From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

But Curly "Knows What The Score Is!"

Was over at Doc Sherman's drug store listening to the World Series on the radio. Curly Lawson wanders in and says: "How about a chocolate malted, Doc?"

"Sorry, Curly," says Doc, "can't make you a malted for a while yet." "What's the idea?" Curly asks. "Well," says Doc, "most of the folks want to hear the game and the mixer makes too much noise." Curly thinks a moment and says, "Okay with me, Doc—I'll take a chocolate soda!"

This shows how tolerant folks can be. Doc showed his respect for how the majority felt; Curly was big enough not to insist on his malted even though he doesn't happen to be fond of baseball.

From where I sit, willingness to respect the other people's feelings is important in a Democracy. If we're tolerant of a person's like for baseball or a glass of temperate beer, we've come a long way on the right road... the road to a better America, that is!

27 Die In Cars

Traffic accidents claimed 27 lives in Oregon last month, according to all reports received to date, Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry announced Friday.

The month's fatalities bring the toll so far this year to 219, a 33 per cent drop from the 324 deaths reported during the same period of 1948.

Newbry termed the death reduction "extremely gratifying" in view of the year's increase in motor vehicle registrations and traffic volume and pointed out that it represents a saving of 105 lives. Fifty-two persons died in September accidents last year.

Early darkness and stormy weather in the months ahead may offset the gains, the secretary warned. Records for previous years indicate an upsurge in fatalities involving pedestrians can be expected, most of them taking place in the heavy traffic of the early evening rush hours.

National figures for the first seven months of 1949 place Oregon second only to Idaho in per cent of death reduction and well ahead of all other Pacific Coast states.
