

Beautiful Tea For Mrs. Kampf Monday

different and interesting way by paralleling old books with new. All books discussed or reviewed by Miss Stephens are available for borrowers here in the City Library. A little volume entitled "Invitation to Spanish," was displayed and recommended to those wishing to acquaint themselves with the Spanish language, as a follow-up of Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar's talk before the same group a month ago.

Miss Stephens came to Oregon two months ago from the Los Angeles library, where she had been for sixteen years. She spent Monday in Myrtle Point, Tuesday here and left that evening by bus for Elkton, where she was to be Wednesday.

Mrs. George Chaney, chairman of Education, had charge of the program and read a paper on the history of this state. This was a part of a plan to commemorate the Oregon Trail Centennial. The stage was hung with fine old blue and white counterpanes, one owned by Mrs. M. O. Hawkins being an heirloom from her grandmother. Another large-patterned one was the property of Mrs. R. A. Wernich handed down from five generations in her family. A side table displayed beautiful old platters and glassware, precious treasures owned by various members and lending atmosphere and background.

Highlight of the afternoon was a tableau and fitting symbolism of their ancestors, portrayed by Mrs. E. L. Schroeder and her three little girls, as a pioneer mother and children. They were dressed in the ancient clothes of one hundred years ago and as they crossed the stage, Leona Bryant sang "The Oregon Trail," to Inez Rover's piano accompaniment. It was all so beautiful many present were touched with the effect.

Mrs. George L. Maynard speaking for the federal employment office in Marshfield, stated there is a shortage of manpower in the county and announced a drive to enroll women students for the vocational school in Marshfield.

Mrs. B. D. Kesner, war activities chairman, stated that more knitters are needed to make regulation socks and also stump socks and that the yarn is on hand.

A drive to sell bonds during November by women of the Federation in "Buy a Bomber" campaign was reported by Mrs. Boober.

A number of club women and the librarians from Myrtle Point and from Bandon were here for the meeting.

Tea was served, with Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Osterhout pouring. The table was unusually beautiful, lace-covered with an arrangement of fruit for the centerpiece and lighted candles. Mrs. Claire Gray was chairman of the hostess committee, composed of Mesdames G. W. Tyrrell, Lee Stonecypher, R. B. Rogers, F. R. Osterhout, P. W. Norton, R. T. Newton, C. M. Hartwell, S. A. Harmon, Jack Dolan, Geo. Bryant, E. L. Benham and W. H. Barrow.

Mrs. O. C. Sanford, president of the club, in presiding over the business session, announced a change in the December program when Mrs. Geo. Moorhead, president of the Oregon Federation, will be here instead of in January.

Supper Party For Bride

A small but delightful supper party in honor of Ann Hawkins Kampf, was given the first of the week by Markie Smith Sherrill at her home. Supper was served in candlelight at a table set attractively with flowers and candelabra in yellow. Beautiful gifts from the friends present were received by the honor guest. Attending besides Mrs. Kampf were Mesdames Jeannette Collier, Jean Bryan, Peggy Hennessey and Miss Eunice Howe.

Gilbert - Hollenbeck Nuptials Saturday

Miss Tharel Hollenbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie W. Hollenbeck of Coquille, last Saturday evening became the bride of Glenn Gilbert, Jr. The ceremony was performed at the home of Liston Parrish, minister of the Church of Christ here, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Anderson were their attendants.

Following a short honeymoon on which the happy couple left for Portland Sunday, returning Wednesday, they will make their home at the Anderson Bros. ranch where the groom is now employed.

The bride has been attending the Coquille schools since coming here with her father, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Gilbert, formerly of Riverport, but now living in Portland. He is a graduate of the Riverport high school.

Thursday evening this week Mr. and Mrs. Hollenbeck are entertaining, with an informal buffet dinner, for the many friends of the newly-weds.

