

MINOR MENTION.

Telling About People and Events in the City and County.

Fred Slagle has been in Coquille the past two days.

Jas. A. Hatcher, of Fairview, was in town yesterday.

Oscar Farris has been visiting at the Bay this week.

Peter McIntosh has been in Marshfield on business this week.

J. R. Benham, of the Sitkum section, was in town Wednesday.

R. E. Nickolai returned last evening from a week's visit in Portland.

S. Sherwood is home for a few days from the Sumner logging camp where he is employed.

The younger son of C. E. Mayes was operated on for hernia at Mercy hospital Wednesday.

Orders wanted for a few settings of pure bred Blue Andalusian eggs. Estella Hart, City. 1314*

The Coos and Curry Telephone Co. subscribed for $2,500 in Liberty Loan bonds and its officers and employees for $2,250 more, making $4,750 in all.

The Norway store is for sale, or will trade for small ranch. Nick Johnson. 1213

The North Bend council has extended the time on which that city will accept its part of the Kinney taxes without penalty or interest until July 1.

Mrs. Burkholder is showing new garments and millinery. First National Bank Bldg.

Read Theodore Easton's letter from France on another page. It answers a good many questions that parents over here are asking their sons "over there."

Gov. Withycombe has refused the application for the pardon of the marine bootlegger, M. T. Barker, of Bandon, who has been in jail here for several months.

Come and see the new shipment of Ladies' coats just received at the Bazaar.

S. V. Smith, of Pueblo, Colo., has been appointed county agriculturist for Linn county, with headquarters at Albany. He is a brother of J. L. Smith, of this city.

Judge Coke has been in Eastern Oregon this week getting acquainted with the voters. His candidacy for the Supreme bench is favorably received in all sections.

H. A. Harris and A. W. Stevens came over here from the Bay yesterday to start the repair work the insurance people are to do on the First National Bank building here.

A. L. Weidner, who spent several months in jail here last year, on the Agitator man's complaint, is one of the men called from Coos county's list for the draft of April 26.

Another lot of new millinery and all kinds of ladies' apparel at Mrs. Burkholder's.

Our former Myrtle Point correspondent, Emerson B. Lane, writes us from San Jose, California, and says he doesn't expect to come back. He used to say they all would come back, though.

Hark Dunham brought in on Monday the biggest head of broccoli we have ever seen in Coos county, weighing over 6 pounds. When it comes to gardening Hark is certainly there with the goods.

F. B. Lawrence, of the Indianapolis Star, sends us a copy of the big patriotic edition of that paper published last Saturday, of which half of the first page is occupied by the national shield printed in colors.

Lieut. J. E. Montgomery, who was formerly manager of the Coos and Curry Telephone company, is now one of the Liberty Loan speakers of the state, having made his first address at Woodburn last Sunday.

Rev. S. G. Rogers, pastor of the Methodist church here, went out Tuesday morning, accompanied by Rev. S. M. Roberts, of the Bandon M. E. church South, to attend a district conference of the M. E. South pastors at Corvallis.

W. S. Brockman, brother of Jas. A. Brockman, whom he had not seen for 35 years, came in last week from Alaska where he has been engaged in mining, and expects to remain in Coos county. His eldest daughter is Mrs. Wiley Whittaker, of Myrtle Point.

Stock For Sale.

10 head 4-year old cows, all guaranteed first class, $85 each. 7 head 2-year old heifers, soon fresh. Two 3-year old colts, 1400 and 1500 pounds. Inquire of A. P. Sweet, Lampa, Ore.

J. J. Stanley's household is second to none in patriotism. While those living at home own bonds of various kinds, and they have no cat nor dog, every hen on the place laid an egg last Saturday (Liberty Day), an event which never happened before nor since.

J. M. Thomas was a Coquille visitor Wednesday. His announcement as a candidate for sheriff on the democratic ticket appears elsewhere in this issue. The way in which he has discharged the duties of deputy game warden should convince any one that if elected he will make a model sheriff.

Frank Burkholder, chairman of the executive committee handling last Saturday's monster parade, wishes the Sentinel to express his most sincere thanks and appreciation to every committeeman who helped plan and arrange for the parade, and to everyone who in any way helped to make it the magnificent success it was.

A. M. Woodford went out this morning for Vancouver, Washington, to visit his daughter, Mrs. Stiver, who lives in that vicinity. He was accompanied as far as Eugene by his daughter, Mrs. Jennie Williams, and son, Maurice, who are going to Medford to visit relatives and friends.

L. A. Liljeqvist came over here from the Bay yesterday afternoon to get the final figures for use in his brief in the Kinney taxes injunction case in the Federal court at Portland, where he proposes to file his brief on behalf of Coos county next Monday. This document is an immense affair comprising about a hundred typewritten pages.

LIBERTY DAY IN COQUILLE

means so much wherever soldiers are encamped or battles are fought.

Several blocks at the rear were filled by the General Public on foot and in carriages and autos, certainly a diversified assemblage of all ages, both sexes and many nationalities, but in all of whose breasts the fires of patriotism burned. It was in this section that the writer marched and from which, as it divided on Third street from the court house east, the front sections of the parade conterminally between and reversed the order of march that all might have an opportunity to see the rest of the procession.

The march ended where it began, at the Liberty Temple, and it was on the entrance platform of that not yet finished building that the program of the day was given. From the platform a sea of earnest, determined faces was visible in all directions, covering the pavement, the parklet in the middle of Willard street and reaching back over the blackened area of First street and the lots where Masonic Hall, the Wickham House and other buildings stood a month ago. With its back ground of fire wrecks towards Front street, it was such a scene as no one could possibly have imagined three weeks before.

Before bringing the story of this demonstration to a close we must quote the remark of one of our visitors, Private O'Rourke, of the V. C. M. 7th Battalion.

