People Are Nice

Perhaps you have a few china dogs scattered about your home, or several small figures of various kinds, as I have; but I have an acquaintance with nearly a roomful of just dogs. There are dogs one inch long, dogs twelve inches high, and one ferocious bull dog about twenty inches from his ears to the haunches on which he rests. There are white dogs, black dogs, brown dogs, yellow dogs, spotted dogs and dogs of indifferent colors. There are dogs lying down, sitting down, standing still and running.

Three little dogs, each about an inch of perfection in a different pose, were found in the court yard of the county court house in Santa Rosa, California, after the devastating earthquake which occurred at five-thirty on the morning of April 18, 1906. So charming were they that their new owner began collecting companions for them. That is how it came about that more than two hundred dogs of every possible description share their mistress' home.

One wee canine was carved from a die. Several of his infinitesimal pals are of the type that came attached to whiskey bottles once upon a time. A dull white fellow about eight or ten inches long looks as though he had wandered from a boneyard on Halloween and had forgotten to return, but stands gazing sadly at the world from his pitably laughable face. A cute brown trick walks along as you pull a string. The largest, a bull dog, lords it over the bunch protectively. A saucy, bold fellow with black spots on his pink body came from the hideout of the Dalton brothers, once notorious desperadoes of Mead, Kansas. A love of an Alaskan husky was carved from a small piece of ivory and sent from Alaska. Actually, you will find every kind of material made into dogs except leather.

If you stop in and ask nicely, perhaps Amy will show her collection for your enjoyment. Incidentally, I mentioned she has no dog made of leather. In case you do, 'nuff said.

I passed a very dejected-looking hunter at the foot of the mountain as he plodded along through the fog. His whole attitude testified, "The game, dog-gone." About two turns further on I had to stop the car while a big buck eyed the car before moving off the road. I chuckled appreciatively as I remembered the hunter. That deer deserved his freedom, even though he was arrogant about it. As ever, Pat.

Wave Donna Dean Bosserman Returns To San Pedro Station

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bosserman drove to Eugene Sunday evening with their daughter, Yeoman 2/c Donna Dean Bosserman, who entrained there for San Pedro, California, where she is stationed with the Waves on Terminal Island. Miss Bosserman was at home on leave for a week before returning to her duties in the Officers' Personnel Dept. there.

On Friday, October 12, Miss Bosserman was complimented by her mother with a noon luncheon in her home. The table was attractively arrayed in red, white and blue, with a gleaming mirror graced by a corsage for each guest forming the centerpiece. Red, white and blue streamers extended from each corsage to place cards which were snapshots of Donna Dean in her uniform. Candles also carried out the red, white and blue color theme.

Troop No. 1 Girl Scouts Met Last Wednesday

The Girl Scouts of Troop One held their first official meeting in the Legion Hall Wednesday, Oct. 10. Mrs. Shaw, the group leader, began the meeting by explaining the activities of the Girl Scouts and by reading the requirements for Tenderfoot Scout membership. She then told about the uniforms and how they can be secured.

The Troop then elected the club officers: Club leader, Nancy Godard; Scribe, Lora Bennett; Treasurer, Adrienne Eubanks.

The new leader then took charge of the meeting. After a vote, the leader appointed a committee to bring refreshments for the next meeting. Lora Bennett, Thelma Becktel.

Beulah Chapter Hears Reports On Grand Chapter

Last Thursday evening at the regular meeting of Beulah Chapter, No. 6, O. E. S., reports of activities of Grand Chapter, were given by four of the officers, Mrs. R. E. Boober, Mrs. Elbert Schroeder, Mrs. Ralph Cochran and E. J. Connarn. The Grand Chapter meeting, held Oct. 1 and 2 in Portland, was presided over by the outgoing W. G. M., Hazel Foster and W. G. P., Oliver Huring. Splendid reports were given by the four delegates. Mrs. Hazel Graham of Tillamook and Sylvan West are the new Grand officers.

After the meeting a lovely marimba solo was played by Miss Lafferty, accompanied by her mother, and several selections were sung by the High School girls' double quartette, accompanied by Mrs. Thora Watson, their director. These numbers were greatly enjoyed.

Refreshments and a social time followed. The next meeting will be on October 25.
