Forgotten Men At Old Oregon Trail

One of the most dramatic of the expeditions to the far west, one almost forgotten, was the land expedition financed by John Jacob Astor and led by Wilson Price Hunt. Hunt pushed out into the Missouri from his winter camp on the Nodaway, on April 21, 1811, in four keel-boats equipped with oars and sails. Hearing that the Blackfeet were unfriendly, he decided to leave the river and strike out overland. The route led across the present South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and Idaho. The Snake River was reached near the present St. Anthony, where they abandoned their horses and took to the river. In the vicinity of Twin Falls, Hunt was forced to leave his boats and proceed on foot. Before long their food was consumed and starvation was a daily guest. Hunt led one party and Ramsey Crooks another on opposite sides of the Snake as far as the present Homestead, where they were forced to retrace their steps.

They entered the Burnt River canyon and pushed on through to the Powder River valley. New Year's Day, 1812, was ushered in near the present Union, Oregon, in the Grande Ronde Valley, where Hunt and his famished party enjoyed a feast of horse and dog meat in a Shoshone Indian village. The Columbia was reached on January 21, where canoes were traded for with the Indians. On February 15, Astoria was reached and the long arduous journey was ended.

On June 29, Robert Stuart and a small party set out for St. Louis with dispatches for John Jacob Astor. Stuart followed or paralleled their original trail as far as the present Pocatello. There he turned east, crossed the Rockies at or near the South Pass and followed the Platte River to the Missouri, reaching St. Louis in the spring of 1813. Hunt's trail from the Port Neuf, near Pocatello, west and Stuart's trail from there east blazed the way which was followed in later years by covered wagon caravans, to become familiarly known as the Oregon Trail.

Secretary Walter Meacham reports that enthusiasm is growing and plans being laid by various communities for the staging of plays and pageants, display of books on western history, displays of relics of pioneer days, sermons in churches of all faiths, ceremonies at the graves of the early trail blazers and treks over portions of the old trails.

Days of Remembrance are being outlined, such as the discovery of the Great River of the West (the Columbia), the founding of the Provisional Government at Champeog, the admittance of Oregon as a Territory and as a state, and for other days of historical importance.

In all of these activities the schools throughout the state are taking an active part.

A Sad Basketball Season Ends

Coach "Spike" Leslie's Coquille High School Cagers lost their last game of the season in the County League battle Friday night to the Myrtle Point Bobcats, 9-14. This loss puts the Red Devils in the cellar with two wins and six defeats. The Red Devils only tallied one point the first quarter, when Martin made a gift shot pay, while the Bobcats, sparked by Hatfield, Sutphin and Peck Walton, rang up seven counters.

The second quarter the Devils did a little better in scoring by netting five points. One by Ray, two by Gosline and two by Red Woodward, a beautiful swisher from the center of the floor. Woodward and Barton replaced McCarthy and Mineau half way through the second period for Coquille. The Bobcats broadened their lead considerable with 10 points, all but Belloni scoring at least two points and the boys from Myrtle Point tied 17-6 at half time.

McCarthy started the third quarter in Gosline's place in the Red Devils' line up. The third period was one of those rough and tumble kind and not many points were scored. Myrtle Point hit the hemp for five points and held the Coquille quiet scoreless.

The final frame Bill Mineau hit a free shot, Tom Martin a basket and Dick Ray a basket and three free ones to give the Devils eight more points and a final score of 14. Myrtle Point made seven more to give them 29 points at the final whistle.

In foul shooting both teams' averages were the same but Coquille did Myrtle Point one better in the total, making six out of 12 and the Bobcats five out of 10. The Red Devils had two bad quarters, the first and the third. They made one point the first, and went scoreless the third, they just couldn't seem to hit that hoop.

Don Sutphin captured high scoring honors with nine points, followed closely by Hatfield and Peck Walton, with eight apiece. Ray was high for Coquille with six.

Coquille's B squad won their game from the Bobcat B squad, 20-14. Bud Meek took high individual scoring in the prelim with seven points. This winds up the season for the Coquille B squad, they won six out of eight games, and this ties them with North Bend's B squad for the mythical county B squad crown.

"Life Begins At 8:30" Due At Roxy Theatre Sun., Mon., Tuesday

If you thrilled, as a almost everyone did, to the tender pathos and heart-warming humor of "The Pied Piper," it is certain that an equally enchanting cinema treat awaits you in "Life Begins at Eight-Thirty," which will be shown at the Roxy Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

For, besides bringing back to the screen that austere master of merriment, Monty Woolley, this 20th Century-Fox entertainment windfall co-stars Ida Lupino, fragile mistress of the drama, with Cornel Wilde, exciting new discovery, as her romantic vis-a-vis, and also features one of the really well-rounded casts of the season.

Produced and written for the screen by Nunnally Johnson, the film was taken from a play by Emyln Williams, author of "The Corn is Green" and "Night Must Fall." Rich in humor, yet tenderly dramatic, the story seems to be the perfect type to permit Woolley to cavort at his grandest and gruffest.

