

Program Music Week Concert

Bosserman and Mrs. O. L. Newton will decorate the church, for the program.

The Coquille Concert Orchestra, which will play some of the more spectacular numbers on the program, has been organized more than four years. This will be its fourth appearance on the Music Week program. Miss Dae directs the orchestra.

Following is an outline of the program:

"Music touches every key of memory, and stirs all the hidden springs of sorrow and joy."

Suffers $250 Loss In Fire

J. E. Norton estimates the loss in the fire which destroyed the milk house and a part of the equipment on his ranch west of town at six o'clock last Thursday morning, at $250, with no insurance. The building stood away from everything else and originally there was no water-heating equipment there and he believed that everything else on the ranch could be burned without damage to that 12x14 building.

Junior Women Finger Printed

The City Police office was jammed Wednesday evening with members of the Junior Woman's club. What is more every Junior Woman present was finger-printed. None of them were in trouble; they were just answering voluntarily, the F. B. I.'s request that the residents of these United States have their finger prints recorded.

When the local police force had finished with club members, the girls adjourned to the Guild hall for a business meeting conducted by Georgianna Vaughan, president. Myrtle Clausen was chosen to represent the club at the Mother's Day program, May 11. Janie Kramer was appointed general chairman of a Rummage sale, to be held soon. Members of the nominating committee, who will make their report at the meeting May 12, when new officers will be elected, are Carol Young, chairman, Vesta Miley, Evelyn Elliott and Janie Kramer.

Lucille McEniry reported on progress of the fashion show and card party to be held Friday afternoon and evening. Myrtle Clausen who is working with Mrs. Charles Kash, reported that Mrs. Kash will show a number of good-looking costumes at the two parties.

Members of the refreshment committee were Carol Young, Marjorie Knight and Donna Dean Bosserman. Guests and members present at the meeting were Jane Kramer, Jean Laird, Florence Berg, Catherine Maynard, Gretchen Paden, Gertrude Mehl, Myrtle Clausen, Donna Dean Bosserman, Carol Young, Peg Gould, Ora Horning, Evelyn Elliott, Gertrude Swinney, Georgianna Vaughan, Lucille McEniry, Louise Schroeder, Evelyn Mattoon, Vi Connarn, Lucille Cottingin Nellie Conley, Vesta Miley, Maxine Stevens, Mary Stevens Faye Wagner and Ruth Clayton.

Washington School Operetta, "Cinderella's Slipper," May 8

The Washington Grade school will present its annual operetta entitled "Cinderella's Slipper," Friday evening, May 8, at 8:00 p. m., in the auditorium of the Washington building. There will also be a children's night May 8 for all school children.

This musical closely follows the favorite story of Cinderella with much humor, when presented in its fantastic version, under the supervision of Mr. Cauthers. The costuming will be very picturesque and the plot full of lively fun, as well as the charm of the old fairy tale. Numerous gay, colorful, and creative dances will be an added feature.

The main characters in the cast are: Cinderella, Betty Marney; Stepmother, Betty Helton; Charlotte, Carol Gray; Javotte, Sally Bonney; Fairy Godmother, Alene Hunt; Prince, Harold Culbertson; Peddler, Ray Swinney; Lord High Chamberlain, Charles Hanna; Thimble Bonnet, Dale Brown; First Guard, Billy Vogt; Second Guard, Joe Sayre.

New Plastic Passes Real Test To Join U. S. Army of Employed

Here is a piece of "Vinylite" plastic taking its "fatigue" test. All sorts of machines have been constructed to beat, tear, rub, break and otherwise maltreat the new substance before it is turned into articles of industry and commerce.

PLASTICS, because they are new-comes to the list of materials for human use, have to pass examinations and tests that metals, woods, and other substances seldom have to undergo. The mysterious composition of plastics makes each one of them a question mark.

Each has to prove its ability to be a useful performer in commerce, industry or other fields before it is released from the testing laboratory. The photograph shows a piece of "Vinylite" plastic—the most extraordinary of all the newcomers—proving to chemists that it does not get "tired" easily. In this fatigue test strips of the plastic are twisted, folded, then clamped by the ends into pairs of vise-like plates. An attendant throws a switch whereupon the steel clamps alternately come together and separate. With each open-and-shut movement of the machine the plastic is twisted and folded still harder and also pressed together and stretched. Yet this "Vinylite" plastic is so durable that it stands up under 3,000,000 or more of these wrunchings.

Other tests to determine the plastic's resistance to tearing, abrasion, light, oils, alkalis and acids, moisture, and temperature extremes, are applied, one by one. The new plastic passes these ordeals so successfully that, in its various forms, it is becoming increasingly in demand for such widely different uses as clothing, sound records, shoe material, watch crystals, precision instruments, belts and suspenders, trimming for women's hats, bottle caps, food containers, wood putty, and even artificial flowers. Articles made of it retain their shape and require no care. Cleaning them is simplicity itself—a rub with a damp cloth.
