Three Stars Play Touching Romance, 'Enchanted Cottage,' At Roxy Thur. - Sat.

How the magic of an historic honeymoon lodge brings happiness to two young fugitives from a world that seemingly has no place for them, is the inspiring theme of Hollywood's latest dramatic romance, "The Enchanted Cottage."

Dorothy McGuire and Robert Young, the famous pair of "Claudia," and Herbert Marshall share stellar honors in the modernized version of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's noted stage success, which was also the basis for one of the best-known films of the silent era with Richard Barthelmess and May McAvoy.

With its story background brought up to date, the picture has Young in the role of a reserve Army pilot who, on the eve of his marriage, is called to the South Pacific. Badly hurt in a plane crash, and with his face disfigured, he returns home, but is embittered when his fiancée shudders at the sight of him.

He retires to a lonely New England cottage where he had planned to spend his honeymoon and which has been a famous retreat for honeymooners for many generations. There he meets a village girl (Miss McGuire) who is so painfully plain that she, too, has become something of a recluse. The common bond of feeling that they are unwanted brings the two together. This in turn leads to marriage which has a miraculous effect in their outlook in life.

Herbert Marshall plays a blind composer who befriends the young couple, and such noted players as Mildred Natwick, Spring Byington, Hillary Brooke, Richard Gains and young Alec Englander are featured. John Cromwell directed "The Enchanted Cottage" for RKO Radio.
