A man can be faithful to his own best interests by being zealous of the interests of others. It is the way friendships are earned and they are life's greatest rewards. Friendships are of immeasurable value.

Stock Auction Resumes At Fair

The first statewide 4-H club fair stock auction since before the war will be held at the state fair in Salem Friday, September 6, starting at 10 o'clock, announces L. J. Allen, assistant state club leader at O. S. C.

Offered at the auction will be approximately 50 to 60 baby beeves, 100 lambs, and 100 hogs fattened by club members. A sifting committee consisting of livestock judges and packer representatives will inspect all animals to insure uniformly high quality animals to be auctioned.

Many local auctions were started during the war by single or adjoining counties. These proved so popular that many of these will be continued this year in addition to the state fair auction, Allen reports.

Death Toll Soars

Oregon's highway death toll has soared to 250 for the first seven months of this year, according to Robert S. Farrell, Jr., secretary of state.

This is by far the highest fatality cost for the period in the state's history. Rural crashes claimed 72 per cent of the dead. Farrell emphasized the rural danger and the rising tendency for fatal accidents to take more than one life.

"Until recently, a fatal accident usually meant one life snuffed out," said Farrell. "Now it often means two, three, four, and even five dead in a single instant."

He warned all who use inter-city roads to be especially on the alert for trouble because late summer is the peak period for rural fatalities. Thirty-eight were killed in July and the August toll is expected to be even higher.