B. P. W. Want Junk Jewelry

A business meeting was held Monday evening of last week by the Business and Professional Women's Club at the Guild Hall. A report was given by Viola Newton, war activities chairman on the collection of junk jewelry. She stated a prize would go to the member who brought in the most jewelry at the next meeting. A report by the president, Mrs. Florence Hallock, showed the canvass for the war fund almost complete. Lois Stevens, (Mrs. T. S.), was elected to membership.

The membership and emblem committee was in charge of the program and social hour. Dorothy Beagle, talented young pianist, played "Turkish March," Mozart, and "Eccosaies," Beethoven. Inez Rover, music and arts chairman, read a paper entitled, "The Yanks Are Singing." American soldiers, she said, began singing in the Revolutionary war and are still singing.

Members were asked to tell why they belong to the club. Very interesting reasons and remarks were given. Some of the favorite songs of service men, including their favorite hymn, "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms," were sung by those in assembly, also "I've Got Sixpence." Inez Rover accompanied and Clara Stauff led the singing.

Bertha Smith and Ida Oerding won prizes in a contest on the symbols and words on the B. P. W. emblem.

Popcorn, served from electric poppers, was the treat of the evening. The next meeting, Nov. 15, will be a Victory Garden Potluck dinner at 6:30. Members will come dressed as Daisy Mae or Lil Abner. War activities committee, Viola Newton, chairman, will be in charge. Members attending last Monday

Junior Women Have Social Evening

The Junior Women's Club, with Mrs. Harold Withnell presiding, met last Monday evening at the Parish House for their regular bi-monthly meeting. During the short business meeting the report was given on the Sadie Hawkins dance. This was a success in every way and netted a neat sum for the benefit of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs. Bernice Moltu was elected treasurer to succeed Yvonne Kern, who resigned on account of her approaching marriage. Mrs. Geo. L. Maynard discussed the vocational school in Marshfield and told of the shortage of manpower in Coos county.

Ruth Creager was in charge of the card party, following the business session. Prizes were won by Mary Stevens, at bridge; Bessie Burrell, pinochle; Lois Medley, contract rummy. The committee on refreshments consisted of Marge Throckmorton, Bea Oederkirk and Georgia Hansen. Attending were Margaret Wylie, Bessie Burrell, Catherine Maynard, Marie Carlson, Eileen Bryant, Vern Earl, Ione Winkel, Beverly Price, Mary Stevens, Francis Detlefsen, Marge Throckmorton, Gertrude Swinney, Dorothy Harris, Dois Sayre, Bea Oederkirk, Avis Ricketts, Roberta Stonecypher, Mavis Tyrrell, Avis Hudson, Mary Lou Culver, Genevieve Hudson and Lois Medley.

Royal Neighbors Initiate

An initiation ceremonial was held last Wednesday evening for Miss Marie Clinton at the regular meeting of Royal Neighbors lodge. Ann Montgomery, district deputy from Marshfield, was present. Tea was served following the ceremonies with Mrs. Will Jones and Mrs. M. D. Sherrard as hostesses. The table was attractive with a centerpiece of chrysanthemums. Place cards, cleverly decorated with cedar cones were a feature of the decorative scheme.

Members present were Mesdames Jane Burch, oracle; Nellie Martindale, Dorothy Noble, Agnes Schroeder, Belle Belloni, Ruby Johnson, Rena Giles, Mildred Wardrip, Jane Torrey, Hattie Gaffey and Marie Clinton.

Party at J. S. Barton Home
Mrs. J. S. Barton arranged a surprise birthday party for her son, Ben, held last Monday evening at the Barton home. The evening was given over to dancing and finished off with a tempting spread. Attending were Misses Lunelle Chapin, Vera Bishop, Phyllis Litzengerger, Maxine Whereat, Jeanne Griggs, Barbara Barrows and Messrs. Jim Howe, DeWayne Mitchell, Frank Woodward and Claire Gray.
