No One In Coos Favors Elk Season

A committee of three, A. R. Gould, Ernest Evenson and Julius Benham, appeared before the State Game Commission in Salem last Saturday with an appeal to the Commission to rescind the recent ruling to open the season on Elk in Coos and Curry counties this fall.

Although communications were read by the commission from almost every chamber of commerce and civic organization in the two counties and despite the personal appeals of the three men who unquestionably know far more about the elk situation in this district than the commission itself, the commission definitely refused to reconsider their ruling, and the herds that have been built up by careful guarding over the past 20 years will probably be practically wiped out in a week.

It is a curious situation when the men put on the commission by the people to conserve and propagate our game, insist, against the wishes of those same people, upon permitting that game to be wantonly destroyed.

Something should be done about it.

According to one county official, who should be in a position to know, the Coos county member of the game commission, Dr. A. B. Peacock, is the one whose recommendation that the season on elk be opened, was accepted by the commission and who refuses to change his stand, notwithstanding the unanimous opposition of Coos county to the open season.

Charles Leaman Scoggin and Thomas Ray Leaton, charged with stealing chittim bark on one of the Coos Bay sloughs, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge King on Tuesday. He sentenced them to serve 30 days in the county jail with parole immediate on condition that they pay for the bark.

Carl H. Ward, of the Catching creek district, was bound over to the grand jury by Justice Dodge at Myrtle Point last Saturday on a morals charge, preferred by his wife. His bail was set at $100 and when it was posted he was released from custody on Monday.

Jr. C. of C. On Trip Up Rogue

As a climax to the completion of the drive to raise Coquille's quota of $400 for the U. S. O., 26 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and guests made the trip from Gold Beach to Agness by boat last Sunday. The group left Coquille at 8 a. m. and breakfasted in Gold Beach before embarking. Three boats were required to carry everyone and except for a little motor trouble in one of the boats many very pinkish faces, legs and backs from too much sun, the trip was a complete success. The group stopped at Lowery's on the Rogue at noon and ate a big meal before completing the trip which is an annual affair of the organization, and the day and water was even better than those of the last two years. Those making the trip included Loren Simmons, Lud Scharfer, Max Morgan, Guy Elliott, Pete Benevento, Theron Thornton, Geo. Gratke, Gene Bjore, Jim Watson, Frank Padan, Mel Christensen, Lin Swain, Martin Brandon, D. Richardson, Ellis Carlton, Chet Roth, Charles Mallet, Lloyd Hickam, Ed Steinmetz, Maurice Williams, John Montellious, Glen Jones, Wilson Dalrymple, Sig Peterson, Dale Stevens, Orville Clinton, Jim Turk, Andy Anderson.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce wishes to thank all individuals and organizations who contributed both financially and in labor to the U. S. O. Very fine cooperation was shown by everyone and it is gratifying to know that Coquille's quota was raised in such a short length of time.
