A party that will rank as one of the winter season's prettiest was given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. U. E. McClary, who chose a red, white and blue color scheme and carried it out to the fullest detail. Each table was covered with red cellophane spread over a white cloth. Instead of place cards, blue candles, set in white holders, bore guests' names painted in red letters. Each candle resembled a blue trunked snow-covered tree for short fir sprigs, dipped in white paint, were inserted in the candles. Dessert, a delicious white pudding, was topped with whipped cream, tinted a pale blue and garnished with a maraschino cherry. Red, white and blue pottery added its color to the general scheme. Even some of the southern coconut candies, for which Mrs. McClary is famed, had been rolled in coconut tinted in shades of red and blue. Clusters of red, white and blue cellophane liberty bells were hung in each of the big windows. Bridge prizes, which were won by Mrs. Fred Hudson, high score; Mrs. Gerald Stark, second prize, and Margaret Paulson, consolation, were wrapped in white tissue. On one side of each of the boxes containing the prizes was a replica of the flag. Before the guests left, Mrs. McClary gave each one a praline made by her excellent southern recipe. Guests invited to the party were Mesdames Frank Martin, L. H. Hazard, Weldon Kline, Joe Axtell, Fred Hudson, R. F. Milne, R. A. Wernich, Guy Mauney, George Maynard, J. D. Rankin, D. E. Rackleff, G. E. Stark, R. T. Slater, George Jenkins, Lefe Compton, F. S. Emery, J. A. Lamb, George Chaney, M. O. Hawkins, F. L. Greenough, J. Arthur Berg, Julius Rubie and Miss Margaret Paulson. The regular meeting of the Tuesday Pinochle club was postponed until Friday, when club members were entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Le Norme Powder. High score for the afternoon's play was held by Mrs. A. A. Kyle, second score by Mrs. A. O. Culbertson and the travelling prize was won by Mrs. Charles Lewis. Members present were Mesdames Roy Wheeler, Jack McLaren, Ben Leatherwood, Ed Yarbrough, Albert Wells, Leslie McElhane, Ralph Hurbitt, Ralph Menning, A. O. Culbertson, A. A. Kyle, Charles Lewis and LeNorme Powder. If one were to resort to adages in describing local parties, the good, old saw about great oaks from little acorns, would best describe the successful dessert bridge given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Frank Thrift. Intending to organize an afternoon foursome, Mrs. Thrift suddenly decided to stage an impromptu party. In almost no time, she rounded up three tables of bridge enthusiasts. Mrs. Harold Ziegler won high score and Mrs. L. A. Lundquist was second. Members of the party were Mesdames H. W. Pierce, E. E. Leslie, H. S. Norton, Harold Ziegler, L. A. Lundquist, R. L. Stewart, R. E. Boo-ber, Ed McKeown, T. B. Currie, Fred McNelly and P. W. Culver. Mrs. Elton Savage entertained the members of her Pinochle club Friday afternoon. Prizes were won by Mrs. D. G. Ireland for high score, Mrs. Clyde Minard, consolation and Mrs. Clovis Church, travelling prize. Members present were Mesdames Jay Carter, D. E. Ireland, Ted Snyder, Betty Payne, Clyde Minard, Clovis Church, William Wood and Elton Savage. Members of the Ace of Clubs enjoyed a lovely luncheon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ben Leatherwood. At pinochle, which was played after the luncheon, prizes were won by Mrs. A. A. Kyle, for high score and Mrs. Roy Wheeler for consolation. Mrs. A. S. Wells won the travelling prize and Mrs. Charles Lewis took home the door prize. Guests invited for the afternoon were Mesdames A. O. Culbertson, Charles Lewis, A. S. Wells and Miss Fern Kane. Members present were Mesdames Roy Wheeler, F. H. McKibben, Lawrence Hatcher, Charles Mansell, Dulcie Donaldson, A. A. Kyle and Ernest Wharset.

