

A vast amount of work now remains to be done which the intervention of war has necessarily delayed and accumulated, and the result is that a very large capital expenditure ought to be made to make up for the interruptions inevitably due to the war, and to prepare the railroads to serve adequately the increased traffic throughout the country.

WALKER D. HINES, Director General of Railroads.

Work more—
Produce more—
Save more—

But we can't continue increasing our production unless we continue increasing our railroad facilities.

The farms, mines and factories cannot increase their output beyond the capacity of the railroads to haul their products.

Railroads are now near the peak of their carrying capacity.

Without railroad expansion—more engines, more cars, more tracks, more terminals—there can be little increase in production.

But this country of ours is going to keep right on growing—and the railroads must grow with it.

To command in the investment markets the flow of new capital to expand railroad facilities—and so increase production—there must be public confidence in the future earning power of railroads.

The nation's business can grow only as fast as the railroads grow.

A Bay Rum Jag The Gold Beach Reporter says: "An ex-service man, a stranger in town, loaded himself up on bay rum here one day this week, and paraded our streets all cocked and primed for action. He was lodged in the jail over night to collect his scattered wits and next day went on his way rejoicing."

Coos River Houses Burned Last Friday afternoon and evening two ranch houses on Coos river were totally destroyed by fire. One belonged to T. F. Hannshildt and the other to A. O. Rogers. So far as known there was no insurance on either of them. A business man hates to pay out from $200 to $500 a year for insurance, and those who can afford to carry their own risks sometimes do so, but a man whose property is well insured sleeps better nights.

McKinley Notes

McKinley Grange met last Saturday in regular session. There being such a small attendance no new business was taken up, although there was some discussion whether there should be day or night meetings hereafter. Three new applications for membership were handed in. Fred Mast and family spent Christmas with the D. Myers family. Fred returned home the same evening while Mrs. Mast and children remained until Sunday.

Carleton and Katherine Brown left for Corvallis Wednesday, Carleton to take a three months' course in cheese making and Katherine going on to Summit, Oregon, to resume teaching after a three weeks' vacation.

Elton Robbins and family and Miss Helen Robbins are back at McCarthy's camp again after a few days Christmas vacation.

Richard McCarthy and wife came home Sunday from Marshfield after a few days' visit with Mrs. McCarthy's parents at that place.

Claude Brown returned to Camas Valley Sunday after a week's Christmas vacation.

Frank and Allen Church, of Camas Valley, visited Alva Brown's a few days last week.

Mrs. H. L. Hansen had business in Coquille last Wednesday.

Mrs. Wanda Wilcox is visiting home folks this week.

Uncle Grant Harry went to Langlois for a short visit with his two daughters who live at that place.

Grandma Laird ate Christmas dinner with the Wilcox family.

Walter Lawhorn and wife and Ratliff Lawhorn and family spent Christmas with home folks.

Chas. Holmstrom is on the sick list this week.

Chas. King, who has been quite sick, is able to be up and around again.

Archie Shepherd was a Coquille visitor Wednesday.

Arthur Brown's family, Ted and Rex Brown and Archie Shepherd spent Christmas evening at Mrs. Wilcox's.

Milford Mast and Mabel Wilcox visited Katherine and Claude Brown Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Emsley Gleen, who has been visiting George Glenn's, returned to Coquille Tuesday where she expects to visit for some time.

Alvin Neely, of Coquille, is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Glenn.

Grandpa Glenn is home again after a short stay at Coquille.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman King expect to move to Dora soon where Lyman has a contract for hauling logs with his horse teams.

W. H. Bunch spent several days last week visiting friends and relatives at Gravel Ford.

O. A. C. Specialists Coming

Word has just been received from the Oregon Agricultural College by the county agent that the following specialists from the college will be sent to Coos county during the week of January 12th to 19th and will hold two days session schools in districts where fifteen or more families indicate that they would attend such schools.

