Olden Times in the Valley

J. F. Schroeder, who was a member of the Baltimore Colony of 1859 that played such a part in the development of the Coquille valley in pioneer times, Tuesday gave us some interesting facts about the early days and early settlers of the valley. Yesterday, May 29, he says was the sixtieth anniversary of the arrival of the colony on the site of Coquille, which then consisted of only a log house. They had spent four days then in coming up from Port Orford and it took two more to reach the point where they first settled, five miles above Myrtle Point.

At that time there were 80 settlers in the valley from Bandon to Powers, besides some migratory miners above Powers. Of the 80 there are only eight now living in the valley. They are J. F. Schroeder, of Coquille, Mrs. Alva Harry, of Sitkum, Mrs. John Hamblock and Y. M. Lowe, of Bandon, Mrs. Jenima Huffman and Russel Dement, of Myrtle Point, Mrs. Emily Schroeder, of Arago, and Mrs. Gus Schroeder, of Norway. Two others are living in the county over at the Bay, Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. Nasbaugh, and still others farther away.

Sixty years ago every prominent point on the north side of the Coquille had one or more settlers; but on the south bank of the river between Bandon and Arago the only settler was a Swede by the name of Lampa, who had just pitched a tent at the mouth of the creek that took his name. He remained there but a short time, however.

Mr. Schroeder says he not only knew the 80 people living in the valley then but can still name every one of them. He was 14 years old when they landed here and for him the day was made an especially sad one by the drowning of his brother, William, then eleven years old, at the mouth of Cunningham creek. Binger Hermann, then a boy a couple of years older than Mr. Schroeder made a valiant attempt to rescue the drowning boy but was unable to do so.

A reunion of the eight settlers named above was talked of for this sixtieth anniversary of the landing of the party at this point, but they are widely scattered up and down the valley and probably all of them are in the seventies or eighties.

All for Roosevelt Highway

From the Oregonian.

The Oregonian will record itself as frankly surprised at the evident favor with which the proposal for the Roosevelt highway is received by the state.

Perhaps the name has something to do with it. We think it has.

Perhaps there is a feeling that, in the widespread road movement throughout Oregon, the coast counties have been in a measure neglected.

Perhaps there is an underlying apprehension of our almost defenseless situation, and a real appreciation of the military value of an accessible and practicable thoroughfare, parallel to the coast line, and very near to it.

Perhaps there is a willingness now to invest in roads for purposes of development, with an assurance that the returns will be certain, and with the knowledge that they will be slight without some matured project of selfhelp.

Perhaps the vision of the state has been so widened and enlarged that it wants a comprehensive plan of road construction proposed now and realized as soon as may be, so that the whole may benefit by the progress and prosperity of every part.

Perhaps the plan of co-operation with the government contains its own special appeal, just now to citizens who have had recently a great stimulus to their patriotic ardor through the trial of a great war, and have earned a higher pride in their government, their state and their citizenship than ever before.

Perhaps it is all these considerations together, and others of merit and influence. Whatever it is, it is quite true that practically every representative voice in Oregon, so far as it has spoken, is for the Roosevelt highway.

Let us be glad that it is so. Sometimes a qualm of uneasiness overwhelms us that we may be overdoing this road business. Yet we have had a long spell where it has been undone, or not done at all. The present is great and the future is long, and there is plenty of time and resource to pay.

MYRTLE POINT ITEMS.

Dr. Louis M. Anderson returned from St. Louis, Michigan, Wednesday evening. He met his small daughter, Kathleen, at Albany and brought her on home with him.

Harold Drake gave a great surprise to his parents and sisters when he walked in on them last Sunday. He has been in Salem attending the Willamette University since last September. Harold was taken down with the mumps and so returned home. He has been quite sick but is some better at the present writing.

Mrs. C. C. Carter, who spent last week in Salem with her daughter, Gladys, returned home Monday.

Prof. and Mrs. C. A. Davidson motored to Coquille on business last Saturday.

Dr. Clarke reports the epidemic of "flu" at Lee and McKinley under control with no new cases.

Mrs. Walter Scott and daughter, Fay, went to Coquille Friday to visit friends and relatives.

Baccalaureate services were held at the Methodist church last Sunday night. Rev. Mr. McDonald preached the sermon. The High School furnished the music.

Union Memorial services were held at the Latter Day Saints' church Sunday morning.

Rev. Thos. Barklow will preach at Broadbent at 11 o'clock and at Catching Creek at 2 o'clock next Sunday. He is going to give an object lesson. All are invited to attend.

Wilbur Barklow, of Marshfield, was called home Monday evening as his folks are all sick with the gripe.

Next Monday evening Mrs. Oliver H. Clarke will present her piano pupils in public recital at the Unique Theatre. Mrs. O. H. Knowlton, of Coquille, and Rev. F. G. Drake, of this city, are to be vocal soloists and Dr. Clarke will be the reader. Those who attended Mrs. Clarke's recital last year will remember what a splendid showing was made. This year's program bids fair to surpass that of last year. The public is invited.

Isaac Barklow and family, of Myrtle Point, and H. K. Root, of Arago, expect to leave for California Saturday. They will be gone about a month.

The commencement exercises of the graduating class of 1919 of Myrtle Point was held at the Unique Theatre Wednesday evening, May 28. Following is the program:

Those graduating were Carmel Marsters, Anna Moser, Jacob Moomaw, Kathleen Marsters, Marlon Baynes, Stella Parker.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Miller were held Thursday morning in the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Drake taking charge.

Lucy Ann Taylor was born in the state of Virginia April 2, 1842, and died at the home of her son, Jas. M. Miller, in Myrtle Point, May 22, 1919, aged 77 years, one month and 25 days.

Her early life was spent in Missouri, where she was married to Charles Wesley Miller. To this union was born one child, Sarah, who died in 1880. Mr. Miller died in 1866. In 1870 Mrs. Miller was married to Geo. W. Miller, of Henry county, Missouri, where the family resided until coming to Oregon. To this union were born five children. Leaving Missouri in 1874 the family came to Oregon, landing at Gold Beach, Curry county. Here they resided twenty-eight years, removing to Wilbur, Douglas county, in 1902 and to Myrtle Point in 1908. Mr. Miller preceded her to the life beyond on January 30, 1917.

Mrs. Miller was a Christian all her life. When a child she became a member of the Baptist church. Not finding the church of her choice after locating in Oregon she became a member of the United Brethren church in Jerry's Flat, Curry county. Mrs. Miller was a faithful wife and loving mother, ever solicitous of the welfare of her children. She leaves behind to mourn their loss five sons; Wm. R. and John W., of Powers; Frank L., of Coquille; and Jas. M. and Milton W., of Myrtle Point; and sixteen grandchildren, one great grandchild, Louis Henry Krick; besides a number of friends and acquaintances.

KEYNOTE OF METHODIST CENTENARY

Dr. S. Earl Taylor

"The world cannot be reconstructed by a formula. No mere agreement among diplomats can heal the wounds of war. No international constitution, however perfect in its phrasing, and no mere economic revolution, however sweeping in its scope, can bring about the universal reign of peace and good will among men. Such a peace is the fundamental aspiration of every human heart, but it cannot be realized through government, and it cannot be realized through law alone. World democracy can and will be realized only through the practical application of the religion of Jesus, and nothing but faithfulness on the part of the Christian Church need delay its realization now."

"Headin' South." It's Doug Fairbanks. That means that it's thrilling, spectacular and full of action. Liberty Theatre Saturday evening, May 31st.
