Those Fruit Donations

The donation of home canned fruit and other commodities from Coquille to the Louise Home and the other institutions under the management of the Pacific Coast Rescue and Protective Society, was shipped a few days after Thanksgiving, and I have recently received a letter from Mr. McLaren, the superintendent, in which he warmly thanks all who had part in the matter.

It was a collection to be proud of. I would write a detailed description that would make your mouth water, familiar as you are with the luscious fruits and appetizing vegetables of Coos county, but space forbids. I will merely say that, "Thankful I am there was jelly and jam"—and preserves, also, and spiced fruits, and chow-chow and picalilli, and succotash and, if you will believe me, there was one quart jar of real beef. And in addition to the "plain canned" and the extras, there were several parcels of dried apples.

A number of ladies gave two or more jars, and one gave thirteen quarts. Another who failed to bring her fruit in time, gave money which is just as acceptable.

There was altogether enough edibles to fill two barrels and there was besides a box of big red eating apples of the King variety. As one admiring friend remarked, they were "as fine as anybody ever stuck a tooth into."

I have been asked why, when so much fruit goes to waste around Forestland, they don't do their own canning. I take this opportunity to say that they do their full duty along this line. They fill hundreds and hundreds of jars. There are people who would rather see their fruit rot than give it away and people who don't give because they have no thought for those in need—but, thank heaven, there are many who are different. Therefore, needless to say, a good deal of fruit is given them. Besides what they put up at the institution, the girls of the Louise Home go out into the country, here and there, under the charge of matrons, and can whatever had been offered them. Yet they need all they receive from us and other communities of Oregon.

For dear readers, just consider what a lot of them there are to feed. Persons who have had certain experiences, such as entertaining harvest crews and boarding elephants, will understand in a way, and you, who have merely a common-sized family in these days of high prices, please loose your imagination and call forth your knowledge of the multiplication table.

We, who collected and sent this gift, cordially thank all who assisted in the packing and shipping—H. O. Anderson, the Farmers store, and the Racket store for barrels and straw; Miss Laura Dimmick, A. P. Miller, and S. V. Epperson for services rendered; F. Nosler for hauling and the S. P. people for courteous co-operation. And personally, I thank with sincerest appreciation and the feelings that belong to "the parting of the ways," all who helped in this last work of a public nature I expect to do, in Coquille, or anywhere on earth. It is the condition of my health that compels this renunciation.—Frances E. Epperson.

Chamberlain's Tablets

When you are troubled with indigestion or constipation, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Indigestion is usually accompanied by constipation and is aggravated by it. Chamberlain's Tablets cause a gentle movement of the bowels, relieving the constipated condition.

NEW COUNCIL CONVENES.

superintendent, was almost torn in two trying to follow the instructions of both the streets and the water committees.

With one exception the officers appointed by Mayor Johnson are the same as have served the city for the past year, the change being in the office of engineer and building inspector.

The appointments, which the council confirmed, are as follows: Marshal—A. P. Miller.

Water Superintendent—Lee Goodman. Night Marshal—J. A. Jackson. Treasurer—O. C. Sanford.

Engineer—A. N. Gould. Attorney—J. J. Stanley. Health Officer—Dr. Jan. Richmond. Fire Chief—H. O. Anderson.

The committees named were as follows: Ordinance—Barrow, Hawkins, Skeels.

Finance—Hawkins, Skeels, Mansell. Streets—Mansell, Barrow, Lamb. Fire—McLeod, Mansell, Lamb.

Water—Lamb, McLeod, Hawkins. Lights—Skeels, McLeod, Barrow.

The mayor next submitted what he said he considered a very serious question—the selection of the official newspaper for the city. And then, in spite of a suggestion that the Coos County Agricultural Bulletin might be named, his honor proceeded all by himself to move, second and declare that the Coquille Valley Sentinel be the official paper.

If ever a proposition was railroaded through, that one was. C. A. Gage submitted a petition requesting that as the theatre had only been open for 22 nights during the last quarter of 1918, the license fee paid for that term be applied to the present three months.

The recorder was instructed to adjust the matter with Mr. Gage on the basis of the time the show was permitted to run.

Mayor Johnson said he had no annual message to transmit, as called for in the order of business, but he would make a few recommendations. The first was that the city should appropriate $1,000 to help secure the erection of a building for the Coos County Corn Show, provided the county and the citizens of Coquille assisted in the endeavor and a suitable building program was formulated and carried out.

Street improvements should be made as needed but also taking into consideration the ability of the abutting property owners to pay.

As to the appointment of a Board of Health to act with the health officer in handling such crises as the present "flu" epidemic, the mayor asked for an expression from the council.

For half an hour the question of quarantine and how best to preserve the public health through such epidemics was discussed by the council.

City Attorney Stanley had prepared an ordinance which would limit the size of crowds in any room by providing that for each person there should be 500 cubic feet of air space—500 cubic feet was the amount suggested—and also providing for fines for violations and for failure to report any case to the health office.

The ordinance was not brought to a vote, the councilmen desiring a little time to think over its provisions and decide whether it covered the grounds as thoroughly as was necessary.

Clyde Gage made the statement that there was not a town in the county which had an ordinance granting the city authorities any control over doctors, and that until such ordinances were passed the cities could not compel physicians to report their cases to the proper health officers for quarantine.

Councilman Lamb advanced the opinion that if a quarantine on local flu cases was ordered it should be made to apply to outsiders as well who might thwart all efforts to protect local citizens by merely coming to town. He concluded with the statement that to be safe "every one should do as did that grand old man, Rip Van Winkle—go to sleep for 20 years."

To The Public
We, the undersigned pastors of Coquille, have carefully considered the advisability of holding regular church services at our respective churches and hereby issue the following joint announcement:

1. We have learned that there are still some cases of influenza in the community.

2. Inasmuch as physicians and others say that any public gathering is a means of spreading the disease anew, while it is so nearly blotted out, we, therefore, willingly postpone all public church gatherings until the authorities are convinced that it is safe to open school.

Respectfully,
W. E. Couper,
W. L. Straub,
James E. Conder.

"Eight years ago when we first moved to Mattoon, I was a great sufferer from indigestion and constipation," writes Mrs. Robert Allison, Mattoon, Ill. "I had frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and there was a feeling like a heavy weight pressing on my stomach and chest all the time. I felt miserable. Every morsel of food distressed me. I could not rest at night and felt tired and worn out all the time. One bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets cured me and I have since felt like a different person."