Prof. W. L. Powers on Soils and Drainage.

Prof. E. L. Westeover on Dairy herd feeding and management.

Miss Jessie Biles on Household management and cookery.

Miss Lane on Clothing and Textiles.

Do you want a real course offered right in your own community? This is what the Agricultural College is willing to do with these instructors. If you want them write the county agent and every effort will be made to have two schools in the Bay district, one near Coquille and one near Bandon.

Courtesy Appreciated

"She smiled and thanked me when I paid my bill," was the explanation given by a Chinese peddler for having presented a basket of fine fruit from his wagon to the young lady at the counter of an electric light company, as related in an article by S. M. Kennedy in "The Value of Courtesy" in Journal of Electricity. Among the intangible assets of a public utility corporation that is difficult to appraise is a reputation for courtesy, says Mr. Kennedy, yet unquestionably it is an asset of as real a value as poles and wires.

State Teachers' Meeting

Superintendent Chas. A. Howard, of Eugene, formerly of this city, and Raymond E. Baker, of Coquille, were both members of the committee on resolutions at the Portland meeting of the state teachers' association this week.

The committee reported and the association adopted resolutions demanding a minimum salary of $1080 for teachers in this state and a state tax not to exceed two mills for educational purposes exclusively, at its session Monday. In the Oregonian's report of the debate on this question we find the following:

"Put the salaries where the standard of teaching can be raised," urged Harbld Tuttle of Coquille. "When the teachers are getting $90 a month the public can demand that much work from them and get it."

Superintendent R. E. Baker, of Coquille, was slated to take a leading part in the movement. He is from Coos county, where the teachers had already obtained a minimum wage of $1000 a year by pledging not to accept positions at less than that figure.

"Down in Coos county," he explained, "the barbers, doctors and lawyers all raised their scales without consulting the public. Finally the teachers got together and did the same. We did not even discuss forming a union. Before we took this step I had begun to think what a mistake I had made in not attending a barber university and graduating from a real profession."

"The California legislature has set $1200 as the minimum for teachers in that state, and we should let our legislature know that we stand for something. Ninety dollars a month for 12 months is not unreasonable to ask."

Crop Estimates for Coos County

The bureau of crop estimates of the department of agriculture at Washington has just made public the figures of crop production in Coos county, as gathered by the Assessor here last spring.

The following shows the number of acres in Coos county planted to grain and the production in bushels in 1919:

Winter wheat, 100 acres, produced 3,000 bushels.

Spring wheat, 130 acres, produced 3900 bushels.

Oats, 1850 acres, produced 83,250 bushels.

Barley, 490 acres, produced 19,600 bushels.

Rye, 160 acres, produced 2,720 bushels.

Corn, 2,427 acres, produced 75,664 bushels.

In the case of corn in Coos county, most of that grown was cut green for ensilage and put in silos.

A great deal of the rye and oats planted was cut when green for hay and never allowed to reach the grain stage. For these reasons the production of these grains might not seem to correspond to the acreage planted.

The bureau gives as the winter wheat planted this year in Coos county as 100 acres and the condition as 98 per cent normal. The winter rye planted is 160 acres and the condition 100 per cent.

It Is a Convenient Fuel

Industrial development, shipping and home comfort on the Pacific Coast are to a large extent dependent on oil for fuel. There are no great deposits of coal in the Coast states, but Nature has given a compensating advantage in the great oil fields of California. From these come fuel for most of our industries, our railroads, the ships that call at our ports, including the grim, grey warriors of the Navy. The oil fields also furnish the crude oil from which is derived the super-refined water white oil for heating, cooking and lighting in our homes. The Standard Oil Company has done a great service in perfecting methods of refining coal oil, or kerosene, for in Pearl Oil they have given the housewife a convenient and economical fuel for all household purposes, which burns without smoke or odor. Pearl Oil has become a most important factor in the comfortable home life of the Pacific Coast.
