

A Thought

As the stars that all the night
Rain into the waiting west;
As the yellow leaves that drip
Past the bird's deserted nest,
So I see my own race go,
Marching to the beat of time,
Not one faster, not one slow,
(Words, that fit the cosmic rhyme),
Little lights the way that mark
From the Whither to the Hence,
Great the circle, small our arc
Of the hid circumference,
As the star moves on and on,
Circling thro a circled space,
Carrying its horizon
Steadfastly before its face,
Some day we, with glad surprise,
Shall find Death but greater birth
Into greater life which lies
On beyond the place called Earth.

Bridal Shower Honors Miss Mawdsley

A bridal shower honoring Miss Mary Lee Mawdsley was given by Mrs. Florence Hallock at her home on Saturday evening, March 16. Miss Mawdsley, Mrs. Nellie Prey and Miss Goldie Child were entertained at dinner and the other guests came later to surprise the bride-to-be. Gifts were placed beneath a large umbrella fashioned from white crepe paper, with ribbon streamers attached to each package. The rooms were decorated with daffodils and spirea. After the opening of the gifts, Miss Brockway won the prize in a guessing game. Delicious refreshments were served on trays decorated with figures of brides and with a souvenir bookmark of bridal bells folded into each napkin. Present were the guest of honor, Miss Mawdsley, Miss Child, Mrs. Prey, Mrs. Georgianna Vaughan, Miss Venita Brockway, Miss Mildred Ward, Miss Dorothy Warren, Miss Ida Oerding, Mrs. Katie Peart, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Frances McMitchell and the hostess, Mrs. Florence Hallock.
