Howdy Folks:

We all know that haste makes waste, at least pertinent always sometimes.

But right now it's waste we want and the sooner the quicker.

Waste Paper

It will require 8,000,000 tons of waste paper to supply Government and civilian needs next year.

Dig out those old courtin' letters, nobody has time to read 'em, and Jehovah Witness books will make cannon balls.

The main thing is to pack all paper tight in boxes or packing, then leave it at the salvage depot, Front & Hall Sts., or call 195 if you have a pickup load.

This is a spark plug

Your car yells "Gimme a light" about 5400 times a minute. And the spark plugs must deliver it on the split instant.

Those 5400 explosions per minute give spark plugs a Turkish Bath that boils the sparking ambition clear out of 'em after about 10,000 miles. Result—spark weakened, and gasoline that's wasted just like pouring it out on the street.

Here's where Shell comes to the rescue. They'll clean your plugs, or sell you new ones if the old ones have cracked (as they sometimes do). And they'll Shellubricate your entire car for you, too.

You need Shellubrication because it protects your car against Wartime Stop and Go wear... the villain that's sending 10,000 cars to junk yards every week!

Out-of-Doors Stuff

by LANS LENEVE

One of the best fishing stories we have heard for many moons came to our ears last week. It seems that a man was seated upon the bank of the Coquille river in the Norway district, engaged in fishing. He was noted for his famous fishing-tales and has a far reaching reputation as being a real "wind-jammer."

A man approached the fisherman and inquired as to how they were biting.

"Well," said the fisherman, "they ain't bitin' so hot today, but you should have been here last week. I sure knocked 'em over then."

"Did you catch any big ones?" inquired the eager stranger.

"I'll say I did," replied the "wind-jammer." "Why, day before yesterday I caught a steelhead here that weighed exactly 35 pounds."

"Thirty-five pounds!" exclaimed the stranger. "Do you really mean that you actually caught a steelhead here that weighed thirty-five pounds?"

"I sure do, stranger. Yes sir, it weighed thirty-five pounds."

"That was some steelhead," said the stranger. "And say, do you know, I am a fisherman myself. I fish over on Coos Bay. My favorite angling is to cast off the North Bend dock. Last week a strange thing occurred, I was casting and as I reeled in, I felt something rather heavy hook onto my line. Imagine my surprise when I finally brought my catch into view. It was an old rusty lantern and, believe it or not, that lantern was still burning."

"Still burning," said the "wind-jammer." "Ha, ha, ha. Say what do you take me for anyway? Think I'd swallow that sort of lie?"

The stranger gazed at the "wind-jammer" intently for a second or two and then said, "I'll tell you what I'll do, my friend; if you will knock twenty pounds off of your steelhead, I'll blow my lantern out."

Thought I'd pass the above on to you fellows who may not have heard it, as you might get a kick out of it.

From somewhere in the South Pacific comes a nice letter from an old friend of ours, Merle "Bill" Davis. Bill's letter is very interesting, dealing with the hunting and fishing conditions where he is now stationed—although, believe it or not, Bill informs us that in his outfit the officers are the only ones who enjoy hunting and fishing. We know how this must affect Bill, for he is an ardent hunter and fisherman. Soon as space permits, we will publish extracts from his letter regarding the game conditions, etc., on a tropical isle. He informs us that he gets The Sentinel over there and that comments in this column prompted him to write us.

In the same mail came a letter from Harold "Pete" Gould, also in the armed forces and which we were more than glad to receive. Pete is slightly peeved at the workings of the State Game Commission. Perhaps I should not say "slightly." He expects to go across before long. We have our fingers crossed and if the good Lord will heed the prayers of a fisherman, we have a little prayer to offer up for these old buddies of ours—that they may return home safely and once again pursue those sports so dear to their hearts. These lads, and lads like them, are fighting for our freedom, for the freedom of this country, for our cherished right to still be able to hunt and fish. It is up to us remaining at home to help in the preservation of our game and fish, to back sensible legislation that protects them, so that when the boys come back that they may again roam old haunts and still find game and fish in abundance.

There are lots of "Bill" Davises and "Pete" Goulds in the armed forces, awaiting the day that they may come home and enjoy those sports again so dear to their hearts—let's not let 'em down.

Ultimate Solution Of Japanese Problem

The Masters of the State Granges of Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho and Montana have jointly concluded that deportation of all persons of Japanese ancestry from the continental United States is the only realistic solution to this racial problem with which this country has been faced many years.

With full authorization to so commit their respective organizations to this position, the Grange Masters reached their decision calmly and dispassionately, without rancor or revengefulness, and with full realization of the import of such action. In fact, it was with a feeling of regret on the part of the Masters that they could arrive at no other answer and they adopted the following resolution at a Grange meeting recently held:

In the interest of solving the Japanese problem which, in our opinion, involves a threat to the future welfare and safety of the United States, the Masters of the State Grange of Washington, Idaho, Montana, California and Oregon, representing a combined membership of 125,000 farm people, make this following statement:

It is our firm conviction that the failure of the United States to deal with the Japanese problem realistically has constituted a threat to our national security and welfare. It has been demonstrated in the present war to be a threat to the peace and security of the United States and we feel that it is time for the United States to deal with this problem in a practical, humane manner to insure that it will not develop into a crisis which the future generations of Americans will be unable to meet.

The basis of the whole economic problem has been the exploitation of Asiatic territories without any corresponding privilege to Oriental peoples who are entitled by right of race to their own resources.

We are also of the firm conviction that the Japanese are incapable of becoming assimilated in the American community because of inbred racial and religious characteristics.

We therefore recommend to the Congress of the United States and to administrative officials concerned as follows:

1. That all persons of Japanese ancestry be permanently excluded from citizenship and permanent residence or control of property in the continental United States; provided that we ask no restriction as to Japanese that we do not expect from the Japanese with respect to American citizens in that country.

2. And that all persons of Japanese ancestry now resident in the United States be deported after the war.

3. That the United States shall not retain any rights of exploitation of Asiatic territories unless they are willing to permit similar exploitation of their own territories.

4. That steps be taken to present to the American people a constitutional amendment prohibiting American-born children of Japanese to become citizens, own property or enjoy permanent residence within the continental United States. It is our belief that we should ask no restriction as to citizenship of Japanese in the United States that we would not expect to be applied to citizens of the United States in Japan.

Uncle Sam Needs Men to make THIS WAR MATERIAL

"Are the distillers producing alcohol exclusively for the Government for war material, including high explosives for bombs like those?"

"The Whiskey people boast that they are. They give the impression that distillers are all out for the war effort but that the beer crowd is continuing business as usual."

"I looked up a few figures. In peace times to distill beverage alcohol, the distillers employed less than six thousand men. They may have a few more now distilling alcohol for war use but the whole liquor business, beer, wine, whiskey, is using more than 400,000 persons in making and selling booze in war times."

"Then not one hundred percent of the booze business employees are engaged in war work, but only two or three percent?"

"That's right. At least ninety-seven percent of liquor business employees now are making or selling intoxicants. As usual, the main concern of the liquor crowd is to make more money by selling more liquor to more people regardless of the consequences in absenteeism, inefficiency, crime, misery and accidents."
