President Truman has increased in political stature since his election as vice-president last fall. His popularity with members of the Congress, together with a personality that attracts men of fine parts have combined to build him up noticeably in high government circles.

Articles of incorporation of the Arago Cheese Factory were filed with the county clerk this morning. cause of Mr. Roosevelt's matchless capacity, we loaded much more of the burdens of the day on his broad shoulders than was either wise or expedient.

It is to be expected that political pressure groups will attempt to line the new president up on their particular side. Each group will be anxious to avoid losing ground in the re-shuffle and, as soon as it is decently possible, we shall see the battle flags of special privilege advancing to the fray.

His high prestige in Congress and his apparent desire to work closely with the representatives of the people make it appear that the best plan is to place the most important problems in their hands.

We shall not be able to rely upon the President's individual leadership as we did under President Roosevelt. The latter was naturally a boss, a leader of immense capability, with talent for handling an astounding amount of responsibility alone.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

(Taken from The Sentinel of Friday, April 24, 1925)
More street improvement projects were inaugurated by the city council at its regular session Monday evening when action was started toward the resurfacing of Front, Willard, First and Beach streets.

Of all the good talks made at the monthly dinner of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening at the hotel, the one by Jas. T. Brand, of Marshfield, was the most illuminating as showing what are the possibilities for development of south-western Oregon.

Mrs. D. L. Watson, the mother of a pioneer family, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence L. Tuttle, Monday, April 20.

This thing of winter lingering in the lap of spring has caused some of the farmers in the Coquille valley a lot of dissatisfaction and has wasted their efforts. Many of them had their lowland plowed and grain crops in and on some ranches the crop was up.

Milford Moltu, eighteen year old son of Samuel Moltu who lives near the ball park in the north part of town, died at the Keizer hospital in North Bend last Thursday.

It has been said that the home is the most perilous locale known to man. An endless variety of accidents occur in homes each year in spite of vigorous and determined safety campaigns designed to prevent them.

The pie-sitters, who have carelessly parked themselves on sundry kinds of freshly baked pies, are numbered by the thousands. Vivid recollection of such an event with a lemon-meringue pie as the subject is a prized memory.

Another one of the incredible mishaps occurred when a birthday cake was being carried hurriedly from house to waiting auto. The bearer stumbled and the cake rolled on edges out of sight around the corner of the house leaving a sugary wake.

A large glass of root beer with a scoop of ice-cream as a floater makes a splatter on the parlor rug similar in appearance to a near miss by a Navy bomber against a Jap warship.

A menacing hazard is the freshly varnished but un-marked chair or toilet seat. But have particularly devilish propensities for removing sizeable areas of epidermis in very painful fashion.

J. D. Carl, C. E. Schroeder and J. B. Delaman are the incorporators.

It is reported that D. C. Kay of Bandon, has secured a lease on a portion of the Collier Warehouse from the Coquille Wood-Products Co., and will conduct a general warehouse and feed, hay and grain business there.

Stanley Phillips, the popular cashier at the Southern Pacific depot here, returned last Saturday from a month's vacation, bringing with him a bride. Her name was Mary Ellen Thorouggood, her home being in the province of Saskatchewan, Canada, from which province Mr. Phillips also came.

W. E. Bosserman, local S. P. agent, informs the Sentinel that Coquille is to have its new depot this summer, and that construction will start just as soon as the legal department has concluded all formalities in the purchase of the Collier tract, just east of the present station, and the material arrives.

The Fishermen's special from the Bay to Reedsport will be run both Saturday and Sunday night this week.

the victim's mother was fortunately at hand. But suppose the services of a plumber had been necessary. What would be the approach? Should he advance upon the scene with canvas held firmly in front like a toreador at a bull-fight?

Meat Block Market Should Be Suppressed

"No black market can last five minutes without customers." This was the statement made last night to the members of the local War Price and Rationing Board, after reviewing the latest summaries on the national meat situation supplied the Board by the Office of Price Administration in Washington.

The current report showed that the government is the world's biggest meat customer today, buying almost a third of our total meat supply and leaving a record-breaking meat buying civilian public with less and less.

Geographical dislocation of meat distribution and the black market which inevitably results from greed for more than an equal share of a scarce commodity are the two major targets of the increasing clamor for a quick solution to meat shortages at the retail level.

A nationwide program for a more equitable distribution of meat is under way out of Washington, but two solutions for local shortages of meat were offered the consumer and producer alike:

1. Never buy or sell rationed meat without ration points.

Let Government Take What It Produces

The city of San Francisco took over six lots, ten blocks from Market street, on a tax title in the year 1856. The city leased the lots on a progressive price July 1, 1944, at $30,500 per month; in other language, putting 100 per cent tax on the rental value of the lots.

- 1. What is the value here that is paid for?
2. What are the elements that produce this value?
3. In the above example, the City of San Francisco gets $30,500 per month. Is the city taking anything from anybody that they produce?
4. What is it that produces the selling value of land?
5. What effect will the taking of this value have on the selling value of the lots?
6. If this value were taken all over the United States, how would it affect land?
7. This value, if taken, would pay every tax that is paid. How would that affect wages, interest, rent?
8. How would the price of goods be affected?
9. The farm problem is: The cost of doing business is greater than the farmers' return under competition. How would the taking of the site value affect the farmer, would it aggravate his trouble?
10. Does the giving of land a selling value produce anything? It takes one-third of the wealth.
11. What effect would the taking of location value in taxes have on congestion in the cities? Would buildings be low or high?
12. What is credit based on now and what would be the change?
13. How would it affect the banking question, (the communist, socialist and anarchist robber) and why?
14. Would it make people more or less independent and why?
15. How would it affect patriotism and why?
16. How would it affect the fear of want and why?
17. Would it increase or decrease the cost of government and why?
18. Do we need a check of government spending? Why?
19. How would you do this?
20. What effect would it have on crime?
21. How do you explain the dead past civilizations?
22. How do you conform private property in land (giving land a selling value) to the child's natural right to Mother Earth?
Free trade, Free land, Free men.
Jas. Richmond, M. D.

Getting Permanent 4-H Camp Ready

Dates for the second annual Coos County 4-H camp were set for August 1-5 at a recent meeting of the local leaders' association. Due to the cancellation last year of the 4-H summer school, held annually on the O.S.C. campus, Coos County 4-H leaders immediately went into action to set up a local camp.

This year the leaders are busy establishing a permanent 4-H camp. The camp is located on the site of the old McCKinley camp on the Lawrence place up Middle Creek on the North Fork of the Coquille River. Materials have been purchased by the leaders to make the necessary repairs and local leaders are spending all the time they can spare from their farm work to get the buildings ready for occupancy by August 1.

In addition to the buildings which will house the dining room, kitchen, dormitories, and office, the camp site includes a large recreation area, swimming hole and many nearby trails for pleasant short hikes. After the camp ground is ready for
