Coos County Farm Bureau

Fifty-five farmers and farm women from twenty-seven different communities of Coos county at a meeting held in Coquille, Saturday, decided to organize the Coos County Farm Bureau. The purpose of this organization will be to develop in each community of the county a program of work among the members of the community as a means of making agriculture more profitable, farm home life more pleasant and the rural structure of the county more permanent, thus contributing to the greater prosperity of the county as a whole.

In view of the fact that the Farm Bureau is a semi-public organization, receiving indirect support from public funds, it shall not be the purpose of the organization to engage in partisan politics and sectarian affairs or to engage in direct marketing enterprises or competitive business.

The first ten communities that will organize are: Arago, Norway, Catching Inlet, North Coos River, South Coos River, Lower Coquille, Dew Valley, Broadbent, Bridge and Lakeside.

It is expected that these communities will be organized by April 15th and 621 members secured by that time. On this date, permanent organization will be effected at a meeting in Coquille.

W. C. Cutler, of Myrtle Point, acted as chairman and Mrs. Olaf Aasen was secretary of the meeting held last Saturday.

The following executive committee was selected to take charge of the Farm Bureau until the permanent organization meeting on April 15th:
James T. Jenkins, Lower Coquille, president; Mrs. C. E. Schroeder, Arago, secretary; S. Reed, Twin Oaks, treasurer; Mrs. J. E. Noah, North Coos River, and W. A. Colliver, Catching Inlet.

An official paper of the Farm Bureau will be edited by the paid County Agents and will be known as the Farm Bureau News. Subscriptions to this paper will be included in the one dollar membership fee.

The giving of assistance by County Agent Farr to the formation of a drainage district in the Coaledo district was sanctioned by the executive committee and Mr. Farr was instructed to secure such assistance as necessary from the Oregon Agricultural College to complete this district.

No Damage Done

A slight blaze in the Sentinel office Tuesday morning about half past eight led to an unsuccessful attempt to call out the fire department. Somehow the girls in the telephone office couldn't locate the fire to inform the department where it was, although the call was from our number and they were informed that the Sentinel office was on fire.

In repairing the gas engine the exhaust pipe was disconnected and when the engine began to back fire some papers on the floor were ignited and as they were behind a heavy piece of plank boxing the fire was not seen until it was roaring up to the ceiling. A bucket of water sufficed to extinguish it, however, and no damage was done.

Trying to Make Hark the Goat

Hark Dunham says the teacher of a district in the Bay section sent some children home from school because they had not been vaccinated and then reported them as truants. This looked as if the truant officer was to be made the goat and not only expected to make them attend school, but also compel them to be vaccinated, which is entirely "ultra vires" so far as his powers are concerned.

Sunset Magazine and the Sentinel are now furnished in combination for $2, the price of the Sentinel being $2 a year and that of Sunset $2 and the combined price being $1 less.

Anti-Vaccination League Busy

Tuesday evening the anti-vaccination league of Marshfield published a notice in which they announced a meeting would be held to consider taking "action against the school board of Marshfield with reference to the illegal employment of nurses, among other things." Attorney J. T. Brand, of the school board, strongly defends their action in employing a health nurse "to teach cleanliness and hygiene and healthy living." He says the voters approved the plan with only nine dissenting. He adds:

"No funds have ever been spent by this district which have contributed more to the welfare of our people, or which have more materially reduced the suffering in this community, especially among those who are not wealthy, than the money spent in this way. We support the action of the people, and we will back our own action in this matter to the limit."

It has always been a wonder to us that public funds were spent so lavishly to preserve the health of hogs and cattle and so niggardly for the health of human beings.

Smallpox Claims a Victim

The first death from smallpox reported in this county in recent years occurred last Saturday morning when Sigma Silverstem, of Coos River, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Silverstem, passed away. She was the oldest child in the family and the three younger ones were ill with disease at the same time. None of the children had been vaccinated, although the parents, who did not take the disease, had. It seems smallpox hasn't entirely lost its terrors.

Liljeqvist Moving Soon

L. A. Liljeqvist is getting ready to move to Portland where he has entered the firm of Cake & Cake. Mrs. Liljeqvist is visiting her parents here now and it is uncertain just how soon she will be ready to go, and she does not want to take Cynthia out of school before the close of the term. Mr. Liljeqvist expects to be down here early in March to try those newspaper cases against O'Brien, Maloney and Cates.

Sunset and the Sentinel $3 for a year. The regular price of $4.

He Asks Court for Assistance

A press dispatch from Marshfield, which we quoted at the time of the second Harold Howell trial, gave Mrs. John Kronenburg, of Bandon, the entire credit of financing the defense of the boy that far. Now from the same source comes the following dispatch telling how the expenses of that trial have eaten up all of the family resources, and the attorney's bill is not yet fully paid. The two stories do not exactly harmonize, but here is the last one as published in Monday's Oregonian.

In straitened circumstances as a result of having spent and borrowed money from friends for the defense of his son, Harold Howell, charged with the murder of Lillian Leuthold, of Bandon, O. O. Howell has made a plea to provide funds for the boy's defense.

The 15-year-old boy has been tried twice in the Coos county circuit court for the murder and each time the trial was followed by disagreement of the juries.

Howell's appeal to the court declares:

"I have learned that my boy is to be tried the third time for murder, at the February term of court.

"I am only a laboring man, working at carpentry or sawmill work and am not in very good shape to do either at the present time, since I cut my left hand off last March, four months before Harold was arrested. The only income that I have is $25 a month from the state insurance commission and what I am able to do at common labor. Before my accident I did well, playing for dances, but I am now so crippled that this means of income is ended.

"I have spent in defending my boy, Harold, every cent that I had or have been able to raise or borrow and have not paid up all of my attorney fees for the second case. Coos county has hired expensive detectives and blood experts and the sheriff's office has had a man on the job all the time, all to try and fasten this horrible crime on my boy, Harold, whom I know to be innocent.

"What I think Coos county should do is this: I think the county should make some kind of payment to me, of at least $500, to take care of some of my expenses. I cannot borrow more money and I cannot go to my friends who stood by us in the previous trials and ask them for money."

The law provides that the court shall designate some member of the bar to undertake the defense if one accused of crime is unable to employ counsel. We doubt whether the court would have any right to donate public funds in the way suggested.

Decides Case Against County

Judge Skipworth has given a decision regarding the ownership in the interest on certain money in the case of the Southern Oregon Company against W. W. Gage as sheriff, T. M. Dimmick as county treasurer, the Flanagan and Bennett bank, the First National bank and others.

The Southern Oregon placed in escrow $93,000, which was for the payment of taxes. It was claimed that the government was trying to take the land away from the company and that the taxes should not be paid. The government did take the land and the money was ordered paid back to the Southern Oregon company. The county had claimed that the bank must pay the county interest on the tax money in escrow, which interest amounted to $3970. The bank paid under protest.

Judge Skipworth's decision now is that the interest money must be paid back to the First National Bank and that the county has no interest in the money.

Marshfield Sells Bonds at Home

Tuesday the city of Marshfield sold $18,962.44 in improvement bonds to a local bank, getting par and accrued interest and a one per cent premium. This was in competition with Portland bids. It's a good thing to sell bonds at home, rather than to outsiders. The community then does not lose the interest.