The bewhiskered star appears as a once-great stage personality toppled from the heights by fate. Although he would rather laugh and let the world go by, he is brought to grips with the serious side of life by the uphill struggle for happiness of his daughter, played by Miss Lupino.

Noteworthy, too, is the knowledge that Irving Pichel, who directed "The Pied Piper," piloted "Life Begins at Eight-Thirty." Topping the featured cast with Wilde are Sara Allgood, the mother of "How Green Was My Valley," Melville Cooper, J. Edward Bromberg and William Demarest. The film promises to be another happy combination of ingratiating humor and trenchant drama.

Federal Income Tax Information

Who Must File a Return
Every single person must file a Federal income tax return whose gross income for the year from all sources was $500 or more; that is as much as $9.62 per year. Widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, are classed as single persons.

Every married person, living with husband or wife throughout the year, must file a return if his or her gross income, together with any income of the spouse, was as much as $1200 for the year; that is, as much as $23.08 per week. If husband and wife both have income, they must both make a return. Such return may be made separately, or, if they are both citizens or residents, they may make a joint return. A joint return may be made by husband and wife even though one has no income, and a joint return is advisable in the case of persons, one of whom has no income, who marry during the year, since the personal exemption attributable to each spouse during the period of pre-marital status is allowable in a joint return.

A joint return must be signed by both husband and wife and verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury. Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife on Form 1040, the joint personal exemption allowable ($1200 where the married status has existed throughout the year) may be taken by either, or divided between them in any proportion agreed upon. If separate returns are filed one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which belongs to him (or her).

No person is exempt from filing a return if his gross income is equal to or greater than the amount specified above for his classification. Neither the President of the United States, nor the Vice President, nor Federal Judges, nor Members of Congress, are exempt from filing returns.

Moreover, all income from whatever source, unless specifically excluded by statute, must be reported in the return. The type of income specifically exempt are listed in the instructions accompanying the return form.

A person whose gross income does not exceed $3000, and consists wholly of salary, wages, dividends, interest, or annuities, may make a Simplified Return on Form 1040A, in which the tax due may be readily ascertained by reference to a table contained in the form.

A husband and wife living together on July 1 of the taxable year may file separate Simplified Returns if the gross income of each is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3000, or they may file a single joint return on that form if their combined income is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3000. A taxpayer may not, however, file a Simplified Return if the other spouse files a return on Form 1040.

WHEN, WHERE AND HOW TAXES ARE TO BE PAID

Taxes due on a return filed for the calendar year 1942 may be paid in full at the time for the filing of the return on or before March 15, 1943. The tax may, at the option of the taxpayer, be paid in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment is to be paid on or before March 15, the second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15, 1943. If the taxpayer elects to pay his tax in four installments, each of the four installments must be equal in amount, but any installment may be paid, at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the time prescribed for its payment. If an installment is not paid in full on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax remaining unpaid is required to be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

The tax must be paid to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer's return is required to be filed—that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business, or if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, then to the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Maryland.

In the payment of taxes a fractional part of a cent is to be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

The tax due, if any, should be paid in cash at the collector's office, in by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue." In the case of payment in cash, the taxpayer should in every instance require and the collector should furnish a receipt. In the case of payments made by check or money order, however, the canceled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

Fines Imposed In J. P. Court Here

M. L. Daniels paid a fine of $25 and costs in Justice Bull's court here last Wednesday for failure to secure and give a health certificate for an animal disposed of at his sale.

For failure to have an operator's license, Kenneth LeRoy Baker, Eugene David Schrader and L. C. Witcosky paid fines of $5.00 and costs.

Lester Victor Howe, after being in the county jail for a day, had his fine of $100 and costs paid by his employer. He was picked up after running into Mike Daniels' car and was charged with driving a car after his license had been revoked last fall.

Last Saturday Rolland Quincy Saylor was fined $15 and costs for having no operator's license and for violating the basic rule. He was given until March 10 to pay.

On Monday Robert Lester Cudmen was fined $1.00 for having no chauffeur's license, Vernon Walter Konrad was summoned to appear Feb. 27 because he had no driver's license, and the case of Lee Edward Day, for the same neglect, is pending.

Marriage Licenses

Feb. 18—Thomas Waldrop Moore, of Empire, and Claire Helen Stirrat, of Seattle.

Feb. 20—Charles Franklin Stone and Geraldine Neideigh, both of Charleston.

Feb. 20—Norman John Richards and Patricia Lee Chase, both of Charleston. They were married last Saturday by Rev. Chas. G. Brown at the Pioneer parsonage here.

Feb. 23—Albert Viri Nighswonger and Lucille Daisy Capps, both of North Bend.

What is America Fighting For?

Protection of Property!

(One of the Essentials of a Democracy)

Abraham Lincoln said: "Property is the fruit of labor. Property is desirable. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus assuring that his home be safe from violence when built."

On this philosophy of protected property rights, Americans have built America. They have successfully defended this precious principle for more than 300 years.

On today's far-flung battle fronts, Americans fight again to protect their priceless principles of human liberty and individual rights . . . rights of free speech, a free press, the right to govern themselves, the right to own a home or a business, the right to work and enjoy the fruits of their toil.

To defend them, America fights, until Victory.
