

IS MARKING TIME

Our Soldiers' Duties in France
Now Much Less Strenuous
Than a While Ago

J. M. Hodge, of the Fishtrap section, is in receipt of letters from his son, Arthur, with the A. E. F. forces overseas, who wrote Dec. 1 and 4 from Denterghem, Belgium. We take from the letters the following notes:

Here is the record of battles that now adorns my service record: "St. Mihiel" Sept. 11-13, (the drive on Metz, Alsace); Meuse, Argonne, Sept. 26-Oct. 12; Lys-Scheldt, Belgium, Oct. 31-Nov. 11. We were up, you see, just two months and are credited with 30 days' fighting. Not bad is it? And we were in real action, believe me. We saw war as it is fought in the approved 20th century style, and we had all we wanted of it, too.

When we left the Argonne we came through Chateau-Thierry where the Yanks fought so wonderfully in July, then through the outskirts of Paris, up through Amiens to Calais and Dunkerque, then back into the interior of Belgium toward Brussels. Ypres was the destroyed city I wrote about. Roulers, Injghem, Andevarde, Thielt are some of the larger towns we have been in. We expected to go to Brussels but the orders were changed. Andevarde was the last town the Yanks took here. We were there the day the armistice was signed.

Today we got information that we were to march to Dunkerque on the channel, about 40 miles. It will take 4 or 5 days. From there we expect to entrain to southwestern France. I can't believe we are to be in this country much longer since we are not to go to Germany. Yesterday we had a big inspection of all equipment which seemed to be a preparation for the journey home. However, it may take several months yet.

Just today my warrant came promoting me to Sgt. 1st class. Glad to get it for it will give me a lot of extra privileges. I will not have to carry my pack on marches any more, which will be quite a relief.

Some of the boys went to Ghent today. It is a big city about 18 miles from here. They say it is a fine place. I wanted to go but couldn't get away.

We're still in the same place waiting orders to move toward France. Friday, the 6th, seems to be the day now for moving.

I've been very busy. We have had reports of clothing to get up and new clothing to issue to the men. Then I've had monthly reports to get ready and send in. While today we had to sterilize gas masks for the whole battalion, about 400. Now that I am first sergeant of the Medical Detachment I have a lot of added responsibility. All the reports, service records, etc., I have to keep in shape. But this keeps me inside out of the bad weather, so I'm satisfied.

Speaking of weather, we have had very good weather. There has been only a small amount of rain in this section. I expected Flanders to be worse than the Oregon coast for rain and mud. So far I have been disappointed in that respect. Coos county can beat Flanders for mud and rain any old time.

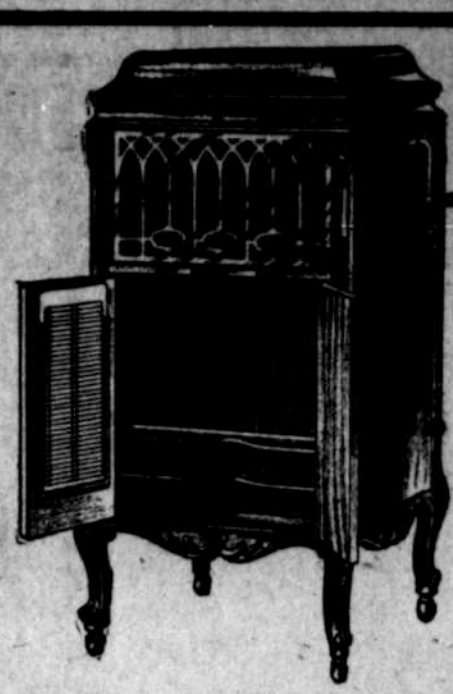

Today we received an official bulletin from Division Headquarters bearing a telegram from the Chamber of Commerce of Eugene addressed to "All Lane County and Oregon men," dated Nov. 11 and stating: "Greetings; your entire state gone crazy, your relatives and neighbors madly celebrating today, your victory." It was a message we all greatly appreciated. There are two Eugene men, ambulance drivers, attached to our battalion. There must have been wild enthusiasm all over the country.

When Tide of War Was Turned

Lieutenant J. H. Wolford is a hero of the 65th regiment, C. A. C., from Roseburg and has returned from the battle front in France. He sailed home on the George Washington, the boat that took President Wilson and party over.

In speaking of the battles Lieutenant Wolford says:

"I was in the thickest of the battle of Chateau-Thierry for over six weeks. I entered on the 20th of July and saw the turn of the tide in the great battle. The Boche tried the same tactics which had overrun the French, and they came up in solid formation, one rank after another until 12 waves had been sent up through the barrage, and they met their defeat against the withering fire of the Yanks with machine guns and rifles which piled them up in great heaps. I saw carloads of the Germans killed by our fire and it was this effective work of the American troops that broke down and turned the tide of the war. Six weeks of this was an experience that will last me all my life." Lieutenant Wolford was gassed on

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

—Old Style or New?

