Wrote The Poem While On Guard One Night

Pfc. Arthur L. Wilberger, in a letter accompanying his verses printed below, says he thought it out while on guard duty one night. He is with the Headquarters 9th Replacement section of the Army, stationed near Fontainebleau, France, and says he hopes to be home in the not too distant future.

ONE GUARD NITE
While standing a lonely vigil
Your thoughts begin to roam
And your heart feels sorta twisted
As you stand and dream of home.
You wonder what Mom is doing
And if Sis still has her beau
If Dad is fixin' to go fishing
(Gee, how you'd like to go.)
You see standing there before you
Mary and Bootsie and Dot
To see their smiling faces
You would give an awful lot,
You live again the carefree times
That schooldays always bring.

And you dream about your courtship,
How she wanted you to sing,
You pretended not to like it
But way down deep inside,
Because she said 'twas wonderful
You felt a glow of pride.
Then suddenly the bubble breaks,
You're brought sharply back to earth.
Then you realize it took a war
To show you how much life and home are worth.
