Howdy Folks:
I read where it is possible to be happy without a fortune but no one can be happy without a friend.
Now I want to tell you, you'll be mighty well pleased when we rebuild your engines and it doesn't take a fortune either.

"The Column that's Different"
(By Lans Leneva)
Although rather late, we wish to chronicle the death of another good old time friend, Mrs. Ethel Baxter Hartman, and affectionately known as "Jim" to us since our kid days. Not many days before her passing, "Jim" stopped to pay us a friendly visit when we were confined to our bed with an heart attack. She was the same friendly person as of our kid days, though we had not seen her for many years. It was that same friendly spirit and downright loyalty to her friends—that made "Jim" Baxter such a popular and beloved lady by all who knew her. It is with the deepest regret and sorrow that we mark her passing, for there will never be another "Jim."
Speaking of old time friends: while rounding a corner, on foot, at Coquille recently, we collided with a lady and stopping to offer our apologies we recognized an old time friend, Frances Lane, but now Mrs. Frances Teaney. It is good indeed to meet old friends, especially such friends as Frances.
The radio operator on Guam who dodged the Japs for 31 months before finally being rescued, was ready to charge from a room where he was being interviewed by newspaper correspondents when he mistook a Chinese correspondent for a Jap. We are wondering just what is going to be the reaction of hundreds of thousands of our boys after the war, when they sight a Jap in this country, if the dirty "rats" are ever given their freedom here again? It's a cinch that they are not going to embrace them. An "open season" declared upon the whole outfit would be the nicest way to handle the situation.
The American girl who married the American born Japanese and gained much publicity is receiving even more. Her yellow, slant eyed, monkeyman husband, turned out to be a draft dodger. As we have stated in previous issues of this column, the American-born "skunks" have proved the worst of the lot in this country. We do not know just how F. D. R. will go down in history, but there is one thing certain and that is the fact that he should be listed as the greatest and slickest politician of all time. He was inspecting a war plant when nominated at the democratic convention, knowing of course that his nomination was "in the bag." But inspecting a war plant at that particular time was a great political move for "the commander in chief," for it made him appear in the minds of many voters to be more interested in the production of a war plant than he was in being nominated for a fourth term. But there was one time that he slipped up and that was when he was fishing down south when one of the most important battles of Italy to date was won. The New Dealers cannot give him credit for winning that.
F. D. R. however has two very commendable traits and these are his love for dogs and his fondness for fishing. We are mighty thankful that neither one of them comes under any of his New Deal bureaus or the APC, for they are about the only things left that are not rationed. Of course, there is a limit on game fish, but evidently the New Dealers have never thought of placing a limit on just how many dogs a person may own. But it's not too late yet.
May we call your attention to our comment on juvenile delinquency as expressed in "OUT-OF-DOORS-STUFF" in this issue of The Sentinel.

Townsend Club No. 1
Townsend Club No. 1 met in regular session this week, with 35 members and one visitor present.
The Bulletin was read by Mrs. Hatcher and the members were glad to hear that Mr. Wettermann will be visiting the coast clubs later this fall. Sick members are slowly on the mend. Thirty-six new members were reported, 30 of whom Mrs. Westbrook received the credit for securing.
Door prize was won by C. Watters. Mrs. Tliffman was in charge of the program, which consisted of readings, piano and violin music.
Don't forget the Caravan next Sunday, Aug. 27, at W. O. W. hall. Marshfield will be host, potluck dinner at noon.
See you next meeting.—Press Cor.

How Different Will be Post-war Homes?

Matt Doorly, our local carpenter, has been showing us architect's drawings of the kind of post-war houses that we're going to live in. Some of them look like squared-off dominoes; some are streamlined like they were going to fly. And they're all filled with fancy things like air-conditioning and what-not.

"Sure change our home life!" Matt says importantly.

"Shucks," says Dan Mason, "it isn't the shape of a house, or the gadgets in it, that make up your home life."

"What is it then?" says Matt.

"It's the little things," says Dan. "Like a well-worn chain before the fire—and a good book—and a friendly glass of beer after a hard day's work. Little things, that are a part of living."

From where I sit, Dan's absolutely right. And I think the men who dream of home from overseas agree—that it's the small, familiar pleasures, that add up to home.
