Services Sunday For E. E. Johnson

Funeral services for E. E. Johnson, who passed away last Wednesday night, were held in the Pioneer church here at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, with a large attendance of his friends and acquaintances present.

The bier and railing in front of the altar were covered with the beautiful floral offerings of friends in token of their love and admiration for this sterling character who has gone to his heavenly reward.

Rev. Chas. G. Brown officiated at the service and the message of comfort to the family was brought by Rev. Wm. J. Fenton, pastor of the church here 40 years ago, and who came down from his home in Portland to officiate at the obsequies of the one whom he knew so well at the time Mr. Johnson became a member of that church. Mrs. M. O. Hawkins presided at the organ.

Mr. Fenton used the 14th chapter of St. John, in which Christ was quoted by his beloved disciple as saying, "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me." In the course of his remarks, he referred to Mr. Johnson as "one of the best and most clean-minded men he had ever known."

Interment was in the Johnson plot in the Masonic cemetery. Honorary pall bearers who were present for the service and interment were J. S. Barton, L. H. Hazard, A. N. Gould, John Standley, E. A. Walker, David Miller, Ralph T. Moore, W. J. Sweet, Lafe Compton, Geo. A. Ulett, O. C. Sanford, Stewart Lyons, Fred Powers, R. A. Wernich, R. A. Jeub, H. W. Mast, F. L. Greenough, Ralph Pointer, Adrian and Noble Standley.

Pallbearers who bore the body to its final resting place were Reidar Bugge and James Lyons, of Marshfield; J. A. Berg, J. A. Lamb, M. O. Hawkins and H. A. Young, of Coquille.

Mention was not made in last week's issue that Eck Johnson was twice mayor of Coquille, a quarter of a century ago, and at about the same time served on the Port of Bandon commission. His administration as mayor was one of the most satisfactory the town had ever known and many needed improvements were inaugurated during the four-year period.

Cranberry Canners Meeting August 1

The annual meeting of the Pacific Division of Cranberry Canners, Inc., will be held at the cranberry building here in Coquille Sunday, August 1, according to M. S. Anderson, representative of the organization who has been here for several weeks remodeling the building and preparing for the installation of machinery. The meeting will be attended by M. L. Urann, Wareham, Mass., president of Cranberry Canners, Inc., who has been attending such meetings in the eastern and middle western sections of the country. He reports that at the general meeting, held at Hanson, Mass., more than 400 growers were in attendance. Urann is expected to arrive in Coos county Friday. Divisional meetings were held in New Jersey and Wisconsin.

Of primary importance to growers is the resolution which has been adopted at the other meetings, the substance of which is that the nationwide co-operative will strive to the utmost to get an average of $15 per barrel for growers for the next ten-year period. The average for the past ten-year period was $10 per barrel.

The membership in Cranberry Canners, Inc., according to Anderson, is now marketing and canning more than 80 per cent of the national production in the United States and the membership includes the largest growers in the country.

Installation of machinery and operation of the cannery in Coquille this fall is now a certainty, Anderson said. The equipment will be somewhat larger than at first planned and some special provisions have had to be made in the remodeling program at the building to accommodate the equipment.

The entire output of the cannery at Coquille this fall will go toward filling orders for the Army and Navy. A dehydration plant at Grayland, Wash., now being installed, will furnish that product for the Armed Forces and for Lend-Lease, of which 3,000,000 are required. It takes ten pounds of cranberries to produce one pound of dehydrated product.

Beautiful Wedding Ceremony July 24

The wedding last Saturday evening, July 24, when Jean Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Newton, became the bride of Wayne Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Schroeder, was one of the most beautiful of the midsummer season.

The ceremony was at eight o'clock at the Assembly of God Church, with Rev. Lloyd Persing officiating. Standing for the double ring ceremony before a bank of green, arranged with fern and huckleberry mingled with white lilies, daisies and pink roses, the bride was a picture in a dress of egg shell satin, with fitted bodice fastened down the front with loops and small covered buttons and trimmed with pleating. She wore a finger-tip veil. The bride's bouquet was of white rosebuds and a purple orchid, with shower of white sweet peas.

The bride was attended by her sister, Helen Newton, as maid of honor. She wore yellow crepe. Bridesmaids were Dorothy Belle Newton and Margaret Steward in pink dotted swiss. Lenore Stevens and Mary Lou Newton were in blue dotted swiss. All carried lovely old-fashioned nosegays. Sharon Strong and Karen Liday, as flower girls, were dressed in orchid taffeta and in green taffeta.

Best man was Wallace Howard. Ushers were George Clarno, of North Bend; Glen Church, Allan Rhay and Ernest Wallace.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the lower auditorium, where the bride and groom cut the large square-tiered cake.

Playground News

Children have been having good times at the Playground the past week, swinging, playing on rings and bars, playing checkers, and reading. The sandbox has been the scene of much activity. One may see a village, a fort, or highways, filled with buzzing vehicles, constructed in the sand. These crude constructions, together with children's grave imaginations, make for a good time for the younger children. Our platform, too, is filled with youngsters acting out plays of their own origination, playing house, or putting on a program of singing, verses, stories, and plays. Children are having a lot of fun. Come and join them.

Last Friday a group of children gave an amusing program. There was singing, reciting and acting. An original playlet, in which was demonstrated the care of children of working mothers, and its ensuing difficulties, was greatly enjoyed. Both the children giving the play, and the audience, were well entertained.

Tournaments, too, have been enjoyed the past week. Loren Steward is the champion, having won in the Badminton, horseshoe, croquet, and table tennis tournaments. Come. Participate. Join in the fun and excitement.

Boys, don't forget the model airplane, boat, etc. show Friday. Bring your models. They will be displayed and voted upon. Show others what you are capable of doing. Prizes will be given.

Remember, Friday is special picnic day. Come Friday morning, bring your lunch, and stay all day. You will be sure to enjoy yourself.

—Miss Page, Supervisor.
