The Myrtle Point Schools.

The Myrtle Point schools opened September 17th with a good enrollment. Sixty-five high school students were present ready to take up their year's work. Several are expected to enroll next week. Notwithstanding the fact that there is an entirely new faculty, everything is running smoothly and a very pleasant, as well as profitable, year is anticipated.

The grammar school is well filled and new pupils are being enrolled. The corps of teachers this year consists of: A. L. Barnhart, superintendent; John Gary, principal of the high school; Miss Tobey and Miss Roche, of the high school; Mr. Nosler, principal of the grammar school, assisted by Misses Barton, McCracken, Green, Hansen and Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Whitaker and Mrs. Scott.

Mr. Davidson gives instruction in music in both schools.

MYRTLE POINT ITEMS.

Mr. Bess was in Tuesday to have the splinters removed from his hip which were taken to clean the wound made by the bite of a dog. The cut is apparently healed on the outside. The owners of the "bunt" made a present of it to their neighbors.

The young Misses Beatrice and Marie Woolly came in with their father from their home on North Fork Tuesday and went down the river to Prosser where they will go to school. Miss Belmont teacher, and will board with their sister, Mrs. Slagle.

There is a new site building on the Archie McNeil homestead one mile below town. O. G. Thayer is the builder. Silos have been built this season on the North Fork as follows: for Tom Haggarty, Timothy Billings, Alva Lee, Jim Perry, Frank McNeil, John Luak, O. S. Coleman and Arthur Moore. These ranchers have kept a steady flow of milk to their creameries all summer—"and will."

Freeman Ingalls has gone a hunting—gone up "Kitchin creek." He goes alone with a little yellow mare and a buggy of the vintage of 1890. He has all he needs in little wagon but the soap to last him a week. You will know him when you see him for he'll have a deer. He always does.

A good man on North Fork (there are many of them) says that when the time comes to bury him, he wants to have his Henry Ford put down with him because it always got him out of all the holes they ever dropped into.

Houses are fast filling up in town, but yet there are rooms.

Geo. W. Shelley, of Spencer & Shelley, moved his family to North Bend last Sunday where they will live in their own house and have the advantages of a larger town.

Percy's Chop House gave its first meatless meals Wednesday—rabbit and dumplings, macaroni and cheese and fish and pork and beans—meatless!

Dr. F. G. Bunch passed the examination last week for the Dental Reserve Corps, U. S. Army.

W. W. Williams, of Powers, is down this week for supplies for "to feed his restaurant."

The extended paved streets will necessarily mean more scraping and sweeping for Jim and more pay for him.

Hugh Johnson, a smart enough man, undertook last week to break a colt, but the colt undertook the same thing with him and dislocated said Hugh's hip. He fixed it himself. This occurred ten days ago and he is here to tell us the story.

The Red Cross people are now located in the R. E. Shine building and you may see them every afternoon, cutting and making pajamas and other articles necessary to a soldier's outfit.

Giles Harris is the boy who is away to the State Fair at Salem as a result of the prize he took at the Coos & Curry County Fair.

Robert Jones, of Cottage Grove, who has been enjoying the last month with his aunt, Mrs. W. E. Lundy, and family, has returned and will enter a university for a full course. Robert is a young man who will be creditably heard from.

There are again evidences of thieves and hoodlums in town. A toilet was stolen from a vacant house. Chickens have been taken and a boarding house had stones thrown through the kitchen at night.

Lon Barker has returned from Oregon, where he landed John Parish, Will Lett, of Bridge, and Ray Rhodes, the P. M. of Powers. He has another lot rounded up for that delectable country. One of those just returned thought they were cutting the 6th crop of alfalfa this season and he was informed that anything could be grown there but bananas. He believes more milk is produced to the acre than in Coos. The population of Oregon is 3000. Their irrigation water comes from Stony creek, a branch of the Sacramento.

Rev. F. G. Drake, of the M. E. Church here, left Tuesday for his conference which is this year held at Springfield. Mr. Drake, it is expected and hoped, will return.

A man on North Fork after several trips into the next valley says when his hand gets well so he can crank his machine he will see Coos county.

Put him on the list so he never will be missed—Gus Diets, Myrtle Point. Chat and Will, they went to Powers Sunday—out of business hours. Each one in his fine new Buick. That's why they get home so quick.

Billy Hall, of the North Fork, cranked a Ford and it struck back and got him in the face.

At the Red Cross Benefit Saturday at the home of Mrs. Harry Fenster, there were 23 interested ones present and a nice little sum was netted. All wore the pretty insignia of the nurse, the white caps.

Arthur Nelson, son of Jacob Nelson, who recently bought the Bender house and is now living there, returned to his work at Laramie University in Wyoming last week. He is taking a

C. C. C. shipped another car of stock to Portland and Roy Garrett a car to Marshfield this week.

James Lowellen's salmon last week weighed 31 1/4 pounds—not 3 1/4 as was stated.

O. F. Learey, a restaurant man of Bandon, is here for a visit and recreation.

Miss Jennie Hall, of Marshfield, is now on our city telephone force.

Tom Guerin exhibits a bunch of seven perfect spuds in one. It has no pedigree and he does not know what he will do with it.