¶The new Brunswick Phonograph represents the most advanced type of Talking Machine—due to the Brunswick method of tone production.

¶No other instrument has these advanced ideas.

¶Merely to hear the Brunswick is to recognize its superior musical qualities.

THE ULTONA is the new Brunswick method of reproduction that makes it possible to play all records as they never have been played before.

There are two essentials to correct reproduction. The ULTONA reproduces the vibrations from the record. The All Wood Tone Amplifier rounds out the tones in their full, life-like beauty, without the usual metallic harshness.

THE ULTONA is not an attachment, but a distinctly new creation—an essential part of the Brunswick's new method of reproduction. By a turn of the hand it adapts itself to any of the vastly different types of records. The playing point, the correct position, and the precise degree of pressure needed—all conditions are met by this amazingly simple device.

So think of the Brunswick as something more than a pleasure giving instrument. It is the ideal phonograph for the home, to develop in growing children a love and understanding of all good music. For it plays the music of all artists. And it plays it at its best.

Come in and hear the BRUNSWICK, the most popular phonograph on the market today, play your favorite music. We have sold 28 of these machines in the past five months. If we haven't the style of machine in stock that you wish we can get it in a few days.

We receive the latest Pathe Records every week.

Prices range from $40 to $1500

September 4 and sent to a hospital where he had just recovered as the armistice was signed, so he was sent home. The gas that got him was sneezing gas and after that mustard gas. The sneezing gas caused them to sneeze so hard they sneezed their masks off, and the mustard gas affected their skin like strong mustard would the throat. The Americans faced all the devilish devices on earth that the Boche could think of and the Boches were defeated by the speed of the Yanks. They were too fast for the Germans.

Lieutenant Wolford was one of the crack shots of the Oregon rifle team that had competed in national shoots. He holds many medals and trophies for fine marksmanship. And this came in good play when he was lined up against the Germans with all their underhand devices for war, and he was one among the many that came out victorious, having received no wounds, only a gas attack from which he is fully recovered.

Hits the Bootleggers Hard

A person who buys intoxicating liquor in this state is not an accomplice of the person who sells it and his testimony, without being corroborated, is sufficient on which to base conviction.

That is the substance of an opinion handed down by the supreme court Tuesday in the case of the state versus C. L. Busick, druggist of Union, who was convicted of violating the prohibition law by selling "Bitter Herb Tonic."

Attorney General Brown declared that this was the most important opinion rendered by the supreme court, relative to the enforcement of the prohibition law, since local option was first adopted in this state.

Under this opinion district attorneys may employ "stool pigeons" to buy liquor as a means of gaining evidence that the law is being violated and their testimony is admissible as evidence.

"I have been working for a year and a half to gain this interpretation of our prohibition law, said Attorney General Brown, "and today's opinion is of far reaching importance."

The opinion was written Justice Johns, and it affirms Circuit Judge Knowles. Busick sold the tonic to William Wolf, who was employed by the district attorney to make purchases with a view of basing criminal prosecution thereon.

"The crime charged against the defendant is the sale of intoxicating liquor and the record is conclusive that the prosecuting witness was employed to make the purchase for the purpose of appearing as a witness against the defendant," says Justice Johns. "But there is a very marked difference between the legal status and liabilities of a seller and those of a purchaser. While it is true that a sale cannot be made without a purchaser, it is also true that the crime is in the sale of intoxicating liquor and not in the purchase. The whole purpose and intent of the prohibition amendment was to prevent and punish the sale of intoxicating liquor, and as it fails to make the purchase of such liquor an indictable offense, we hold that Wolf, as a purchaser, was not an accomplice of the defendant as a seller."

It Was Easy to Learn

"Do you think you could learn to love me?" asked the young man.

"Well—I don't—know," replied the sweet young thing, thoughtfully.

"I have $5,000 in Liberty bonds, $10,000 invested in good-paying stock—"

"Go on; I'm learning."

"And $50,000 in well-paying real estate."

"All right, dear; I've learned. Believe me, you're some teacher!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Millions Just as Mad as He

"What particular form of insanity has this man developed?" asked the visitor to the Asylum for Insane as he stopped in front of a padded cell.

"Why, he thinks he ought to assassinate the Kaiser," replied the guard.

"Gosh!" exclaimed the visitor. "I know wehe you can get about fifty million more like him if you want them."—Cincinnati Inquirer.
