

DALE CARNEGIE

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

O. W. Redfield, 48 Grape Street, New Bedford, Massachusetts, says that he had been working on his first job about two years when he realized he had no future ahead of him. He didn't have a college education, had not even finished high school. After talking with his fellow employees, he found that they were complacent and had no desire to get ahead; they were all waiting for "a break." They offered suggestions but they knew little beyond how to hold down their individual jobs. He was so worried that he couldn't eat, and often awoke in the night with concern for his future. Just as a tired swimmer looks for a log to grasp for reaching the shore, so he looked for something solid to grasp in his search for security.

CARNEGIE

One day he answered a correspondence school advertisement; soon after one of their representatives called, and sold him a course to study that would relieve his nervous tension and help him up the ladder; but most important, he instilled in him the necessity of having a definite aim. After a discussion, he decided that his aim should be that of assistant manager.

Over a period of years he took four home study courses—and reached his aim—assistant manager of the organization.

Since that time he has set up several aims to work for and each time he has attained them.

He declares that all that he needed was to believe that he could achieve his goal if he would study and work.

GOOD LUCK and good-bye was said to Father Stephen Breitenstein last week at a farewell reception given in his honor by his parishioners. Speaking the appreciation of all for the fine work Fr. Breitenstein did while in Coquille was Leo Cary. Fr. Breitenstein is now established at his new post in St. Helens. (Sentinel Photo)

Soroptimists Bill UN Day Speaker

Announcement that Rev. Thomas McCamant, Medford, will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Coquille Soroptimist club highlighted the group's regular meeting Tuesday.

Rev. McCamant will appear before the group in observance of United Nations day which falls in that week. He is minister of the Medford Congregationalist church and a very active participant in UN work in that area.

He will be in Coquille Tuesday, October 25, for the noon meeting. Guests are welcome for the program, but members bringing guests have been asked to notify President Emma Pierce so that arrangements can be made for them. In other business transacted by the organization, it was announced that the recent rummage sale sponsored by the club had been a great success and that left over items had been donated to Job's Daughters.

A board meeting for the group has been called for noon Monday at the Roxy Fountain.

Guest at the meeting was Mrs. Vurl Harrison.

It was also announced that the club will hold a special make-up meeting on Tuesday, November 29. Members have been urged to set aside that date in order to attend.

Sunday, Soroptimist members entertained their husbands at a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Marian Adams. About 40 persons attended the event.

Dinner Guests At Home Of Naff's

A dinner guest at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Naff last Wednesday was Mr. Glen Weaver, supervisor of the Oregon State Department of Vocational Guidance. A resident of Salem, Mr. Weaver is a member of a former pastorate of the local minister.

HAVE A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Ostrander are the parents of a girl, Kathleen Ann, born last Saturday. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gosnell and Mrs. Elda Hansen.

Reception Honors Powers Couple

POWERS—The Carroll Wade home was the scene of an informal reception Wednesday (September 28) for Mr. and Mrs. Keith Shaffer who were married that day in Myrtle Point.

Mrs. Marian Findley, Mrs. Dale Shaffer, Mrs. Merle McDaniel and Mrs. Wade acted as hostesses.

The bride's father, Ben Northrup, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Swift, all of Vancouver, Wash., were here for the occasion and were guests of the Wades.

Other guests at the affair were Merle Daniels and three sons, Dale Schaffer, Marion Findley, Ray Shaffer, Lois Dannison, Wayne Bitts, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. George Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Richard White.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Myers, Mrs. Clyde Allen, Glenn Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Edwards, Carroll Wade and George Jarvis.

Tape recordings of the event were made by Ray Shaffer. Included in the refreshments served was a large pink wedding cake.

Former Resident Leading Revival

Now in progress at the Assembly of God church is a revival featuring Evangelist and Mrs. Tex Rutledge.

The appearance of the pair here holds much local interest as Mrs. Rutledge is the former Winnie Van Fleet of Coquille.

The two have ministered in Texas, New Mexico, California and Oregon. At the revival meeting, Evangelist and Mrs. Rutledge sing solos and duets accompanied by him on the electric guitar.

The services are scheduled for every night except Saturday at 7:45 and the public is invited.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Wayne McMurray, principal of Coquille high school, was in Eugene Monday and Tuesday for the annual High School Principals conference.

Langlois Hi Annual Carnival Recent Feature

Big event at Langlois last Friday was the annual high school carnival which was termed a huge success. The previous Monday, Langlois seniors collected donations for the affair from merchants in Coquille, Langlois, Bandon and Port, Orford, receiving many useful gifts to use as prizes at the booths.

Among the most popular booths were bingo and the Cabaret, or food stand. There was a pie throw, where anyone who desired could get a shot at a teacher with a custard pie. The movies and auction also drew good sized crowds.

Queen of the Carnival was lovely Marilyn Neff, escorted by her brother, Butch. She was crowned by last year's queen, Sharon Gro-leau.

Princesses in her court were Mary Shoop, escorted by Gary Steddom; Nancy Brown, escorted by David Boice, and DeLora Decker, escorted by Bruce Manicky. Arlene Kerber played the processional music.

Letters Heard At Relief Corps

Several letters were read at the meeting of the Douglas MacArthur Woman's Relief Corps meeting Wednesday when it met at the Labor Temple.

Letters were from Mary Schnase, Florence Wieks thanking for help to attend the National Convention; a letter from Camp White expressing thanks for gifts sent to them.

Dorothy Morgan is in charge of the Christmas cards this year. A flag will be bought and presented to the Coquille Kindergarten.

Edith Drake gave a reading during the program.

Reports show the following projects completed: 247 hours of child care; visits to four sick; seven adults helped; one veteran aided; three sprays given; 200 hours donated to Skywatching; sixteen hours given for sewing; radio program presented; 16 hours for civilian defense; six cards sent; one hospital call made; $16.00 given for book for veterans and $15.00 given for aid to veterans' needy families.

Have New Son

Dr. and Mrs. Peter T. Wolfe are the parents of a new son, Quentin McQueen Wolfe, who is seven weeks ago. The baby arrived at the Wolfe home this weekend.
