favors made the scene appropriately gay for the big white birthday cake with its red candles and red trimmings. In accordance with Marcia's wishes, the party decorations emphasized the Christmas season rather than the small girl's birthday. Guests were Helen Taylor, Quincy Powers, Billy Church, Nancy Lee Perrott, Mary Kistner, Diana Schoder, Diana Jackson, Arthur Pierce, Jane Gould, Patty Brown, Lawrence Blum, Marcia's sister, Karen Mauney, and the following friends of Marcia, who came from Marshfield with their mothers: Michael McKeown, Patty Ann Thiering, Billy Walsh, Michael Nozler and Charles Hall.

Gary Claver, who was five years old Saturday, was the honor guest at a Christmas-birthday party given by his mother, Mrs. L. W. Claver. Gary's friends arrived at 8 p. m. After a few games, they were invited to the dining room for the most important part of the party. Birthday cake, ice cream, favors and an attractive Christmas centerpiece were all there to please the children. Each child received, among other favors, a small Santa Claus made of red apples and marshmallows. Gary's guests were Mickey and Dickey Merrill, Patty Brown, Dorothy and Lonnie McKibben, Beverly McBride, Shirley Witters, Marvin, Billy, Janice and Bella Mae Farmer.

Mrs. Clarence McNair entertained her Pinochle club Wednesday afternoon with a Christmas party. The room and tables were becomingly decorated for Christmas. Gifts were exchanged, also the usual door prizes were given. Mrs. Buell won first, Mrs. Pat Mullin, second. Those who enjoyed the afternoon were Mesdames Ben Payne, Pat Mullin, Bill Buell, Sim Darby, Cliff Davidson, Mike Mullin and hostess.
