J. E. Collier Builds at Bend

The Bend Press gives quite write up to the new automob vice station just built there by W. H. Mawaring and J. E. Collier of that city. The latter is a former Coquille boy and a brother of A. B. Collier, of the county clerk's office here. The Press says that its massive walls are of Central Oregon lava rock, which give a pleasing sense of pro-portion and stability. The mechanical equipment is no less noteworthy. The cost of the station will be about $7,000 of which the mechanical equipment alone represents about $2,000.
