Lumber Production Hits High Mark For Douglas Fir Region Mills

Douglas fir sawmills produced as much lumber in the first eleven months of 1950 as they did during the entire year of 1949.

Harris Smith, secretary of West Coast Lumbermen's association, said western Oregon and Washington fir mills cut 9.8 billion feet through November, and appear certain to reach a previously forecast 10.5 billion feet by December 31, for a new all-time record high for the region.

Mill stocks at the end of November stood at 776 million feet, well below the 922 million feet for same period in 1949. Smith said this reduction in mill stocks in the face of the highest cut in the history and the most severe freight car shortage for six months of the year was due to a shift in transportation methods.

Smith credited trucks and ships with keeping much of the lumber industry operating during the summer when the railroads failed to supply adequate freight cars for lumber shippers. He said an extra billion feet of lumber above normal had been carried to market in 1950 by truck and ship.

The weekly average of West Coast lumber production in November was 211,689,000 b. f. or 129 per cent of the 1945-1949 average. Orders averaged 218,194,000 b. f.; shipments 222,641,000 b. f.; weekly average for October were: production 233,488,000 b. f. (142% of the 1945-1949 average); orders 193,320,000 b. f.; shipments 225,950,000 b. f.