The Robison family held their third reunion last Sunday on the old homestead on Fishtrap, the place the grandfather of most of them homesteaded 45 years ago. Samuel Robison passed away in 1892 at the age of 87 years and his wife, Lucina, in 1905, aged 86 years. There were present 100 members. Tom Robison is the oldest married son—40 years and has had children going to school in District 22 for 30 years and has children to go for some time to come. At this reunion there was another added. But a few knew and they told the preacher and he in a stentorian voice announced to all—they had spread over the premises—that before they would partake of the "best ever" dinner a marriage would be solemnized. Mr. Charles McPail and Miss Catherine Robison, daughter of Rock Robison, came forward and the Rev. Thos. Barklow said those words he has so many times repeated to those who wanted to hear them—and Charles and Katie were one. They will live at Riverton.

The new assistant cashier in the Planagan & Bennett Bank is Mr. Black Jr. and he comes from "Umpqua."

Dr. Pemberton tells us that three new girls are added to this community this week, viz.: Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bowers, Sunday; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ellis, of Arago, Sunday p. m.; and Mr. and Mrs. Huff on Middle Fork, on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Archie Taylor has returned from a trip to Portland Tuesday where she visited her sister, Dora Harrison, who has a fine position with the Honeyman Hardware Co.

Mrs. M. C. Kallbel, from Eugene, Ore., but formerly of Sioux City, Iowa, is this week a visitor with her old time friend, Mrs. Frank Davis.

J. O. Stemmler is at Salem at the State Fair. He will return and tell us.

Then the banquet, the latter end of which consisted of melons, ice cream and all the delicacies known to the county. Mr. and Mrs. Ten Robison, the eldest ones stood with the bride and groom during the ceremony. Incidentally we have it that during nearly half a century the family has never had a case in the circuit court nor a divorce of husband and wife, which is quite a monument to this highly respected family.

Frank Spencer has again gone to housekeeping and they are living in the Geo. Stewart house on Cedar street.

That the Axes are in every day with auto truck-loads of properly put up fruit proves what others may do and the market down the river and on the Bayside demands more of it each year. Billy and Danny with their father do all their work and enjoy all the profits.

Mrs. Thos. Dickinson, of Maveola, Ore., is here and is a visitor of Mrs. Frank Davis. They were girls together back east.

J. L. Ray, of Idaho, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ray, arrived Thursday night by the Portland train.

Claude Woodruff with his mother will occupy the Matt Nystrom house on lower Willow street.

If we had no calendar the regular arrival of Wm. Candlin would keep us nearly right and we always need him for he has the goods.

Mrs. Julia Barkley has purchased the Club Cafe restaurant, bought it and made it pay for itself, giving always good value to customers.

We have had the pleasure of reading several of the letters of George Sturtevant (Penny) to his parents. The diction and sentiment are fine—letters that any parents would be proud of—and the letters come regularly but he expects to soon move towards action.

We don't like the natural color of our new bridge nor the green they will paint it nor the black with which they will cover the green. How would a Portuguese blue do?

Bill Rodinbo, who has been employed in the Pearce garage, has returned to his first love, Springfield, Ore.

Hedwig Harnish met Frank McNeil head on and busted his Ford—and here also. They, the machines were under the care of the doctor of automobiles Thursday.

Lorenzo McBee is in this week making final proof on his homestead. His witnesses are Lawrence Jennings and Addison Carpenter.

Mrs. Walter Pahl, living in the Butler house on lower Spruce street, will sail by the next steamer for San Francisco where she will see her friends and transact business as she with her husband will make their home here. Her little niece will accompany her.

Mrs. J. H. Hurst, of Almena, Kansas, a sister of the Ray brothers, arrived here Wednesday. She is pleased to see a nice green country.

Dan Goldbloom is the good carpenter who is building a new house for Mr. Brode, of the Bridge country, who will move out of his chicken house which he has occupied since the burning of his residence.

Jim Miller, the fisherman, has more than once gone to his nets in the morning and found them robbed. The young men who did it are thieves, though they thought it sport.

Miss Mina Magnus began the Broadbent school this week. Mrs. Helen Robbins is assistant.

Mrs. Dave Cary came down from Powers this week to consult the doctor about her health. The doctor also removed tonsils and adenoids from the grandson of Mr. Henderson Monday.

Mrs. B. F. Duncan, mother of Ray Duncan, who has been visiting here for the last two weeks and a guest of the K. H. Hansen family, returned to her home in Wenatchee, Washington, last Saturday.

Miss Chloe Buell, one of the daughters of Dodd Buell and a teacher much in demand, began the Gaylord school last Monday.

Uncle Tom's been marrying some more of them—Miss Esther Radabaugh and Adam John Guthardt at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Radabaugh, at exactly noon Wednesday. There were many guests and presents were numerous and appropriate for the occasion of "new housekeeping." Mrs. Rackliff played the wedding march and Mr. and Mrs. John Ray supported the candidates in the wedding ceremony. Mrs. Ray is a sister of the bride and wore her wedding dress of which the bride's is an exact duplicate in shade, material and make. There were 40 persons present and the offering proved the esteem in which the young people are held.
