He immediately took a plane to Portland and then came home to spend three days with Mrs. Crews and their baby. He had to leave again Monday night for Portland to catch a plane south.

Lieut. Crews, formerly one of the Coquille school faculty, naturally would not tell of his experiences for publication, but he has had them and from his tone not all of them were pleasant.

He has been over seas for two years and was at Pearl Harbor a month after the Jap attack there.

He has also been stationed at the Palmyra Islands and at Honolulu before his leave for the states. He left for Albany, Oregon, a few days ago, where he was to be married to Miss Stella Garland, after which they will return to California. Melvin has been assigned to new construction at San Pedro, after his furlough expires. "We had word from Arthur Wilberger who is in the Army Tank Division, from New York, that he is leaving for over seas," Mrs. Wilberger adds.

Marlin Brandon Writes From England

Marlin J. Brandon, writing from somewhere in England, Dec. 29, to the Sentinel, says he is "getting along fine these days and hopes all is the same at home." He sends his best regards to friends here and adds that he did not have much of a Christmas over there, "but will make up for it next year, I hope." He sends clippings of British newspapers from which we will quote in a future issue.

Marvin R. Sturgeon Receives Purple Heart Decoration

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sturgeon received a letter recently from their son, Marvin R. Sturgeon who is in the Naval hospital at San Francisco recovering from injuries he received somewhere in the Pacific. He had to get a friend to write for him as one hand was still in bandages. He wrote them of the honor conferred when Admiral David pinned the purple heart emblem on him. The emblem bears a picture of Geo. Washington. Marvin adds that the honor of being decorated, following injury in action, is not all for "it is an honor itself to fight for one's country."

The friend who wrote the letter adds his own contribution, "you can feel very proud of your son, as we here are."

Marvin expects to be able to come home soon on sick leave.

Pat McKeown Home After Two Years

Pat McKeown was home for a five days visit with his mother, Mrs. Mary McKeown, and his sisters, Madaline and Norene. This was the first visit home since his enlistment in the Navy in February, 1942. Pat was looking wonderful, bronzed and in the best of health. He has participated in the invasions of North Africa, Sicily and Italy. He wears a Presidential Citation ribbon for outstanding action in Sicily. His ship was one of six to be so honored thus far in the war. Just a few of the places he has been are Cape Town, South Africa, Bombay, India, Murmansk, Russia and Glasgow, Scotland. After the North African invasion Pat was returned to New York for hospitalization because of frozen hands but he recovered and his hands show little effect from the ordeal.

Pat is a Torpedoman, second class.

Sergeant Carl Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Johnson, came home Monday from Geiger Field in Washington on a 14 day furlough, the first of any length he has had since he became a part of Uncle Sam's Army 16 months ago. He is with the Headquarters and Service Company of the Engineers at Geiger Field.

B. C. Jeffrey Tells Service Men's Ideas

Bernard C. Jeffrey, Coquille young man who enlisted in the Navy two years ago and for the last 13 months had been stationed on a mine-sweeper, off the African Mediterranean coast, got home December 29 on leave, and when he leaves Jan. 24, to report back for duty it will be to Norfolk, Va.

Most of the activity his boat has been engaged in is convoy duty and he was present at many of the important landings in North Africa.

Jeffrey, who landed back in New York the day before Christmas, says that from his observations too many people who do not see the terrifying aspects of war as he has—hundreds of maimed and permanently injured young men brought back to the United States—do not realize that there is a war on. The unimportant things which seem to loom so large in the civilian's life led him to make that observation.

Commenting on the service man's views Mr. Jeffrey says that without exception those he has seen are more burned up and resentful of conditions on the home front about the war-time strikes and threats of strikes than anything else. Nor is his an isolated opinion. All the boys at the front are boiling with indignation that a few cents an hour increase in pay would threaten the continuous flow of war materials to the boys at the front who are gladly risking life itself to save what America stands for.

Jeffrey also mentions zoot-suiters and magazine pictures of parties, dancing girls and other "life as usual" depictions as being resented by the over-seas men.

Dr. J. Edward Dehne, former Public Health Official in Coos county, now a captain in the U. S. Army medical corp has left San Francisco since the holidays for over sea duty. His wife and children have gone back to North Dakota.
