Sgt. Carl Johnson Here For Week

Sergeant and Mrs. Carl Johnson, who had been here for six days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy C. Johnson, are leaving today for his station at the camp near Spokane, where he is a member of an Army Engineer company. Carl had had a 15-day furlough and they visited Mrs. Johnson's parents in Provo, Utah, before coming to Coquille.

He was not certain as to future assignments but rather anticipated that his outfit was to be sent overseas in the not distant future.

Carl is looking well and the force of the Sentinel, where he was employed before joining the Army, were all glad to see him and wish him good luck.

Clark Gearhart Home From Italy

Pfc. William Clark Gearhart, son of Coquille's City Engineer and Mrs. J. N. Gearhart, arrived home last Saturday after being overseas for 25 months, in England, Africa and Italy. He will have three weeks at home.

Clark, as he is known to home folks, although in the Army he is William C., was with the Mediterranean Aviation Transport Service, and when his furlough is over he is to report at Camp Ord, near Monterey, Calif., Sept. 6, but where he will go from there he does not know.

Clark landed with U. S. forces in Africa in December, 1942, and had been in Italy for about a month before being sent home.

He reports having seen in Italy a former Coquille boy, Ted Miller, son of Marion C. Miller, and says that Ted was the only one of a group of 13 he was with who survived some recent engagement.

C. H. S. Graduate Wins Bravery Award

A Coquille High School graduate, who before his induction into the Army was employed at the plant here—Private First Class Oran V. Holbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Holbrook of Riverton—has been awarded a Bronze Star by his commanding officer for his gallantry and bravery in action in the Pacific war theatre.

The Japs were attacking on Vella LaVella Island and Oran's counter attack broke up the enemy threat.

Alone, he crawled forward and with hand grenades and his rifle, wiped out the enemy machine-gun crew. That loss caused the Japs to withdraw and they were hurried in that by the rest of Oran's outfit who were inspired by his spectacular, brave action and poured in concentrated rifle fire.

Leo Aber A B-29 Bomber Engineer

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Aber have received the following letter, written July 21, from their son, Staff Sgt. Leo Aber who is an engineer on a B-29 Boeing Bomber and who is stationed in Italy. He writes interestingly as follows:

"I'm fat and lazy. I went on a raid the other day. I got a good look at Germany and at anti-aircraft shells bursting. We call the jagged pieces of steel that fly in all directions 'flak.' I got a good introduction to it. A piece came through the pilot's windshield between the two pilots and hit my boot. It cut my flying boot open, but failed to cut my shoe, it just knifed across my toe. I was up in the upper turret and it knocked by boot off of the foot rest. It felt like some one had hit my boot with a sledge hammer. If it never gets any closer than this, it still came too darn close.

"You can't see the 'flak,' you only see the puff of smoke as it bursts. The ones you see, don't hurt you, it's the ones you don't see.

"Of the three crews that came here the same day from Colorado Springs—we're the only ones left. One crew ran out of gas and stopped at another field. When they took off, they piled up and killed five of them. The other crew was on a raid and we hit heavy 'flak.' It was very accurate—right in our formation. The last we saw of them they pulled out of formation over the target and started off alone (probably to crash land in Switzerland). That was the last we saw of them.

"The Germans are always looking for stragglers or crippled ships to shoot down. They rarely pick on a group of ships, especially if we have an escort of pursuits. They will dog-fight P51s but tear the devil out when P38s come along. They call them fork-tailed devils.

"We all wear 'flak' vests and helmets. The helmets have large flaps to cover your ears and the 'flak' vests cover your chest and back. They are made of small steel plates in a cloth covering and look like an apron. They weigh about 28 pounds. Handy little gadgets, even if they are clumsy.

"Well up to now, I've not got any mail. It's slow as the dickens."

Williams-Fetch Nuptials In Texas

The Presbyterian church at Coleman, Texas, was the scene of a pretty wedding of a Coquille valley couple on Saturday, July 29, when Genevieve Fetch, youngest daughter of Wendelyn Fetch of Riverton, became the bride of Aviation Cadet W. Phillip Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Williams of Coquille.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John J. Mueller before an altar beautifully decorated with tall baskets of garden flowers and white tapers.

Mrs. Dorothy Williams, mother of the groom, attended the bride and a classmate of the groom at the flying school, Robert K. Windmiller, was best man. Flower girls and attractive music, including the wedding march, made it an event long to be remembered by those present.

Mrs. Williams, who is a graduate of the Riverton High School and later was employed in the Swift & Co. office here, will make her home in Coleman while her husband is attending the aviation school.

The groom graduated from Coquille High School and has been in the Army Air Corps since Feb. 10, 1942.
