

Bare Facts From Bear Creek

"The Column that's Different"
(By Lana Leneve)

Next Sunday is Father's Day. The Nation pays homage to Dad. To those who are still fortunate enough to have Dad with us it is a day for rejoicing. To those whose Dads have departed, it brings a tinge of sadness but brightened by fond memories that are recalled on this day that has been set aside to honor Dad. It brings to mind happy hours spent beside the family fireside, of childhood problems that were brought to Dad in that far distant past—memories once again relived on this day.

About every worth while child always looked up to Dad and always figured him tops, not only during those kid days, but through life as well. He was a great guy in those far distant days and he still is a wonderful guy, whether living today in reality, or merely in fond memory. Yes, it is fitting, indeed, that the Nation should set aside a day on which to honor Dad.

After being on again and off again over a period of several weeks, on account of the late spring rains, the logging trucks operating from the Harrington-Ray Camp on upper Bear Creek are really doing their stuff.

A woman in Portland called up the airport there (the army airport) and complained about the noise of the training planes in flight. She was informed by the officer in command that the constant flying meant the saving of more of our boys' lives when they became engaged in actual combat. The woman replied that she wished all the fliers were dead, so that she might get some sleep. We are wondering if by any chance she happens to be one of those "ladies from Hell" that we have heard so much about. If she is, she should return home for that is where she belongs.

Everett Cameron purchased, sold and traded two truck loads of horses last week. There is one advantage in disposing of a horse, there isn't any gas or rubber to be argued about. If he is slightly the worse for wear, it isn't necessary to call in a mechanic—a few feeds of oats will put him back on the road again.

Jack Arnold, our old fishin' friend from Coquille, stopped in to see us a while back. He was very anxious to have us look over his fishing boat, which he had along on a trailer. So we both stepped out to look the boat over (Jack and I.) But at the same instant, our gaze was attracted to something else. Well, anyway Jack pulled off for home without either of us looking at his boat. That is, we are pretty sure that Jack's boat doesn't wear shorts. But if that was Jack's boat that we were really looking at, we claim that it was a real work of art.

We wish to thank Dr. Calver Oram Mace, of Sahta Barbara, Calif., for his splendid letter of appreciation for this column and comments regarding our personal freedom and rights under The New Deal. Parts of his letter—a real message to the voters of this country will be printed just as soon as space permits. And we also wish to thank another good American citizen—John Donovan—for his nice letter in which he backs to the fullest, the stand we have taken regarding the Japs that are residing in this country. His opinion on the subject is, indeed, praise-worthy. Many thanks to both these good friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Haga, accompanied by Ronnie and Lucy, spent a few days last week visiting at the "Jumbo" Albertson home at Reedsport. Mr Haga claims that the transportation from outlying districts to the Reedsport depot is something that should be corrected.

Graydon Haga, Bear Creek farmer, has recovered from a recent serious mouth and throat ailment. It wasn't the hoof and mouth disease, but Graydon says that he can sympathize with cattle thus afflicted.

Howdy Folks:

Well some how we missed our column the past two weeks, but it didn't seem to put the paper out of business so we will come again.

We've been panned a great deal for running this space when we have more work than we can do.

Did you ever think of how much you might miss a good newspaper and that it takes more than subscriptions to keep one in business?

It also takes a lot of work to keep a shop busy.