Resolved To Make No Resolutions

Business and Professional Women's club members answered the roll call at their meeting Monday evening by telling their most important New Year's resolution. The survey showed that a large percentage of members had resolved to make no resolutions. Following roll call, Ruth Beyers led the group in singing the Oregon state song. During the business meeting, which was conducted by the president, Ellen Braxton, Estelle Harbison was voted into the club. The "Bosses" dinner was postponed until April. Inez Chase, chairman of the Research committee, will plan the meeting scheduled for Jan. 20. Naomi Crews read the current national B. P. W. Newsletter. Among the reports from standing committee chairman, was the announcement made by Florence Barton that the next regional conference will be held in Eugene. Since Jan. 1, several B. P. W. members have left town. Ann Barton has gone to Grants Pass, where she is teaching music and English in the high school. Clara Little has moved to Southern California, and Eleanor Rudd has taken a six months leave of absence to go to Great Falls, Montana, where she is taking a course in anesthesia. Members attending the meeting were Ruth Beyers, Inez Rover, Inez Chase, Georgia Richmond, Lois Fenn, Blythe Saylor, Edna Robison, Mae Barton, Florence Barton, Annie Robinson, Ida Garding, Joyce Owen, Alberta Tyrrell, Cherie Mae Hartwell, Viola Newton, Ida Owen, Saima Caughell, Clara Bosserman, Clara Stauff, Naomi Crews, Ruth Towne, Maud Woodyard, Hazel Hanna, Edith Walton, Ellen Braxton, Eva Stevens and Patricia Peart.

Mrs. Bert Folsom entertained members of the Monday Night club at dinner this week. Her table, covered with an exquisite lace tablecloth, was decorated with a mixed bouquet of pastel shaded flowers, pleasingly arranged in a low blue pottery bowl. At bridge, which followed dinner, Mrs. Jane Williams held high score and Mrs. E. W. Lorenz won the travelling prize. Members present were Mesdames H. W. Pierce, Muri Pettit, J. L. Smith, J. A. Lamb, Edna Hartson, E. W. Lorenz, Jane Williams and Bert Folsom.

The Escadriens were entertained at a delightful luncheon given Monday by Mrs. George Johnson. Pastel shaded snapdragons, effectively arranged, made a lovely centerpiece for the luncheon table. Sewing provided the afternoon's diversion. Mrs. H. W. Pierce and Mrs. Lester Greene were guests. Members present were Mesdames W. E. Bosserman, Theodore Clinton, Earl Nosler and George Johnson.

After a 12:30 o'clock luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Charles Gardiner, members of the Lincoln club elected the following officers: president, Mrs. Genie Chase; vice president, Mrs. Jim Child; secretary, Mrs. George Burr; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Gardiner; Aid, Mrs. James McGuffin; press correspondent, Mrs. Harold McCue, and chaplain, Mrs. Clara Wheeler.

The new president appointed standing committee and led the group in a discussion as to plans for assisting needy families during the coming year.

Two members, Mrs. A. S. Bean and Mrs. George Burr, were accorded special attentions in recognition of their birthdays. Many members of the club could not attend the meeting because illness kept them at home. Those present were Mesdames Flora Dunne, George Burr, James McGuffin, Genie Chase, Jim Childs and Harold McCue.

To announce the engagement of Kathryn Estey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Estey to Floyd Segale of San Andres, California, Ruth Towne and Mrs. Elwyn Nosler entertained at dessert dinner Saturday evening.

None of the guests expected the thrilling announcement. Dessert was served at a large table bearing a silver basket filled with ivy and decorated with clusters of cellophane bells. On each place card was written the message "No—not New Years bells"—wedding bells for Kathryn and Floyd." After everyone had finished with the strawberry shortcake and coffee, the two hostesses arranged games for the group. The guests were Mesdames Donald Farr and Maud Skaggs Woodyard, the Misses Margaret Staninger, Patty Nosler, Eileen Kern, Yvonne Kern, Wilda Mae Van Meter and the guest of honor, Kathryn Estey.

At the "no-host" dessert bridge home of Mrs. Ed McKeown, friends of Mrs. E. M. Kay showered her with handkerchiefs. Poinsettias and holly were used for attractive party decorations. Mrs. Kay held high score and Mrs. E. E. Leslie, second high. Members of the party were the honored guest, Mrs. Kay, and Mesdames Ed McKeown, R. E. Boober, U. E. McClary, Harold Ziegler, Don McCune, E. E. Leslie, H. W. Pierce, T. B. Currie, H. S. Norton, Frank Thrift, A. B. Collier, Fred McNelly, George Johnson and W. E. Bosserman.

Members of the Co-Workers club enjoyed a delicious potluck dinner Thursday noon at the home of Mrs. James McGuffin. Secret Santa New Year gifts were received by many of the members. Those present were Mesdames Jim Childs, Genie Chase, Charles Donno, Lou Smith, Atha Young, Frank McNair, John McNair and Mac Gant.
