Vesterday the Telegraph made its last run between Baseon and Co-quille as a daily freight boat on the Coquille river. The Telegraph has run without interruption for the past seven or eight years but the opening of an improved road down the river and the installation of trucking service has so altered shipments that the boat was not paying expenses.

> V-E Day Rumors. With the rapid advance of United Nations armies in Europe, and the expectation of V-E Day at an early date, rumors are more and more frequent around Washington. Within the past ten days, no less than four such rumors were started to the effect that special radio announcements would be made at a particular time, or that the President is preparing to make some important statement, or that Churchill is releasing some startling news of developments in Germany. All of these originated from misinterpretations of statements, or misreading of teletype announcements, but are

"Fight Concer With Knowledge"

Continuing the subject of dogs, there is a question which has perplexed us greatly. Not understanding canine psychology, we have often wondered why our dog, who carries his tail jauntily aloft on all other watching his matter prepare his one meal of the day. No scolding will put that tail as low as does the mixing of dog food and the cutting of meat scrape.

Continuing the subject of dogs, the receipts can be used for the sole purpose of offsetting real and personal property taxes. It is therefore impossible to divert any of the flower for debate probably about the first of May.
