

Bare Facts From Bear Creek

"The Calumna that's Different"
(By Lana Leneve)

Last week, Raymond Wilson, while on his way to assist August Herman in the hayfield, took his eyes off the road long enough to shout a greeting to a friend who was riding a bike. The Wilson car left the road and turned over. The accident occurred on the fill near the Jim Jenkins ranch. Wilson, the only occupant of the car was not injured and neither was the car damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dean, Ray's dad, Doc, and daughter, Frances, made us a pleasant call last week. "Doc" Dean, now residing in Portland, is one of the state's oldest newspapermen, although now retired. He at one time owned and published the old Coquille Herald — 'way back somewhere in the 90's.

There is one bear that never hibernates, that cannot be trapped, is seldom stopped during a charge and is relentless in his killing. We are referring to "The Russian Bear."

One of the first moves made by F.D.R. which failed to meet with general public approval was the changing of Thanksgiving Day. It was the first move of abused power and authority shoved down the throats of the American public. If the war hadn't interrupted the general theme of things, by now we probably would be celebrating the Fourth of July on Christmas and would be eating our turkey and exchanging gifts on Declaration Day. Who knows? Farley has practically "expired" along the New Deal political trail, Wallace has also been discarded. Many good democrats have turned their backs upon The New Deal. And that New Deal reminds us of an old clock that has about ticked out its allotted time. The new parts installed do not mesh with the old wheels. It may tick on and on but it is undependable and, although it may be nursed along for a few more years, it is better that it be replaced by a new one for an entirely satisfactory showing. After all there is nothing actually so good that it cannot be replaced by something just as good, or more often far better. And The New Deal is far, far from being "new" any longer. Like the old clock, it has become pretty well worn out.

The first death reported in the armed forces of any person from this immediate vicinity, was news received from the War Department last Saturday by Mrs. Wava Chesley, that her husband, Private Chesley, had been killed in action in France, July 4. The couple had been married less than two years and "Red," as he was known to everybody on "the Crick," had only recently arrived in England—just in time to get in on the invasion.

It was "Red's" fervent wish that he be sent across so that he might help in "getting the mess over with as soon as possible," as he expressed it. Well, he has done his bit—gave his gallant life for his country, the supreme sacrifice of a fighting man, and those of us who knew him during his brief stay on Bear Creek, may well feel proud of him and, through giving up his life, of a deed well done. The memory of such men, their deeds and sacrifices are not soon forgotten.

Last week we noted the fact that "Red" had written his wife from a fox-hole in Normandy. There will be no more messages sent from fox-holes by this departed lad—a white cross marks his last resting place by now but the memory of him will linger on.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Sanford, of Coquille, stopped to say "hello" last Saturday. It's nice meeting old friends and neighbors like them, once again.

Chester Ellingsen, who resided in Coos county many years ago, was on Bear Creek last week, looking up old tillicums. He was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Chas. Ashton, of Coquille.

Mrs. C. D. (Grandma) Minor passed away last Friday. She was a resident of Winters Heights and a highly respected and loved lady of this community.

I'm not going to walk!

"It's three miles to the war plant where I work. Buses and street cars are packed with people who have no other way to get to their jobs. When men who know tell me it may be months before I can buy new tires—that I'd better take care of the ones I have—nurse them along by careful driving—have them recapped just as soon as they need it—that's warning enough for me."

Despite tremendous progress made in the synthetic rubber program, America still faces a serious shortage of tires for civilian use. Military needs for rubber are tremendous. The manpower shortage is pinching tire manufacturers just as every other industry. The tires we now have must be made to last indefinitely.

That's the hard truth, Mr. and Mrs. America. And it calls for another hitch in the belt for you, the Joneses, the Smiths and us.

HERE'S WHAT YOUR GOVERNMENT ASKS YOU TO DO:

- 1 Drive only when necessary. Ask yourself "Am I playing fair with our fighting men?"
- 2 Keep under 35 miles per hour. The government regulation for wartime driving is doubly important now.
- 3 Keep tires inflated to recommended pressure (usually 32 lbs. for passenger cars). Check them regularly.
- 4 Drive carefully... avoid hitting holes in the road, stones or curbs. Avoid sudden starts and stops... "jack rabbit" driving scuffs off precious rubber.
- 5 Consult your tire service man. Inspect tires for damage and slow leaks... make repairs promptly... check brakes and wheel alignment... switch tires from wheel to wheel every 5,000 miles.
- 6 Report bad spots in streets or highways to the proper authorities.
- 7 Share your car—it saves both tires and gasoline.
- 8 Recap before it's too late. Tires need recapping as soon as the tread wears smooth. Get expert advice.
