New Treatment For Paralysis Studied

An institute on the Kenny treatment for infantile paralysis is being held at the University of Oregon medical school in Portland, Sept. 16, 17 and 18, for nurses and physicians only. Dr. G. E. Stark, Mrs. Stark, Leila Elrod, Ethel Littler, of Coquille, and Gladys Nollner, school nurse at North Bend, left this week to attend the sessions. Mrs. Elrod left on Tuesday and the others on Wednesday.

There is no infantile paralysis in Coos county at present; so far we have been fortunate in this section, with the disease all around us. One case at Reedsport was attended by a Coos county physician.

The county court, the president's birthday fund and the Health association financed the trip for the group from Coos county.
