

Letter From Mrs. Marjorie Holzgang In California

Mrs. Robert Holzgang, the former Marjorie Knight, writes the Sentinel from Burlingame, Calif., that "Mrs. Ruth Dey and Janice have just spent a week here with me. Harold is at Camp Roberts in San Miguel, California, and Ruth and Janice came up to visit with me after Bob left. We had a really good Coquille visit, even if we are in California."

Writing about Bob, formerly shop superintendent for Southwestern Motors here, Marjorie wrote: "I would like to give you more information about Bob, too, but actually this is all I know. The squadron is stopping in Honolulu, but only for a short while, then on to the South Pacific. I hear from him very often so far, and get a letter back from him in three days, airmail of course, but soon it will take longer. He has three brothers out there in those islands and he may run into someone he knows from Coquille. I think we are certainly well represented out there, from what I have read about the activity. Let's hope it is all finished before much longer."

Mrs. Ralph Leneve Gives Dinner Party For Three

Mrs. Ralph Leneve gave a pretty dinner party in the Coffee Shop on Wednesday of last week in honor of three birthdays—her husband's, that of her daughter, Mrs. Clara Wilson and of her brother, Lee Osborne. Beside the honored guests those present were Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Presnall, Mrs. Lella McClure and Mrs. Evelyn Allen.

Pay Roll Peaks Reached In 1943

Oregon's manufacturing pay rolls crossed the half-billion mark in 1943 for the first time in the state's history, while the total earnings of workers in all lines probably reached close to a billion dollars, it was revealed in a recent analysis of wage reports from approximately 10,000 employers covered by the unemployment compensation law. The analysis was based on the recent final report on 1943 figures as submitted by the state Commission to the Federal Security Agency.

The 2,450 manufacturers reported $519,997,000 paid to employees last year comparing with $114,912,725 in 1940 and $343,637,370 in 1942. During the same period manufacturing employment rose from a peak month of 98,280 in 1940 to nearly 200,000 in June, 1943. Shipbuilding and plane construction employed 96,019 workers at the peak a year ago.

Employees covered by the unemployment law earned $786,623,052 last year, according to reports received by the Commission up to June 30, 1944. Representing an increase of a third over 1942 and more than three times as great as in 1940, last year's payrolls were by far the greatest in the state's industrial history. Wages reported for each of the last three quarters of 1943 were well over the $200-million mark and if bad weather in January and February had not slowed up production, first quarter pay rolls would have been considerably higher. Here are the figures: First quarter—$171,040,285; second—$205,094,771; third—$205,553,388; fourth—$204,944,608.

Joe Berg, twelve-year old son of Attorney and Mrs. J. A. Berg, went on his first fishing trip to the Rogue river last Thursday. No apologies for his luck were necessary as he caught three salmon, one weighing 20 pounds and two 18 pounds. He accompanied his father and C. G. Caughell.

"Song of Bernadette" Screen Triumph At Roxy Tue. & Wed.

As long as the human heart has the power to feel, to love, to suffer, to triumph, "The Song of Bernadette" will be remembered as a great motion picture, wondrously conceived and entrancingly unfolded.

It is beyond all question the fulfillment of all you had hoped it would be... beyond all comparison in its emotional sweep and power... beyond all conception in the miraculous spell it cast over all have seen it.

Accolades will be bestowed—and with a lavish hand—upon 20th Century-Fox for the remarkable manner in which it has bridged the transition from the novel to the screen. Great and universally beloved as was Franz Werfel's story of "Bernadette" between book covers, it is infinitely greater and more compelling as a motion picture.

Only the highest praise will suffice for the director, Henry King, and the producer, William Perlberg, into whose hands the destiny of bringing the novel onto the screen was entrusted. Each, in his respective capacity, records the outstanding achievement of his career. All credit is due, too, to George Seaton for his screen play, which faithfully follows the pattern of Werfel's story.

In the title role of the Maid of Lourdes, Jennifer Jones makes the most auspicious debut in Hollywood history. Here is a star—and one who had flared into being with a brilliance that shines with the mark of greatness. A bow to David O. Selznick for her discovery!

Matching Jennifer Jones' performance are the featured members of the cast: William Eythe, Charles Bickford, Vincent Price, Lee J. Cobb and Gladys Cooper. Others in important roles are well-nigh flawless.

From the moment when "Bernadette Soubirous," young daughter of an impoverished family, sees the vision of "The Beautiful Lady," "The Song of Bernadette" is a rare experience.

Bernadette's faith is from her heart. Lourdes seethes with excitement over report of the vision—the authorities grow increasingly concerned, fearing the effect on the people—but Bernadette holds steadfast. Dramatic moments in the film are many:

Bernadette is hailed into court and asked to deny she saw a vision. She disarmingly replies, "How can I deny it, when I did see it?"

The grotto is ordered closed, as a final measure. Bernadette impelled by a call from "The Lady," goes to the fence built to keep the townspeople away, and falls to her knees.

The young son of the Emperor Napoleon III, lies dying—a drink of water from the spring which has miraculously burst forth at the grotto revives him, and the grotto is ordered re-opened.

Bernadette is told by Peyamale that she must accept her destiny—that "The Lady" has chosen her, and that she must choose "The Lady."

"The Song of Bernadette" is a motion picture so deep in its understanding, so powerful in its emotional sweep, that for one immortal moment you touch the truth... the final fulfillment... of everything you are or ever hope to be.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Ella Sproule versus the "Horseless Carriage"

Miss Ella Sproule is a town legend. Never could get used to automobiles. Said there ought to be a law to ban the pesky things.

Finally, Miss Ella went to Bermuda where automobiles were outlawed. Then the Allies need bases there—and now Miss Ella watches jeeps whiz by and mutters, "There ought to be a law!"

Funny how certain folks, who don't like something, think it ought to be prohibited. Or else they try to run away from it, and it catches up with them—like Progress will.

Take the question of Prohibition versus Moderation. Even today, after Prohibition's dismal failure, you can hear well-meaning people say: "There ought to be another law."

From where I sit, there ought to be, instead, more facing of the facts—more realization that no law can ever take the place of tolerance and moderation, and decent law enforcement under proper regulation.
