County Farm Buys Registered Jersey

A registered Jersey bull has been purchased by Coos County Farm from O. H. Aasen of Arago. The name of the animal is Volunteer Duke St. Maves 448495.

The whereabouts of all registered Jerseys is known and carefully watched over by The American Jersey Cattle Club, with offices in New York City, which sends this item to the Sentinel. This important job is made possible through registrations and transfers made by Jersey Breeders everywhere. Tattoo identification, somewhat similar to fingerprinting, keeps individuals of this dairy breed always known.

Capt. Guchee Again Takes "Port of Bandon" To Sea

Captain Martin Guchee, tug pilot hero of the Aleutians, who has been at his home here on leave while recuperating from an operation, left Friday for San Francisco to again report for duty with the U. S. Engineers. Mrs. Guchee, an employee of the Bank of Bandon, has received word that her husband has again been assigned as master of the tug "Port of Bandon."

A government official, who cannot be quoted at this time, is reported to have recently made the statement to a Port of Bandon official that the little Bandon-built tug with Captain Guchee at the helm, is credited with winning one of the most important battles in the Aleutians when Guchee and his tug transported supplies under most hazardous and adverse conditions at a critical period when all other sources of assistance had failed. —Western World.

Waste Paper Still No. 1 Salvage Need

So great is the need for waste paper, magazines, etc., that the WPB and mill operators have agreed to maintain current markets for waste paper indefinitely. This makes it possible for new entries in the U. S. Victory Waste Paper Campaign to set about their collections with as much enthusiasm as those starting last November or December. It also enables communities where the campaign has been under way for several months to place their collections on a regular and continuing basis. Mills of the nation according to advice from Washington headquarters of the WPB, have pledged themselves to give 30-day notice of any necessity to suspend the present agreement. This should serve as a further protection to salvage committees, schools and other volunteer collectors of waste paper.

Waste paper at this time continues to be the No. 1 war salvage need, however, and every effort should be made throughout the state to further accelerate collections, bearing in mind that, in every case, arrangements should be completed, in advance, by salvage committees for the sale, transportation and disposition of all paper collected. If county and local salvage committees continue to adhere to this policy, virtually every section of Oregon should be able to maintain waste paper collections on a sound, constructive basis to the vast benefit of the War effort and to the community concerned.

The above item comes direct from the Oregon salvage headquarters and is authentic. Any one who has an accumulation of this No. 1 salvage need should contact the local chairman, Geo. F. Burr, or Stan Sherwood at once.

Can You Picture Without Newspapers?

Headline news. War news. Foreign, national, local news. Births, weddings, deaths, politics, the comics. What would we do without newspapers! Most folks take this service for granted. But our strong, free press, serving a free people, would be the first thing dictators would suppress if they had the chance. Everybody here, and in cities and towns throughout America, depends on newspapers for information, inspiration and entertainment. We're all proud of our press and its vital part in American life.

Greyhound and Newspapers Work Together

Greyhound, just like your newspaper, renders an essential service. Like other business firms, Greyhound uses newspapers to contact its customers. In the West alone, regular Pacific Greyhound Lines advertising in more than 500 newspapers keeps people informed about bus travel service. In turn, Greyhound is an important factor in news distribution, carrying many newspapers into areas not served by other forms of public transportation.

Greyhound salutes your newspaper in which this message appears. It is an indispensable part of your daily life. With its help, and that of other newspapers, we are building a transportation service that is playing its part in the development of this city. Greyhound service will grow in value to the country, to the community and to you.