"Huh," he said as he envisioned the long procession which had marched before him, "they say Canada is patriotic. They ought to be here. I never saw anything like it."

The band discoursed patriotic airs, and the school children chorus sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning" very sweetly.

Then a double male quartette sang "America, the Beautiful," and "May God Depend on You." The singers were: Dr. J. A. Richmond, R. E. Baker, S. M. Nosler, F. G. Leslie, C. E. McCurdy, Ray and Wm. Peart and Prof. L. C. Douglas.

A girls' trio, composed of Marvel Skeels, Gladys Nosler and June Willey sang "Sing for the Praise of Our Country," and "Loyal Song."

The address at the Temple made by Private O'Rourke was the talk of a plain soldier, telling how he had gone over the top six times, once with 600 men of whom he was one of the three to come back. On Aug. 13, 1917, he won the Victoria Cross at Paeschendale, and he exhibited this decoration which King George had pinned to his coat. He also donned a gas mask to show how hideous it looked.

Attorney McCourt, formerly Assistant U. S. District Attorney at Portland, made a splendid patriotic address which we wish we had space to publish in full.

NOTICE TO VOTERS

I hereby announce myself a candidate for county commissioner at the May primaries subject to the will of the republican voters of Coos county.

Efficient economical conduct of county affairs and a dollar's worth of improvement for every dollar expended in road work is my motto.

IN OUTSIDE DISTRICTS

would be buried in France, that could not be helped; but he was willing to give everything he had to prevent the German flag flying over the land where our brave boys were sleeping.

At the conclusion of the speaking Teressa Clinton was asked to recite the following lines, entitled "Can Hum All you Can":

The time has come when we must help Our Sammy can the Kaiser, We all must save what food we can Or Bill will be the wiser.

He sits o'er there with haughty air Ordering his men about, He says, "Dot Sam he gits too fresh, I tink he'll soon gif out."

We'll feed our boys the best in store And do our bit for Sam That's the way we'll win the war At least that's Hoover's plan.

We all can help our Uncle Sam And be a "Hooverizer" Help him knock the eyes right out Of that infernal Kaiser.

While the church was full, all residents of the district were not present and it is expected to largely increase the $1,000 subscribed there that evening.

Conlogue's Camp.

Wednesday evening the committee got away at 4:30, on the May, and arrived at Beaver Slough in time to catch the logging train up to the camp. Here again they were too late for dinner with the men, but were served with a meal whose menu consisted of two kinds of meat, potatoes, broccoli, peas, pickles, biscuits, bread, cheese, sauce, cookies, cake, coffee, tea and milk—that wasn't all but it was as far as we could go. And never did a dinner taste better.

The inner man satisfied the whole camp assembled in the big bunk house and listened attentively to the speakers who were not there to urge Liberty Loan subscriptions—that is not necessary—but to take the subscriptions the men were eager to make. The total subscribed was $3,200, many of the bonds being paid for in full. In addition John Leneve sold 10 Baby Bonds for $41.50 and could have sold 20 had he had them with him.

Instead of the two and a half mile tramp back to the river the Coquille men were surprised to find the engine steamed up and ready to take them. These courtesies on the part of Jack and Dan Conlogue and W. P. McKenna were highly appreciated by the visitors who gave them a rousing vote of thanks.

McKinley and Fairview.

Yesterday afternoon four autos containing 18 people made the trip out to Assen's Camp at McKinley for a 5 o'clock meeting and then back to Fairview in the evening. The girls' trio, Misses Marvel Skeels, Gladys Nosler and June Willey, and Miss Mabel Bay and Genevieve Chase, accompanied the committee to furnish music at both meetings.

At McKinley a number of the ranchers who had heard of it came in and the total subscriptions there were $1250.

After dinner, which was enjoyed at the camp, the crowd came back to Fairview, where $1150 was subscribed by the loyal and patriotic farmers of that valley.

This afternoon about half a dozen of the speakers and committee are going over to Beaver Hill to take subscriptions in that district.

Arm Badly Gashed.

Clarence Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Barton, suffered a very serious accident in the W. O. W. hall last Saturday evening while the Red Cross lunch was being served. He was running and playing in the front of the hall when he slipped and fell into a window, and it is the greatest wonder he didn't plunge through to the concrete walk below.

The broken glass cut through the muscles of his right arm to the bone and for two inches along the bone tearing the flesh away in shreds. While his father fastened a tourniquet to stop the flow from the artery, a hunt was made for a physician. Dr. Richmond was finally located and administered the attention needed. It is not thought the arm will be stiffened from the injury when it heals, but the loss of blood and pain made him faint, although he stood the ordeal like a soldier.

Honorably Discharged.

The Military Board here has been officially notified of the honorable discharge from the U. S. Army of Private Carmel G. Sanders, of Co. E, 4th Division. He is the son of Mrs. W. W. Sanders, who lives just below here on the river road to Bandon. Trouble with his feet which rendered it impossible for him to sustain the weight of a soldier's accoutrements was the cause of his discharge. He came home from Camp Greene, N. C.

Yes, It Was a Camel.

When it comes to setting a roof afire Archie Philip says he can prove an alibi—that he never smoked anything but the Camel brand of cigarettes, while the Sentinel said it was a Columbia. It would be a good deal easier to prove that the Sentinel got its wires crossed on the names of brands of cigarettes, than to get away with that kind of an alibi. It was a Camel cigarette stubb, too, that Pulford picked up on the roof and showed us.

Died at County Infirmary.

Anna Johansen died at the County Farm Wednesday, of tumor of the brain. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. McVeigh yesterday and the interment was at the county cemetery.

Mrs. Johansen was 47 years of age. She came to the Infirmary from Marshfield in July but had been there for a few months once before.
