

Weekly Letter From Washington, D. C.

BY CONGRESSMAN HARRIS ELLSWORTH

Emergency

Equal almost to the dramatic tension of some of the wartime joint sessions of Congress was the Saturday afternoon meeting to hear President Truman grimly tell the law-makers that the government is going to be the government of all of the people, and that it will not bow to the demands of a small group. He asked, with words and manner that seemed almost a demand, that Congress immediately give him new and greater power to deal with such a situation.

Within two hours from the time the President began to speak, the House passed the drastic control bill requested by him. The procedure under which this rapid action took place was very unusual. From my point of view, it was very unsatisfactory as well. The first step was the approval of a resolution of a rule under which the bill was to be considered. This rule not only sharply limited debate on the bill, but prevented amendment. Members of the House had only two choices: They could vote to uphold the President's hand in the emergency, in accordance with his request, or they could turn the President down. Only 13 or the 435 members of the House voted against the President's demand. As this is written, Senate action on this emergency bill has not been concluded.

Meanwhile, the Senate amended and passed the bill known as the Case Bill. This bill has been roundly condemned by labor leaders as a piece of anti-labor legislation. I have heard dozens of speeches in opposition to the bill, and have read printed statements made by various union officials. All of such statements I have heard and read have misrepresented the bill and criticized it with generalities. I have yet to hear or see a specific criticism showing wherein the bill is actually restrictive of the rights of labor.

The Senate version of the Case Bill is quite similar to the bill passed by the House. Consequently, the House of Representatives quickly concurred in the Senate amendments and sent the bill to the President.

As I have stated before, the Case Bill, as finally passed by both houses, does not repeal or abridge either the Norris-LaGuardia Act or the Wagner Act. It merely supplements those two laws in a manner that should be definitely beneficial to the members of labor unions.

Poultry Feed Problem

Every member of the Oregon delegation has been devoting considerable time in an effort to work out some sort of a solution to the problem faced by Oregon chicken and turkey growers. All six of us (two Senators and four Representatives) called in a body upon President Truman and upon Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. I think we have achieved some success toward relieving the situation, but we are all well aware that great damage has been done to the Oregon poultry industry. I regard the entire tragic situation as wholly unnecessary, and so stated in a half hour speech on the floor of the House. The total job of bungling done by the Administration in handling the feed grain problem is fantastic almost beyond belief. A large portion of the poultry industry in fifteen states has been or is being liquidated. This liquidation could have been avoided with little, if any, damage to our overseas shipment program. I shall be glad to send a copy of my speech on this subject, which gives the detailed figures proving this assertion, to anyone who wants one.

Congressional Record

The total effect of the President's dramatic announcement in the middle of his speech to Congress at four o'clock Saturday afternoon that the railroad strike had ended, was lost on Members of Congress when they read in the Congressional Record the next day that Senator Barkley had announced the end of the strike to the Senate shortly after noon the same day—some three hours before the President spoke. (Congressional Record, Saturday, May 25, 1946, Page 5795).

"THE LAMB OF GOD"

By Rev. W. V. Anglin
Pastor Church of the Nazarene

When John the Baptist saw Jesus coming to him while in conversation with some of his followers, he recognized and announced him as the Lamb of God. Now some times the word, "the" signifies weighty matters and here it carries specific directions of momentous nature.

Can we locate that lamb he is referring to? Yes, indeed, we see him first typified when God provided a lamb, slain for Adam and Eve and provided them the skins for a covering, which is the meaning of the Atonement. One reason why we believe Adam repented and accepted life eternal was that they did not refuse the covering.

We next see the lamb typified when Abel offered the lamb upon the altar and was accepted, "by faith."

Time and space compel us to pass on to Jesus himself who fulfilled in detail the types and was "The Lamb of God" who gave his life as an offering upon the cross of Calvary, for all mankind who will accept full and free salvation. Because he died we need not die.

This Lamb is on high, now making intercession for the Children of God and, in Revelation 5:6, John said he saw him, saw the nail printed hands and feet, and John knew him, for he was with him for three years and was one of the last ones at the cross and saw the soldiers drive the nails. He was in a position to give accurate information. Yea, friends, he is the Lamb of God, who died that you might live, if you will only ask for his deliverance and make him yours.

Howdy Folks:

One difference between a June bride and an old maid is the bride has had a wedding march while the old maid hasn't even had an overture.

The tragedy of a June bride's life, though, is when she realizes how few new dresses she can buy on what the poor dimwit can make. Of course some times the marriage doesn't work because the bride has to.

As one of our customers says, men want women and women want diamonds and that keeps the men on the rocks.

Which, we suppose so often makes the state of matrimony entirely without capital.

You can save a lot of your capital by taking advantage of our saving service. We always strive to give you the most for the money.

Take a Stunt Drivers word for it!

Come in today! Make your choice the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES!

The new Silvertown tire with a wider, flatter tread puts more rubber where you need it—on the road! It has a stronger body with tougher cords and more of them plus two broader strips to cushion sudden blows that sent that hub cap flying on Jimmie Lynch's car. Result? A tire that's safer than prewar tires because it grips the road better when moving, hugs it tighter in stopping. A tire that in laboratory tests resists bruising better than prewar tires. A tire that actually OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES. Perhaps we have your size in stock. You'll get yours sooner, if you order today. 15 Plus tax $10-12
